Hurricane Death Toll Nears 100 Mark

BILOXI-GULFPORT CASUALTIES SOAR

20 Bodies Recovered, 81 Persons Reported Dead Or Missing In Storm

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The estimated death toll of the fearful hurricane that swept the gulf coast neared the 100 mark tonight as the lifting storm and receding water permitted a survey of casualties and destruction.

Death laid its heaviest hand on the resort area of the Mississippi coast in the Biloxi-Gulfport vicinity, which was flattened as if by a giant scythe.

Twenty bodies were recovered. As many as 81 persons were reported dead or missing. Damage to buildings and crops mounted into the millions of dollars. Property damage in New Orleans was heavy.

The entire coastal area was under martial law tonight as the storm, which earlier had blasted across Florida, blew itself out harmlessly in northeast Texas.

The estimated dead or missing list was swelled by reports, which the Red Cross said were not confirmed, of 16 dead at Waveland, Miss.; five to 12 dead at Pass Christian, and 21 men aboard three missing fishing boats.

"Residents fear also that as the gulf waters yield up their dead the death toll will rise much higher than at first believed," Boyle said.

Gov. Fielding H. Wright of Mississippi and his adjutant general sped to the stricken area to investigate and direct law enforcement.

TRUMAN PONDERS SPECIAL SESSION

President Wades Through Official Reports; Conflicting Views On Recall

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—President Truman waded into a mass of official reports on his arrival from Brazil today and prepared for conferences starting Monday on the pressing problem of feeding and fueling western Europe without knocking the domestic economy further askew.

The question of a special session of Congress was a particularly tough one as Mr. Truman found himself in the middle of conflicting advise on whether one is needed. He wants to hear all sides before deciding, but as of today he was described as still believing a meeting before January is unnecessary.

After a 45-minute meeting with members of his White House staff, each of whom carried in folders with gold lettering "For the Attention of the President," it was announced that he would confer with Secretary of State Marshall Monday, if not sooner, and probably receive other individual cabinet members.

Marshall is coming here tomorrow from the United Nations assembly meeting in New York. Major policy decisions awaited his oral report on the impasse in Soviet-American relations and study by his advisors and others of Europe's economic plight.

The cabinet food committee composed of Marshall, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, and Secretary of Commerce Harriman will meet Monday and will see John R. Steelman, assistant to the president, either that day or Tuesday.

ELLENDER DEALS SELF OUT OF RACE

HOUMA, La., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Senator Allen Ellender today dealt himself out of the race for the gubernatorial nomination next January and said he would run for re-election next September.

Ellender said in a statement:

"I have definitely decided not to run for governor of Louisiana in the January primary.

"After making a quick tour of the state I find that the political lines have been fairly well drawn as between the announced candidates and far be it that I should now disturb them by casting my lot at this date."

Ellender's statement said that he had decided not to take part in the primary, and added:

"I will offer my services to the people of Louisiana for an additional six years in the United States Senate in the senatorial primary to be held in September 1948."

New York Mourns LaGuardia's Death

Little Man Who Was Mayor Of Nation's Largest City For 3 Terms Dies In His Sleep; Former UNRRA Director

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Fiorello H. LaGuardia, 64, the volatile little man who was mayor of the nation's largest city for three terms, died today in his sleep, the victim of a long and wasting illness.

LaGuardia's strength and remarkable energy had been ebbing since last June when an operation disclosed an incurable pancreas condition. Tuesday night he collapsed at his home and since then had been in a coma.

Foreign dignitaries joined with American officials and public in expressing messages of regret at the passing of New York's native-son who supervised food shipments to hungry millions in other lands as former director general of UNRRA.

The United Nations general assembly paused in a 10-second silent tribute. City flags were lowered to half staff. Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister, and Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York, were among the many who issued notices of mourning.

Two doctors, LaGuardia's wife and his two adopted children, Erik, 15, and Jean, 18, were at the bedside in his home when he died at 7:22 a. m.

A funeral service will be held at 12:30 p. m. (C. S. T.) Monday in the Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine with Bishop Charles K. Gilbert of the New York diocese officiating. The public was permitted to view the body in the cathedral chapel beginning at 2 p. m. (C. S. T.) today.

LaGuardia enjoyed the confidence and esteem of New York voters as have few men. He was elected mayor as a fusion candidate in 1933 and served until Jan. 1, 1946, when he turned his office over to O'Dwyer.

His energy was prodigious. He was called "the little man who is everywhere"—and sometimes with disrespect by those who considered his actions flamboyant.

He went to fires in fireman's hat, castigated "tin horns" and gamblers, banned burlesque, and was eternally vigilant against dishonesty in city administration. Wide-brimmed hats were his trademark and New Yorkers knew their five-foot three-inch mayor as "Butch" or "The Little Flower."

La Guardia assumed the leadership of UNRRA during the final period of his last administration.

He was the only fusion candidate ever to be reelected mayor.

When he took office in 1933 the city's credit was so low that it

TRUCK DRIVER DIES IN FREAK ACCIDENT

WINNSBORO, La., Sept. 20.—(Special)—Norwood L. Glascock, 26, a truck driver for the Winnsboro Ice Company, was drowned early tonight when his automobile plunged off the highway and pinned him in a ditch filled with water by rains yesterday and today.

Glascock's machine was said to have left the highway when it failed to make a curve seven miles west of here near Big Creek bridge. The car turned over, throwing Glascock into the ditch and then pinning him into water. Dr. J. D. Rogers, Franklin parish coroner, said the young man had died by drowning.

The young man, who lived with his parents ten miles northeast of here near Swampers, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Glascock; three brothers, Sgt. Ellis L. Glascock, with the marines at Santa Ana, Calif., and Donald Glascock and Joe Mack Glascock, Swampers; two

MARSHALL PLAN GIVEN APPROVAL

Under Program U. S. Will Be Asked To Foot Bill For $16,295,000,000

PARIS, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Representatives of 16 nations, winding up two and a half months' discussions of the Marshall plan to aid Europe economically, today approved unanimously a reconstruction program under which the United States will be asked to foot a bill of at least $16,295,000,000 during the next four years.

The program will be signed formally Monday afternoon in the French foreign ministry's "clock room," when an abstract of the conference report will be released simultaneously by the 16 participating foreign ministers and the U. S. state department.

After the signing, a British "king's messenger" will leave by plane for Washington to deliver a copy of the program to U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall, who first suggested in an address at Harvard University June 5 that Europe agree upon a plan. The report, with an accompanying letter, will be handed to Secretary Marshall Tuesday.

The full report will be released simultaneously by the participants and the state department Sunday, Sept. 28.

The program, which received a final reading last night, was approved by a show of hands at a brief conference session this afternoon.

The original bill for reconstruction of the participating nations was $22,499,000,000. A conference spokesman said the delegates decided last night to reduce this by $3,394,000,000 for machinery and other capital equipment. In accordance with the suggestion of Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton, the International Bank for reconstruction and development (World Bank) will be asked to

Louisiana Crop Damage Set At More Than $10,000,000

Hurricane Leaves Ugly Path Of Flattened Cane, Corn, Cotton, Rice

ALEXANDRIA, La., Sept. 20.—(AP)—The hurricane destroyed more than $10,000,000 of Louisiana's agricultural income, County Agent William L. Roark estimated here today.

The wind-swept rain-beaten hurricane path through this farming state is ugly with flattened sugar cane, ruined cotton, uprooted corn and battered rice, the 52-year-old crop expert said.

"I'm not counting the citrus losses," he added, "since my reports are insufficient."

"Thirty to forty per cent of Louisiana cotton had not been picked and rice, unharvested because of lack of storage facilities, was caught in the field," Roark, a tall, 191-pounder, explained. "All along the hurricane path, corn was flattened and is a total loss.

"The storm no doubt will delay harvest of sugar cane. Much of it is flat in the fields—the roots are jarred and a second growth is bound to start. There won't be any harvesting around Oct. 20, the normal date for the season to begin. Cane was late this year, anyway, and now this will add to the growing time. Farmers had better pray for warm, dry weather.

North of Baton Rouge, Frank Carruth, the 3rd, assistant manager of the Catherine Sugar Company, Inc., said he believed most of the cane on his family's 2,000-acre plantation

Poetry and law don't make a bad combination, according to Salvador Murrillo, who came from Nicaragua to attend Northeast Junior College during the 1943-44 term. His book of poems, "Amor Igual a Ella," (Love Equal to Her) was recently published in Santiago, Chile, where he is studying law at the University of Chile. Reviewers speak encouragingly of the collection—its reflection of sincerity and fine quality. Murrillo's interest in poetry was a vital factor in his life during the time that he spent on the local campus, and some of the work which found its way into the volume had its beginning here.

But one must have a livelihood while he writes, young Murrillo explained in letters to Miss Hazel Mitchell, who was both his adviser and instructor at N. J. C. So he divides his interest between rhyme and law and finds the plan not too unsatisfactory to be challenging.

Ouachita Corn, Cotton Crops Suffer $125,000 Damages From Storm

Ouachita parish farmers yesterday assessed at more than $125,000 the damage inflicted on crops when the roaring fringe of a tropical hurricane whipped through the area early Friday night.

J. J. Joyce, parish agricultural agent, reported about $100,000 worth of cotton destroyed by the heavy winds and driving rains, and a little over $25,000 in corn ruin.

In addition he said, larger cotton losses would be felt during marketing because of lowered grade values.

Roofs were blown off several homes, a number of signs were hurled loose from their moorings, but otherwise there was no resemblence to the catastrophic fury that wrecked coastal cities earlier in the day.

W. D. Rodriguez, commissioner of Finance and Utilities, reported yesterday that emergency repair crews, working throughout the night, had repaired by morning all power lines cut by the storm, except for a few isolated sections.

An automobile plowing into a pole at Catalpa and Calypso streets tore down a 2300 volt primary line, Rodriguez said, and a pole and transformer in the Fairview addition were blown down by the wind. Both were

Levee Breaks Threaten City

Police Superintendent Sends Hurried Summons For Additional Help To Plug Breaks In Eastern Section

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Hurricane-borne floodwaters continued to rise on the eastern edge of New Orleans tonight, and 4,000 volunteers were called to stem the inflow.

Police Superintendent A. A. Watters reported tonight that there were increasingly-serious flood conditions in the eastern edge of New Orleans as the result of yesterday's hurricane.

He sent a hurried summons for additional civilian volunteers to help plug up breaks in a combined railroad right-of-way and levee in the area of Florida Avenue and the industrial canal.

In another area to the east, the only roads entering New Orleans from that direction, were still under water. Several motor boats were sent to rescue people from stranded busses and automobiles, and from flooded homes and other buildings.

Several miles west of the city, Moisant International Airport, used by airlines serving New Orleans, was closed because of water on the runways. Some flights were landing at an emergency field.

In Metairie, residential suburb immediately west of the city limits, waters began to recede into lake up to a record depth.

Late this afternoon army trucks and school busses had been evacuating residents, but army engineers said early tonight that the water was going down as the wind subsided.

Mayor DeLesseps S. Morrison said tonight that "except for two relatively small areas, the city is completely dry." He added that problems had been "localized" and "there was no actual danger at this time."

The problem appeared to consist of waiting for the water to go down, except in a section just east of the industrial canal which connects the Mississippi river with Lake Ponchartrain.

There, water poured through a housing project and adjacent areas after a railroad embankment serving as a levee had broken. The waters had been piled up from Lake Borgne into Bayou Bienvenue, which pushed out of its banks. Sand bags were rushed on flat cars to the scene, to plug the gaps.

Soldiers from the New Orleans port of embarkation, prisoners from the house of detention, sailors from a naval repair base, and civilian volunteers were working on the levees.

Two 50-foot breaks in the embankment were reported. A worker said there were about 21 other breaks

HORSE SHOW TO BE HELD TODAY

Fully 150 of the finest horses owned in Louisiana and other states, will be shown in the first annual Twin City Horse Show, sponsored by the Junior Charity League in the Gentry Arena, West Monroe, this afternoon at 2 and again Monday at 2 and 8 p.m. Despite the bad storm on Friday night and Saturday morning the show will be held, rain or shine, was the word passed out Saturday afternoon. And it appeared at that time that there will be fair weather prevailing Sunday. A large attendance is said to be assured.

Horse lovers who delight in seeing animals put through their paces well enough to rise early Sunday morning, are invited by Herbert J. Fink to go to his Hideaway Farm, north of the city, between 7 and 7:30 a.m. today. AUSTIN BRANDS SOVIET CHARGES FALSE, LIBELOUS

U. S. Delegate Assails Vishinsky For Sneak Attack On American Motives

DOUBT CAST IF SOVIET PURPOSES ARE PEACEFUL

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Warren R. Austin, permanent U. S. delegate to the United Nations, tonight characterized as an "absolute falsification of American motives" charges made before the U. N. general assembly by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister. The U. S. official said the "intemperance of the charges, the absolute falsification of American motives, and the libel of individuals and institutions, discouraged many Americans who have consistently believed that the Soviet purposes are peaceful."

It was Austin's first public statement since the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister accused John Foster Dulles, a U. S. delegate, and eight other Americans with war-mongering.

Dulles, himself, made a radio speech Friday night without mentioning Vishinsky's charges. But tonight in a speech before the American Association for the United Nations, Austin asserted that Vishinsky's speech probably reached its mark, namely, the people of the Soviet Union."

"Doubtless it frightens them into the belief that the United States intends to make an armed attack on Russia," Austin said. But in the United States, he added, "the effect was the reverse of the Soviet spokesman's purpose."

Austin asserted "the people of the United States and the government of

'Old Double Debbil Eye' Destruction Viewed By Boyle

By Hal Boyle

BILOXI, Miss., Sept. 20.—(AP)—A hundred-mile aerial survey today disclosed that "old double debbil eye," the Caribbean hurricane, has converted the Mississippi Gulf Coast area into a still-flooded and catastrophic ruin.

Damage may well run into the tens of millions of dollars—a $6,000,000 estimate is given for the Biloxi shrimp canning industry alone. Residents fear also that as the Gulf waters yield up their dead the death toll will rise much higher than at first believed.

Flying from New Orleans in a light plane piloted by William Hartson, we passed over a half dozen communities flailed to earth by the hurricane's hammer of wind.

Seen from the air, the Gulf Coast stretched for scores of miles in a panorama of awesome destruction. In that vast arena of desolation hundreds of people remain stranded by high waters twenty-four hours after the hurricane passed.

Intermittent rain squalls and high winds that bounced our plane around added to the misery of men, women and children below isolated from rescue workers.

The slowly falling waters of Mississippi Sound still hide much of the damage. Ground rescue workers moving into the area are hampered by the fact that the two chief channels of movement—highway Ninety and the Louisville and Nashville railroad—have been cut in several places by tidal waves.

At a highway intersection several dozen marooned motorists and bus passengers waved signals of distress. Some had stripped off their wet clothing and laid it out on a patch of dry concrete pavement to dry.

Dozens of cars were abandoned and others had skidded into ditches. Hundreds of small pleasure craft had been blown into the marshes, some lifted bodily across the highway and dumped into the fields.

As our plane swung over wind-leveled pine forests and flew along parallel to the beach, the full story of the hurricane's incredible damage unfolded.

Clermont Harbor, Waveland, Bay St. Louis, and Pass Christian—the beach residential area of each of these pleasant summer resorts had been smashed to kindling wood. Houses had been dropped into the middle of the road. Others had simply disintegrated into splintered wooden shards.

Sections of Highway Ninety and the seawall had buckled and snapped like matchsticks. Only stumps sticking out of the turbid waves showed where the piers of seafood restaurants had stood. The buildings themselves had disappeared.

With the first village began a scurf of tremendous wreckage that stretched over more than a hundred continuous miles along the coast, left there like a jumbled lumberyard by receding seas.

In Bay St. Louis only brown ties showed of the Louisville and Nashville railroad bridge across the bay. The rails had washed away. The highway bridge was interrupted by two fifty-foot gaps. A barge had smashed through one hole.

In refugee-crowded Gulfport, a fishing town of some 20,000 population, people wandered about dazedly searching for belongings. The waterfront was a line of tangled disaster in which lay huge fuel storage tanks crumpled like tin cans and a line of overturned freight cars.

The industrial east side of Biloxi, a summer playground was destroyed as thoroughly as if it had been visited by fifty bombers. The beach front had vanished. Broken planes flapped on the great Keesler airbase.

We landed on the field and went into town.

"We had 1,700 vessels in our shrimp fleet," said Tony Jurich, a fisherman, "and one fourth of them are gone. Another fifty percent is damaged.

G. B. Cousins, Sr., father of the Biloxi mayor, estimated shrimp canning plants had suffered $6,000,000 damage and wouldn't be able to operate "before six months."

The mayor, a former navy lieutenant, said a "very serious looting problem" developed before hundreds of soldiers from Keesler Field arrived and cordoned off the damage area.

Police, used rowboats and swam through seven-foot waters to rescue stranded residents.

"Our water supply is also critically short," the mayor said, "and we need immediate help from state authorities

"I'm not counting the citrus losses," he added, "since my reports are insufficient."

"Thirty to forty per cent of Louisiana cotton had not been picked and rice, unharvested because of lack of storage facilities, was caught in the field," Roark, a tall, 191-pounder, explained. "All along the hurricane path, corn was flattened and is a total loss.

"The storm no doubt will delay harvest of sugar cane. Much of it is flat in the fields—the roots are jarred and a second growth is bound to start. There won't be any harvesting around Oct. 20, the normal date for the season to begin. Cane was late this year, anyway, and now this will add to the growing time. Farmers had better pray for warm, dry weather.

North of Baton Rouge, Frank Carruth, the 3rd, assistant manager of the Catherine Sugar Company, Inc., said he believed most of the cane on his family's 2,000-acre plantation

Poetry and law don't make a bad combination, according to Salvador Murrillo, who came from Nicaragua to attend Northeast Junior College during the 1943-44 term. His book of poems, "Amor Igual a Ella," (Love Equal to Her) was recently published in Santiago, Chile, where he is studying law at the University of Chile. Reviewers speak encouragingly of the collection—its reflection of sincerity and fine quality. Murrillo's interest in poetry was a vital factor in his life during the time that he spent on the local campus, and some of the work which found its way into the volume had its beginning here.

But one must have a livelihood while he writes, young Murrillo explained in letters to Miss Hazel Mitchell, who was both his adviser and instructor at N. J. C. So he divides his interest between rhyme and law and finds the plan not too unsatisfactory to be challenging.

Ouachita parish farmers yesterday assessed at more than $125,000 the damage inflicted on crops when the roaring fringe of a tropical hurricane whipped through the area early Friday night.

J. J. Joyce, parish agricultural agent, reported about $100,000 worth of cotton destroyed by the heavy winds and driving rains, and a little over $25,000 in corn ruin.

In addition he said, larger cotton losses would be felt during marketing because of lowered grade values.

Roofs were blown off several homes, a number of signs were hurled loose from their moorings, but otherwise there was no resemblence to the catastrophic fury that wrecked coastal cities earlier in the day.

W. D. Rodriguez, commissioner of Finance and Utilities, reported yesterday that emergency repair crews, working throughout the night, had repaired by morning all power lines cut by the storm, except for a few isolated sections.

An automobile plowing into a pole at Catalpa and Calypso streets tore down a 2300 volt primary line, Rodriguez said, and a pole and transformer in the Fairview addition were blown down by the wind. Both were

Levee Breaks Threaten City

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Hurricane-borne floodwaters continued to rise on the eastern edge of New Orleans tonight, and 4,000 volunteers were called to stem the inflow.

Police Superintendent A. A. Watters reported tonight that there were increasingly-serious flood conditions in the eastern edge of New Orleans as the result of yesterday's hurricane.

He sent a hurried summons for additional civilian volunteers to help plug up breaks in a combined railroad right-of-way and levee in the area of Florida Avenue and the industrial canal.

In another area to the east, the only roads entering New Orleans from that direction, were still under water. Several motor boats were sent to rescue people from stranded busses and automobiles, and from flooded homes and other buildings.

Several miles west of the city, Moisant International Airport, used by airlines serving New Orleans, was closed because of water on the runways. Some flights were landing at an emergency field.

In Metairie, residential suburb immediately west of the city limits, waters began to recede into lake up to a record depth.

Late this afternoon army trucks and school busses had been evacuating residents, but army engineers said early tonight that the water was going down as the wind subsided.

Mayor DeLesseps S. Morrison said tonight that "except for two relatively small areas, the city is completely dry." He added that problems had been "localized" and "there was no actual danger at this time."

The problem appeared to consist of waiting for the water to go down, except in a section just east of the industrial canal which connects the Mississippi river with Lake Ponchartrain.

There, water poured through a housing project and adjacent areas after a railroad embankment serving as a levee had broken. The waters had been piled up from Lake Borgne into Bayou Bienvenue, which pushed out of its banks. Sand bags were rushed on flat cars to the scene, to plug the gaps.

Soldiers from the New Orleans port of embarkation, prisoners from the house of detention, sailors from a naval repair base, and civilian volunteers were working on the levees.

Two 50-foot breaks in the embankment were reported. A worker said there were about 21 other breaks

HORSE SHOW TO BE HELD TODAY

Fully 150 of the finest horses owned in Louisiana and other states, will be shown in the first annual Twin City Horse Show, sponsored by the Junior Charity League in the Gentry Arena, West Monroe, this afternoon at 2 and again Monday at 2 and 8 p.m. Despite the bad storm on Friday night and Saturday morning the show will be held, rain or shine, was the word passed out Saturday afternoon. And it appeared at that time that there will be fair weather prevailing Sunday. A large attendance is said to be assured.

Horse lovers who delight in seeing animals put through their paces well enough to rise early Sunday morning, are invited by Herbert J. Fink to go to his Hideaway Farm, north of the city, between 7 and 7:30 a.m. today. Jack Slayden, of Heily Springs, Miss., recognized as one of the three top trainers in America, will work out his senior mare, Miss Holly, and

AUSTIN BRANDS SOVIET CHARGES FALSE, LIBELOUS

DOUBT CAST IF SOVIET PURPOSES ARE PEACEFUL

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Warren R. Austin, permanent U. S. delegate to the United Nations, tonight characterized as an "absolute falsification of American motives" charges made before the U. N. general assembly by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister. The U. S. official said the "intemperance of the charges, the absolute falsification of American motives, and the libel of individuals and institutions, discouraged many Americans who have consistently believed that the Soviet purposes are peaceful."

It was Austin's first public statement since the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister accused John Foster Dulles, a U. S. delegate, and eight other Americans with war-mongering.

Dulles, himself, made a radio speech Friday night without mentioning Vishinsky's charges. But tonight in a speech before the American Association for the United Nations, Austin asserted that Vishinsky's speech probably reached its mark, namely, the people of the Soviet Union."

"Doubtless it frightens them into the belief that the United States intends to make an armed attack on Russia," Austin said. But in the United States, he added, "the effect was the reverse of the Soviet spokesman's purpose."

Austin asserted "the people of the United States and the government of

'Old Double Debbil Eye' Destruction Viewed By Boyle

By Hal Boyle

BILOXI, Miss., Sept. 20.—(AP)—A hundred-mile aerial survey today disclosed that "old double debbil eye," the Caribbean hurricane, has converted the Mississippi Gulf Coast area into a still-flooded and catastrophic ruin.

Damage may well run into the tens of millions of dollars—a $6,000,000 estimate is given for the Biloxi shrimp canning industry alone. Residents fear also that as the Gulf waters yield up their dead the death toll will rise much higher than at first believed.

Flying from New Orleans in a light plane piloted by William Hartson, we passed over a half dozen communities flailed to earth by the hurricane's hammer of wind.

Seen from the air, the Gulf Coast stretched for scores of miles in a panorama of awesome destruction. In that vast arena of desolation hundreds of people remain stranded by high waters twenty-four hours after the hurricane passed.

Intermittent rain squalls and high winds that bounced our plane around added to the misery of men, women and children below isolated from rescue workers.

The slowly falling waters of Mississippi Sound still hide much of the damage. Ground rescue workers moving into the area are hampered by the fact that the two chief channels of movement—highway Ninety and the Louisville and Nashville railroad—have been cut in several places by tidal waves.

At a highway intersection several dozen marooned motorists and bus passengers waved signals of distress. Some had stripped off their wet clothing and laid it out on a patch of dry concrete pavement to dry.

Dozens of cars were abandoned and others had skidded into ditches. Hundreds of small pleasure craft had been blown into the marshes, some lifted bodily across the highway and dumped into the fields.

As our plane swung over wind-leveled pine forests and flew along parallel to the beach, the full story of the hurricane's incredible damage unfolded.

Clermont Harbor, Waveland, Bay St. Louis, and Pass Christian—the beach residential area of each of these pleasant summer resorts had been smashed to kindling wood. Houses had been dropped into the middle of the road. Others had simply disintegrated into splintered wooden shards.

Sections of Highway Ninety and the seawall had buckled and snapped like matchsticks. Only stumps sticking out of the turbid waves showed where the piers of seafood restaurants had stood. The buildings themselves had disappeared.

With the first village began a scurf of tremendous wreckage that stretched over more than a hundred continuous miles along the coast, left there like a jumbled lumberyard by receding seas.

In Bay St. Louis only brown ties showed of the Louisville and Nashville railroad bridge across the bay. The rails had washed away. The highway bridge was interrupted by two fifty-foot gaps. A barge had smashed through one hole.

In refugee-crowded Gulfport, a fishing town of some 20,000 population, people wandered about dazedly searching for belongings. The waterfront was a line of tangled disaster in which lay huge fuel storage tanks crumpled like tin cans and a line of overturned freight cars.

The industrial east side of Biloxi, a summer playground was destroyed as thoroughly as if it had been visited by fifty bombers. The beach front had vanished. Broken planes flapped on the great Keesler airbase.

We landed on the field and went into town.

"We had 1,700 vessels in our shrimp fleet," said Tony Jurich, a fisherman, "and one fourth of them are gone. Another fifty percent is damaged.

G. B. Cousins, Sr., father of the Biloxi mayor, estimated shrimp canning plants had suffered $6,000,000 damage and wouldn't be able to operate "before six months."

The mayor, a former navy lieutenant, said a "very serious looting problem" developed before hundreds of soldiers from Keesler Field arrived and cordoned off the damage area.

Police, used rowboats and swam through seven-foot waters to rescue stranded residents.

EVELYN STOTZ IS GIVEN NEW POST

Named Director Of Red Cross National Blood Program

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—(Special)—Evelyn T. Stotz, former lieutenant-commander in the navy nurse corps, has been named nursing director of the American Red Cross National Blood Program, it is announced at national headquarters. She will be responsible for all nursing phases of the program.

Coincident with this announcement, Dr. Ross T. McIntire, national director of the blood program, revealed that approximately 1,400 nurses will ultimately be employed in this project, which aims at procurement of 3,700,000 pints of blood annually. Present Red Cross plans call for eventual establishment of approximately 140 metropolitan blood donor centers across the country, he stated, with many secondary centers in smaller communities, and several hundred mobile units for rural and suburban areas.

In inaugurating its program to provide blood and its derivatives to the entire nation without charge for the products, the Red Cross plans to set up six major centers within the next few months, to be followed by others. Mobile units will be placed in operation thereafter and, within three years, the secondary centers are to be established.

At major centers a senior nurse will serve as first assistant to the Red Cross medical director. In secondary centers the nurse will be solely responsible with a doctor and a technician.

Miss Stotz received her master's degree in nursing at Yale and served at New Haven, Conn., Hospital and Pratt Diagostic Hospital, Boston, before entering the navy in September, 1942. Her tour of duty took her overseas to Australia and New Guinea, and she returned to the United States in 1945. She is the daughter of Mrs. Conrad Stotz, of St. Paul, Minn.

FATHER AND SON

Shown above are Wm. F. Kitchens, 55, of Mer Rouge, and B. O. Kitchens, 34, of Jefferson, Tex., father and son, who never knew of each other's existence until recently. They met for the first time in Monroe the other day.

AFTER 34 YEARS FATHER AND SON GREET EACH OTHER HERE

A most unusual story, one replete with human interest, was disclosed in Monroe the other day when a man 34 years of age was united with his 55-year-old father for the first time. The son had never known of his father's identity and neither had seen the other until the meeting here. Also other members of the family were discovered at the same time.

The persons immediately involved were William Floyd Kitchens, the father, now a resident of Mer Rouge, and Rev. B. O. (Bud) Kitchens, the son, pastor of the Church of Jesus Christ in Jefferson, Tex.

The meeting, a most joyous and never-to-be-forgotten event, took place in the home of Mrs. P. G. Crenshaw, at 802 South Second Street, Mrs. Crenshaw being a half-sister of Rev. Kitchens.

The story dates back to Lake, Miss., where B. O. Kitchens was born, 34 years ago. His birth occurred seven months after his parents were divorced. The father left at the time the divorce was granted and never knew of the birth some months later, of his son. The baby grew up and took the name of Wright, which was the surname of the man his mother later married. In course of time, when he was about 16 years old, his mother told him that he was Kitchens' son and thereafter he took that name, but his mother told him his father was gone, no one knew where, and was out of his life forever. His mother now resides in Vivian, La., with her second husband and the son in question received his education and entered the ministry. He gave up all hope of ever locating his father.

The Rev, Mr. Kitchens has a wife and three children, daughters 16 and 12 years of age, and a son 14. For a summer vacation he went to Lake, Miss., a few weeks ago, and there a relative told him that his father lives in Mer Rouge, La., and that he has a number of relatives in Monroe. He was further informer that a sister of his father, Mrs. O. S. Hill, in Monroe, could tell him of his Monroe relatives.

He proceeded to contact Mrs. Hill and from her learned that among the relatives here is his half-sister, Mrs. Crenshaw, and a half-brother, Artes Kitchens, of 814 Oak Street, Monroe, besides other relatives here. An uncle is A. P. Kitchens, a well known grocer at 3701 Lee Avenue, Monroe.

It was a touching scene when the stalwart preacher from Texas, tearing aside the veil of mystery of years standing, was united with his father whom he greatly resembles in looks and mannerisms. Both were almost overcome with emotion. Nearby was his newly-found half-sister, Mrs. Crenshaw, and his half-brother, Artes Kitchens.

The little group reviewed the events of more than three decades and all delighted in that ultimately the fates had decreed that all should meet.

The father has remarried and his second wife, with whom he lives in Mer Rouge, was the former Miss Mary Richardson. They have been parents of nine children of whom seven are living.

10 DIPHTHERIA CASES REPORTED IN FRANKLIN

WINNSBORO, Sept. 20.—(Special)—Diphtheria in Franklin has reached alarming proportions according to Dr. A. J. Reynolds, director of the Franklin parish health unit. Ten cases have been reported in the last thirty days.

Children who have not been immunized against diphtheria are urgently requested by Dr. Reynolds to do so immediately. He said that immunization is effective in 95 per cent of cases. Proof of immunization can be established by Schick tests.

Does Stomach Gas and Bloat Make You Feel Miserable?

If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in freeing your stomach from this nervous distress. It works this way:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

VENEZUELAN LIFE DESCRIBED IN LETTER JUST RECEIVED

Mrs. C. G. Humphries, sister-in-law of Mrs. W. R. Gates, 404 Linderman Avenue, West Monroe, has written back to the Gates family an interesting letter from Venezuela where she and her husband are now located. It is as follows:

"Dear Gang:

"Here I sit in the brush country, but it is really not so bad. My trip to Miami was worse than that from Miami to Venezuela. Had quite a time with Skip. Hotels were not admitting dogs so I found a vet to board her.

"We were due to leave at 7 a.m. but didn't get on till about 7:15 p.m. —we were over Cuba at 8:45 a.m. and in Kingston about 10:20 o'clock. I can see now why people are so sold on flying—don't believe I'll ever want to travel any other way. We flew at 9,000 feet and at 190 mph which aviators regard not too fast. The steward showed a map which indicated where we were and elevation. To me it did not seem we were moving for I could not see telephone posts flitting past.

"It was smooth until just before we reached Kingston and looked then as if we would run into rain. The clouds were black overhead. Hit a few air pockets but weren't bad. We had about 25 or 30 minutes there at our first stop. We got out and stretched but were kept in a corral. A lady asked if I'd like a drink on the government. I had choice of lemonade, orangeade or Jamaica rum. I chose a little of the last named.

"Changed planes in Arubia to a smaller one. Walked Skip and the wind was terrible. The few trees are about as tall as I am and all of the tops were blown over—flat on top. Everything is so brown, nothing very green. The beach is beautiful and 18 miles long. The man across the aisle was a teacher and he told me much about the island.

"Hump met me and he had paid a native to get my things through customs, so all they did was raise the lid on each bag. It cost, in our money, about $4.50.

"I've never seen such confusion as at the airport. About 75 or 100 natives and 10 to 12 white people and such a babble! And believe me, I know how it feels to be exhibited with all the Americans here—they give you a big looking over. We are across the lake from Maracaibe and about 35 miles from the ferry. You can hardly imagine the shacks they live in and the filth. However, most of the houses are concrete block but no furnishings. Half of the places have no water, lights or gas. Our village is quite modern. We have all utilities and bath and the town does have a sewerage system and the houses are better. Our house is concrete block — white, trimmed with green. The whole house is but very little larger than your living room but Hump has painted it on the inside and it is clean. Our D. D. T. number is 23, and it is painted on the house. The government sprays for mosquitoes. We don't have our stove as yet so I go to camp every evening and I have a small gasoline hot plate to make coffee and heat soup. I finally got it to work. Wonder I didn't blow my head off!

"We have a chicken wire fence around the place—almost all fences are of such. The kids venture inside the yard to pick almonds. We also have a couple of banana trees and two trees that bear fruit but we don't yet know the name. The almonds are falling and on our tin roof—sound like baseballs. Hump had a big job Monday so he couldn't stay in Maracaibe till Monday to get my Cedula —which is my permit from the government to stay in Venezuela. So we came out to the house. Wednesday I was to meet two other women and go to Maracaibe and get my Cedula. One of the women spoke both English and Spanish and the other Spanish only. I went in on the Pony Express (daily mail truck). The driver speaks no English and it was day off for a Chinese cook and he was en route to town so I had wonderful company (?). I was to meet the women 20 miles from camp and take a taxi there. I decided to go on into town and went by the Maracaibe office and they sent a boy with me to the government offices. I don't know what he told them but we went in at 10:30 a.m. and at 11:50 I was out and the people who were there when I went in were stil waiting.

"Had to sign about 20 papers and was fingerprinted. I had lunch at the company staff house and the boy picked me up at one so on my way home I practiced a few words in Spanish on him. We agreed on a few. Autoists drive quite recklessly. Roads are blacktopped and kept up by the oil company. People dress about like in the States but you can't wear shorts or sun back dresses out of the house. Little boys go naked up to four or five years.

"The brush hasn't been cleared across the street in front of our house and burros and cattle wonder in and out. At present I am the only white woman in the village. Hope soon someone else will come. So many of the boys with the company in Panama have wives from there. They are in many cases very dark in complexion.

"The only native store where they speak English is run by a Negro from Trinidad and both he and his wife speak English. Water is on from 6 to 9, 11 to 1, and 5 to 9. I fill up everything in the house between hours. Money is a problem. A "B" is about 30 cents in our money. Our rent is 50 B's per month and a B a week for utilities which is cheaper than in the States but groceries are high. With the exception of fruits and vegetables we get along pretty well. Rent is about $19 a month.

"The sugar here looks like ice cream salt and isn't so sweet. Meals at camp are good. Last night we had fried chicken, frozen and put up in the States.

"The heat isn't so severe, in short it is cooler than in Monroe, but you can't stay in the sun for long. There is a good breeze all day but at night I use a fan.

"In Maracaibo and Cahams, peddlers ride burros with things piled high on each side, their feet around the burro's neck. Almost everyone has goats. Never saw so many. Have not seen a horse since I arrived. Plenty of pigs and chickens.

"And new cars—more here than in the states—and they sell for around $3,000. Gasoline is about the cheapest thing here. We get American magazines but they are smaler editions and are flown in here.

"If you write air mail I will get the letter in about a week. Air mail is ten cents an ounce."

THE NATION TODAY
By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The greatest argument in the labor field will soon shift to San Francisco and Boston.

This argument is among the country's highest labor leaders, over whether they should consent to swear they aren't Communist sympathizers.

San Francisco is where the A. F. of L. convention will start October 6. Boston is where the C. I. O. will start its executive board meeting October 8 and its convention October 13.

It's ironic that the anti-Communist provision of the Taft-Hartley labor law—just one among dozens of important provisions—should be creating such a huge uproar.

Among the 26 top officers of the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. some who are the strongest opponents of signing the non-Communist statements are also among the bitterest anti-Communists.

But they resent this provision of the law. They say Congress didn't ask corporation officers to sign such statements.

Even more significant is the fact that they resent the whole law. They fought its passage. They want it repealed. They don't like to cooperate with it in any way that they don't have to.

Those are some of the reasons for the existence of the big argument. Despite those motives and emotions, many leaders, especially those of the A. F. of L., decided to go ahead and sign the statements and allow their unions to reap the legal benefits that would go with it.

That is A. F. of L. unions could then continue to file cases before the National Labor Relations Board.

But John L. Lewis, one of the A. F. of L.'s 13 vice-presidents, held out against it. So far he has prevailed, because under the present rules, if only one A. F. of L. officer refuses to sign, no A. F. of L. union can use the NLRB's services.

Both the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. will have fights over the issue at their conventions.

The fights may come out in public debate, or behind the locked doors of hotel rooms.

Meantime many cases which A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions filed with the NLRB before the new law went into effect will stay frozen on the NLRB books until after the conventions.

They were to have been dismissed next week if all the required non-Communist statements were not in by that time.

But yesterday the NLRB and its independent general council, Robert N. Denham, issued a ruling which makes it possible for many of the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions to stall the dismissal of their cases until October 31.

The Taft-Hartley law forbids NLRB officials to consider any petition from a union unless the officers of that union and of its parent bodies have furnished non-Communist statements. (Union petitions are of two kinds: Accusing an employer of an unfair labor practice and asking the NLRB to certify the union to represent employes in collective bargaining.)

Thus the law prevents non-complying unions from using the services of the NLRB. But such a union might still be involved in an NLRB case against its will—for the new law permits employers to accuse unions of unfair labor practices now.

We Must Find A Solution

The rejection of nearly a hundred youngsters by both parish and city schools at the beginning of the term last week has brought into focus more sharply than ever before the seemingly inescapable shortcomings of the two school systems as they are presently constituted.

No matter what excuses and evasions are advanced for the situation by officials of either administration, the fact remains that boys and girls deserving of and entitled to a public school education were put to shameful and needless inconveniences to obtain it.

The problems arising from the existence of our two independent school systems are not new. They have presented themselves ever since the dissociation of city and parish schools. But their deep roots and repeated appearances can not be allowed to justify their continuation.

When one hundred youngsters are forced to travel from school to school without acceptance, and finally are shunted into makeshift facilities offered only under the press of the emergency, then it is indeed time to lay bare the reasons for such negligence.

That there are certain basic limitations in the organization of our separate school programs is undeniable. And that the citizens of a community which makes no determined and sincere attempts at improvement are equally at fault is also indisputable.

The condition of our educational program cannot be laid to books and buildings; it is an irrefutable indictment of ourselves.

The proposal advanced by Parish School Superintendent George Welch at a mass meeting last week must certainly be considered as one of the most commendable and unselfish attempts to solve the school impasse offered since the conflicts began.

Under the Welch plan, all school officials—members of the two school boards and the respective superintendents—would resign. In their place the people of the city and the parish together would elect a new, single board and one superintendent, the latter preferably, Mr. Welch specified, a qualified educator not previously associated with either system.

Mr. Welch firmly believes in the merits of consolidation as the most effective remedy, and to bring it about he himself, if necessary, is willing to step aside.

Because of the foresight and vision of Superintendent E. L. Neville and the late Mayor Arnold Bernstein, the city schools have always been able to take care of increases in the student body by anticipating the need for additional facilities and providing them in advance.

The parish system, likewise, has been able to take care of augmented enrollments up to this time, but because of natural increases in population, a saturation point apparently has been reached this year, due largely to the war's aftermath.

Whether consolidation, or further divorce of the two systems, or some other method, is finally adopted, it is becoming increasingly clear that the inherent rivalries and disputes between the two systems can never contribute to the harmony and efficiency essential to a flourishing educational program.

If legislative guarantees are inadequate to insure the rights of the people, then certainly some fundamental reform is called for.

If the two school boards themselves are unable to arrive at a sound and satisfactory solution, then it is incumbent upon civic leaders and private citizens to demand a change on their own, and to take the initiative in carrying it through.

We would suggest the appointment of a number of impartial businessmen to a special committee to meet with the school boards and examine the problems.

These papers are willing to throw open their columns for a week to whatever recommendations citizens of the city and parish care to submit. At the end of that time, a ballot would be run to canvass opinions on whatever remedies are proposed.

For nearly a half a century narrow partisan prejudices have beclouded the real issues. Debate after debate on the two systems have been marked by factional loyalties and short-sighted aims.

But if we are to discharge our obligations to our children, if we are ever to promote the progress of our community, then we must cast aside our rancor and biases.

This is an appeal not to sides nor to issues, but to forthright adults, who though hampered by long years of fruitless and picayunish bickering, are nevertheless prepared to assume the responsibilities of a mature society.

No matter where we have stood in the past, it is up to us now to unite our efforts to eliminate as well as we are able the man-made deficiencies of the existing system.

NO PEACE IN GERMANY

That part of Germany under American control is ready for peace, but no progress has been made in that direction, according to a report by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, military governor. All prisoners of war, totalling more than 8,000,000, have been released.

The area has been entirely disarmed. Facilities for chemical warfare have been completely destroyed, as have been ammunition and arms factories. Mine fields have been removed and U-boat pens blown up.

But progress in the activities of peace has been disappointing. Such major problems as food, fuel, clothing and shelter have not been solved. The situation is further complicated by thousands coming into the American zone in an effort to escape from the Russians.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—With every major studio reducing its payroll because of that British tax, the Motion Picture Relief Fund is now caring for more people than it did during the worst years of the depression. . . . Don't waste tears on John Loder; he's telling pals that he should be "congratulated," not pitied, for "losing" Hedy Lamarr. . . . Time out for Celeste Holm, bedded by laryngitis. . . . Jose Iturbi has been awarded the French Legion of Honor. . . . Stage Actress Collette Lyons is plotting a stay at Las Vegas, Nevada, where she will divorce Alan Dinehart, Jr.

Martha Sherrill, voted "most beautiful" by fellow members of the Models' Guild, is Hollywood bound to make screen tests for Samuel Goldwyn. . . . Blue-pencil those unfounded reports that Mary Beth Hughes and Michael North are reconciling; t'ain't so. . . . Betty Grable says that studio bosses must reconcile themselves to another lengthy break in her screen work; she intends to have another baby within the next two years. . . . News to me: that Maureen O'Hara has been studying for grand opera for the past seven years and hopes to make her debut in "La Tosca" next season.

Ann Sothern is nursing a painful leg injury, incurred while making dance scenes for "April Showers" . . . In case you're interested, the average weekly pay for by-the-hour laborors in the film studios is $109.69. . . . That phony who's gone about impersonating Jimmy Cagney for years, is reported at his old tricks again, this time in the Philippines. . . . Ha! Pat Dane's first screen job, after divorcing Tommy Dorsey, called for her to sing "Don't Fall In Love."

Preview Nights: Pic of a lightweight week: Universal-International's "Ride The Pink Horse" (Robert Montgomery-Thomas Gomez-Rita Conde). A crime thriller as novel as its title, and entertaining enough to rate a place on every adult fan's "should see" list. . . . So-so: Eagle-Lion's "Caravan" (Stewart Granger-Jean Kent-Anne Crawford). Made-in-England costume romance, so full of cliches and antiquated situations that American audiences will probably laugh at all the wrong times. . . . Republic's "Exposed" (Adele Mara-Robert Scott-Adrian Booth). The kind of Class B melodrama that leaves theatre-goers feeling stung. . . . Best performance: Robert Montgomery in "Ride The Pink Horse."

There's something a bit disheartening about the news that Peter Shaw will be dropped from MGM's list of contract players. Shaw is the young Irish actor who received a glamour build-up about a year ago when he was linked romantically with Lana Turner, Joan Crawford and Marie McDonald. Despite all of the high-pressure publicity, and in spite of MGM's "big plans" for his future, he's never been given a single screen role. To drop him without giving him an adequate opportunity to demonstrate his ability doesn't seem like fair play. In any league, a man should be given his chance at bat before he's called out.

I'm amused by the pish-posh now being dished out anent Lana Turner's profound desire to escape the penalties of fame on her forthcoming European trip. According to the reams of publicity sent me, Lana wants to make the tour unrecognized by movie fans and, in order to insure her privacy, she plans to go disguised in a black wig. Well, I'd like to offer Lana a small bet. I'll wager that she can achieve the privacy she wants—if she really wants it—by going second class, without any disguise at all, and comporting herself on all occasions like any normal American tourist. Janet Gaynor, at the very peak of her career, tried that technique and discovered that she could spend three weeks at one of the most crowded resorts in Wisconsin without a single person giving her a second glance. Incidentally, I don't think the discovery brought her unmitigated pleasure.

Mention of Lana's European junket reminds me of Joan Crawford's scheduled trip to Honolulu—and the indignation with which a certain columnist reported that the pesky fan magazines wanted to send a photographer with her, thereby robbing her of her sacred "privacy." I see no cause of indignation on anyone's part—especially Joan's. Those same fan magazines have played no small part in her climb to stardom. They were loyal to her and fought her battles on several occasions when it seemed that her career had reached its end. As old friends, who have done her immeasurable good over a long period of years, the magazine editors, I think are entitled to claim special privileges.

Trade papers report that RKO will change the title "Joan of Lorraine" to "Joan." "Stations West" will be shortened by lopping off the final letter in the first word, making it just "Station West."

All of which should prove that Hollywood's economy drive is really underway.

DOWN SOUTH

By Thurman Sensing
Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council

When Winston Churchill held out nothing but "blood, sweat, and tears" to the English people during their dark days, he was stating the price of winning the war. He was letting them know there was no easy way to victory.

The greatest need the world has at the present time is to realize that it is just as true that there is no easy way to win the peace. Perhaps "blood" and "tears" are no longer required of the people of the world now that the conflict has ended—though it would be hard to convince some parts of the world of that fact— but "sweat" is still in order.

The peace following a war is no time for a let-down. How well the people of the South found that out some eighty years ago! The South then, like the world today, had lost much of its manpower, most of its invested capital, and had had its land ravaged and destroyed by war. Neither was there any lend-lease to help the South in those days, nor any United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to help the South, nor any source from which the South could borrow money, nor any "plan" to help the South toward recovery. The South had to come back—and it has come back—by the "sweat of its brow", and there was never any question in the minds of the Southerners that they could escape the hard work the South's rehabilitation required.

The world is now in the same position as would be an individual who found it necessary to use most of his life-time savings to meet an emergency. Through two terrible world-wide wars—the second ten times more expensive than the first—the world has destroyed generations of accumulated wealth. The restoration of this wealth will be a slow process, and the peoples of the world must face the fact that it can only be done by working longer hours instead of shorter hours, by paying their own way rather than expecting someone to take care of them, by earning what they get rather than trying to get "something for nothing." The pitiable spectacle now presented by the people of Great Britain, after showing unsurpassed courage during the war years, is due entirely to their desire to attain a higher standard of living and prosperity and leisure hours without being willing to work for them. The luxuries of life are not attained simply by wanting them. It makes a sorry show indeed for nations like England and France and Italy, prostrate on their backs and fighting for their very existence, to be plagued with strikes by groups of their people who place their own self-interest above love of country.

Neither can we take the attitude in this country that we can escape the penalty of war. The wars were not fought on our soil, but we largely financed and furnished the material goods necessary for their winning. The United States came out of the second world war with a debt the like of which has not been known in the history of nations. Thus far there is no evidence that we are willing to face the fact this debt must be paid, yet the last thing we hear mentioned is any actual "plan" to retire the national debt. This debt, now amounting to eighty per cent more than the total assessed value of all our taxable property, means that we fought the war on borrowed capital. It simply represents the value of destroyed wealth accumulated through generations of hard work—destroyed just as completely as if it had all been sunk in the deepest parts of the sea. To say that we are having prosperity or that we can have prosperity as a nation so long as this debt hangs over us is simply ignoring the facts in the case.

There is no easy way to pay this debt. It can't be paid by printing more money. It can't be paid by the continuance of an extravagant national budget. It can't be paid by enormous exports of goods to foreign countries for which we get nothing in return. It can't be said by continuous demands for higher wages and shorter hours. It can only be paid by creating wealth, by greater efficiency, by producing more goods at the same cost, by willingness to work longer hours and give value received for the compensation paid, by paying the penalty of war with "the sweat of our brows."

Sunday School Lesson

Scripture: Ecclesiastes: 1:2, 17; 2:1, 11, 24; 12:1-8, 13, 14.

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

"Plans" or "goals" might be better. But the real theme is, how can one get the most out of life?

It is the question that has agitated the minds of those who have had minds to be agitated as far back as man became a thinking being. Some haven't given much thought to it; they have drifted into life, and they have drifted through it, without much thought about plans or goals. Others, alas! and many millions of them, have had to take very much what life handed to them, without much chance to determine even their daily life or their destiny. They have been among the mass of mankind, dominated and exploited, if not actually enslaved.

But among those who have given some thought to it, and to whom some choice has been possible in determining what sort of lives they would live, or how they would get the most out of life, there have been varying choices and goals. To many the chief aim has been to get as much pleasure and personal happiness out of life as possible. One philosophy (of Hedonism) claims that this is the motivation of everyone; even of the self-sacrificing and martyr-like person, who would not act as he, or she, does if that were not the most personally satisfying thing to do. That, to say the least, seems to be straining a point; and, if it were true, it might still be remarked that the pleasure of some too often means unhappiness for others.

Other goals of life have been the acquiring of wealth and possessions, often without much regard for their essential value and use; the acquisition of power, with the mastery and sway over great empires, with ruthless tyranny, or with the petty tyranny of their feebler imitators, equally ruthless in their small spheres. Gentler souls have made contemplation their chief quest, retiring into some form of cloistered living; and some have made knowledge their deepest satisfaction, often without much wisdom concerning its essential value and use.

The Hebrew prophets and poets had much to say concerning these various quests, and the greatest value in life. If the writer of the Book of Ecclesiastes seems to be an incurable pessimist, declaring that all is vanity, it should be remembered that he is exploring the futility of what he deems false and unsatisfying quests, but is setting over aaginst them what he states as man's proper and highest goal.

His "conclusion of the whole matter" is: "Fear God, and keep His commandments: for this is the whole duty of man."

What does that mean? God, to these Hebrews, was the creator and upholder of the universe. To His laws governing the earth and the heavenly bodies they found a parallel in the moral law, governing man's character and his relationship to his fellowmen. Hence the conception of righteousness and uprightness became dominant in all thought of the highest and best in life, just as the foundation, the square, and the plumbline were the symbols and essentials of all true building.

To keep the commandments was, therefore, the means and goal of the true life. In characters that need reforming, and a world that needs rebuilding, it may well be asked, is there any other way?

BIBLE THOUGHTS

God is better served in resisting a temptation to evil than in many formal prayers.—William Penn

But the very hairs of your head are all numbered.—Matthew 10:30.

Fair or foul the lot apportioned life on earth, we bear alike.—Robert Browning.

By PETER EDSON

By Peter Edson
(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON— (NEA) —The United Nations committee report, recommending partition of strife-torn Palestine into Jewish and Arab states, is a good bit like the judgment of old King Solomon in the case of the two women and the divided babe.

Gold-star Sunday School scholars all know the story. The two women came before the king, each claiming to be the mother of the same child.

"And the king said, Bring me a sword. And they brought a sword before the king.

"And the king said, Divide the child in two, and give half to one and half to the other."

Up to this point the parallel is perfect. Here is a high committee from 11 nations having no direct interest in Palestine. They are set up like 11 King Solomons to pass judgment on the case. Palestine is the child. The Jews and the Arabs, like the two mothers of Bible times, both claim it. The 11 Solomons say, "Divide the child in two, and give half to the one and half to the other."

The Jewish Zionists are apparently agreeable to this decision. But the Arabs are yelling bloody murder.

Continuing The Parable

According to the Bible parable, this might be taken to mean that Palestine rightly belongs to the Arabs. For the rest of the narrative goes like this:

"Then spake the woman whose the living child was unto the king, for her bowels yearned upon her son, and she said, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wise slay it. But the other said, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

"Then the king answered her and said, Give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: she is the mother thereof.

"And all Israel heard the judgment which the king had judged: and they feared the king: for they saw that the wisdom of God was in him, to do judgment."

There is no indication that the judgment of the UN committee on the infant Palestine is going to have such a happy ending. Partition of Palestine has been suggested since the end of World War I. The British Royal Peel commission recommended it in 1936. The Anglo-American, Grady-Morrison Cabinet committee revised the idea again last year. But there have been no takers.

The United States government has taken no official position on this proposed solution. President Truman's Day of Atonement statement, and his letters to Prime Minister Clement Attlee and King Ibn Saud last October, still stand as U. S. policy. They merely call for immediate admission of 100,000 Jewish refugee immigrants to Palestine.

No New U. S. Statement

Secretary of State George C. Marshall, in two letters to congressional groups earlier this year, declared there would be no new statement of U. S. policy on Palestine until the UN committee had reported to the coming session of the General Assembly.

If the U. S. government now agrees to partition Palestine, it may be doing itself a great disservice. To agree to partition would probably satisfy a noisy minority of American Zionists who have actively financed open revolt and bloodshed against British authority in Palestine. But such a move would alienate the Arab world and might lead to a still bloodier religious war. In the touchy state of near-eastern affair: today, American national interest needs strong support from the Arab world.

Partitioning Palestine, as now proposed, offers no lasting solution to the Arab-Jewish conflict, anyway. It merely gives the Zionists a beachhead from which to seek further expansion.

There has been too much partitioning of the postwar world as it is. India is partitioned into Hindustan and Pakistan. China is unofficially partitioned into Communist and Nationalist halves. Germany, Austria and Korea are partitioned into Communist and Allied zones. And Europe, in fact, is partitioned by an iron curtain.

Instead of achieving one world, the drift is all in the other direction—dividing it instead of uniting it. Now, if ever, is needed the wisdom of God in modern King Solomons.

Our Children

BOOKS

What makes a book unfit for youth to read? The same thing that would make it unfit for anybody to read—insincerity.

Any good work of art expresses sincerity. It is the honest expression of the thought that was in the mind of the creator. Any touch that is put in there to startle, to win the attention of those who have neither mind nor feeling for beauty, any attempt to bid for applause for anything whatever but the one definite purpose of creative expression is false and a false work is a bad work.

When some defender of such falsity says, "If you say this book is unfit for children and youth to read, how about the Bible? It should not be read either, then."

O, yes it should. The Bible was not written to exploit evil. Far from it. It was written to denounce evil and elevate good, and it does. There is no false intent in the Bible. Whatever is written there is written in the cause of truth and not in the cause of untruth.

There is the spirit of sincerity and truth in the Bible but there is none in the obscene book. The bad book drags in the evil in human nature for the sale of the book. A book that shocks is sensational and the sensational book sells well—for a time. The Bible is the best seller of all, down through the ages.

Then Shakespeare and the ancient classics come in for the same criticism. "You don't like this book? How about Shakespeare?" When any writer of this generation writes a play that can stand up beside Shakespeare's, the children and the young people can read it. I'll cheer for it.

The classics, the Shakespearian plays are written not with an eye to drawing the sensation seekers, but with an eye to life, just as it is, just as we know it to be. There is no overemphasis on evil. The work is sincere and—child or man—we can accept what life offers. It is real. It is never unmixed. It has a ring of truth and sincerity in all its dealings; but the bad book, no. It is lopsided in its falsity.

There are many good books—many good plays. Let us praise them and offer them to the children. Life has no favorites, takes no sides. The good and evil are always with us, but we always have the choice between them. Most of us—and most of the young people—will make the better book, better play, cleaner movie our choice. At least we can say which side we are on.

Children may learn unpleasant words and names in literature not suited to them. Dr. Patri recommends "Good Books For Children," in his leaflet P-8.

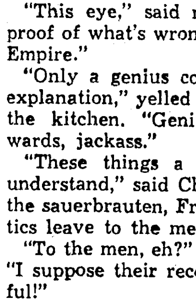
Pitching Horseshoes

By Billy Rose

I finally found out what's wrong with the British Empire.

My Uncle Charlie told me. And if my Uncle Charlie doesn't know, who does? Charlie reads Popular Mechanics and invents things. He's currently trying to patent an envelope with gummed flaps in six delicious flavors.



Billy Rose

Like Galileo, Charlie is not appreciated by his contemporaries. This includes his wife, Frieda. Except for the week when Aunt Frieda was visiting her sick sister in Philadelphia, she and Charlie have had an argument every day of their forty years of married life. When they stop fighting, I'll start worrying about them.

But to get back to the British Empire. I went down to the East Side last night to stoke up on Aunt Frieda's sauerbrauten and candied red cabbage. When I walked into their shoe box of a flat, I noticed my uncle was sporting an eye the color of a huckleberry tart.

"Charlie"! I said. "You sweet, simple sonofagun. Who gave you the shiner?"

"This eye," said my uncle, "is the proof of what's wrong with the British Empire."

"Only a genius could give such an explanation," yelled Aunt Frieda from the kitchen. "Genius—spelled backwards, jackass."

"These things a woman does not understand," said Charlie. "You make the sauerbrauten, Frieda. World politics leave to the men."

"To the men, eh?" snapped my aunt. "I suppose their record is so wonderful!"

Charlie pretended not to hear her. "About the British," he said. "I'm reading where Princess Elizabeth is making a marriage with a Lieutenant Philip-Something. I am also seeing pictures of the engagement party in the palace. In these pictures everybody is making a face like he would like to take his shoes off. Only the King and Queen look happy—which is natural considering they are getting rid of their oldest daughter.

"Now, if I am invited to such a party I don't go. No singing. No dancing. No speech making. Where is the fun? And where is the romance? Has another young fellow got a chance to get the Princess in a corner and say, 'Why marry a fellow with such skinny legs?' Of course not. Everything in England is with rules and traditions. And in a crazy world which is making up new rules every five minutes, an Empire which is running by old rules is liable to come unstuck."

"H. V. Kaltenborn couldn't do better," I said. "But what has Princess Elizabeth got to do with your black eye?"

"This," said Charlie. "The black eye shows why things are more hunky dooley in American than in England. For instance, day before yesterday, Mr. Fabian, my chess partner, is inviting me and Frieda to an engagement party for his daughter, Patty. Patty is becoming engaged to Joe Weiner, a salesman who is driving a convertible car where he presses a button and the top goes up and down. At the engagement party is also Danny Gordon, who used to go around with Pattty until she met the salesman. Everybody is feeling sorry for Danny, who is a very nice fellow and goes to law school by night and does not yet bring home a dollar.

"Mr. Fabian's house is fixed up very fancy, with a buffet with several different kinds delicatessen and a punch bowl which is more schnapps than punch. Buckingham Palace, I'm betting, hasn't got a nicer punch bowl."

"Excepting," hollered Aunt Frieda from the kitchen, "Mrs. Fabian had to borrow the punch bowl from her sister, Anna, and the King of England owns one free and clear."

"Everybody is enjoying the different kinds delicatessen," continued Charlie, "when all of a sudden comes such an excitement! Joe Weiner, Patty's intended, slaps Danny Gordon between the shoulders, and says, 'Drink hearty. The best man won.' Danny Gordon, an American-born boy, does not think this is very funny. Danny shows he does not think it is funny by grabbing Joe Weiner, the salesman, and pushing his face down in the punch bowl. The salesman reaches for a big plate of potato salad and hits Danny on the side of the head with it. Patty starts to holler on the salesman. She says she made the potato salad with her own hands, that it is very good potato salad, and was not intended for hitting people on the side of the head.

"At the same time, several of the regulars from the coffee house are having a conversation with some of the salesman's friends from uptown. Suddenly somebody lets fly a plate pastrami. Now the engagement party really becomes a party. I am defending myself with a salami when everything goes black. Meyer tells me someone is hitting me in the eye with a three-pound pumpernickel. When I open my eyes again, I see Pattty cleaning out the potato salad from Danny Gordon's ears and telling him it was all a mistake and she is loving him very truly. The salesman and his friends from uptown are going home in the convertible where you press a button and the top goes up and down. The party continues with everybody kissing everybody. The bride's father reads his speech, putting Danny's name in the appropriate places instead of the salesman."

"What has all this to do," I asked Uncle Charlie, "with Ernest Bevin, Sir Stafford Cripps, and Mother India?"

"Everything," said Charlie. "Only in America could happen such a party and such a shuffling from plans."

"But how about their Labor Government?" I asked Charlie. "How about its new plan to nationalize everything?"

We Must Find A Solution

The rejection of nearly a hundred youngsters by both parish and city schools at the beginning of the term last week has brought into focus more sharply than ever before the seemingly inescapable shortcomings of the two school systems as they are presently constituted.

No matter what excuses and evasions are advanced for the situation by officials of either administration, the fact remains that boys and girls deserving of and entitled to a public school education were put to shameful and needless inconveniences to obtain it.

The problems arising from the existence of our two independent school systems are not new. They have presented themselves ever since the dissociation of city and parish schools. But their deep roots and repeated appearances can not be allowed to justify their continuation.

When one hundred youngsters are forced to travel from school to school without acceptance, and finally are shunted into makeshift facilities offered only under the press of the emergency, then it is indeed time to lay bare the reasons for such negligence.

That there are certain basic limitations in the organization of our separate school programs is undeniable. And that the citizens of a community which makes no determined and sincere attempts at improvement are equally at fault is also indisputable.

The condition of our educational program cannot be laid to books and buildings; it is an irrefutable indictment of ourselves.

The proposal advanced by Parish School Superintendent George Welch at a mass meeting last week must certainly be considered as one of the most commendable and unselfish attempts to solve the school impasse offered since the conflicts began.

Under the Welch plan, all school officials—members of the two school boards and the respective superintendents—would resign. In their place the people of the city and the parish together would elect a new, single board and one superintendent, the latter preferably, Mr. Welch specified, a qualified educator not previously associated with either system.

Mr. Welch firmly believes in the merits of consolidation as the most effective remedy, and to bring it about he himself, if necessary, is willing to step aside.

Because of the foresight and vision of Superintendent E. L. Neville and the late Mayor Arnold Bernstein, the city schools have always been able to take care of increases in the student body by anticipating the need for additional facilities and providing them in advance.

The parish system, likewise, has been able to take care of augmented enrollments up to this time, but because of natural increases in population, a saturation point apparently has been reached this year, due largely to the war's aftermath.

Whether consolidation, or further divorce of the two systems, or some other method, is finally adopted, it is becoming increasingly clear that the inherent rivalries and disputes between the two systems can never contribute to the harmony and efficiency essential to a flourishing educational program.

If legislative guarantees are inadequate to insure the rights of the people, then certainly some fundamental reform is called for.

If the two school boards themselves are unable to arrive at a sound and satisfactory solution, then it is incumbent upon civic leaders and private citizens to demand a change on their own, and to take the initiative in carrying it through.

We would suggest the appointment of a number of impartial businessmen to a special committee to meet with the school boards and examine the problems.

These papers are willing to throw open their columns for a week to whatever recommendations citizens of the city and parish care to submit. At the end of that time, a ballot would be run to canvass opinions on whatever remedies are proposed.

For nearly a half a century narrow partisan prejudices have beclouded the real issues. Debate after debate on the two systems have been marked by factional loyalties and short-sighted aims.

But if we are to discharge our obligations to our children, if we are ever to promote the progress of our community, then we must cast aside our rancor and biases.

This is an appeal not to sides nor to issues, but to forthright adults, who though hampered by long years of fruitless and picayunish bickering, are nevertheless prepared to assume the responsibilities of a mature society.

No matter where we have stood in the past, it is up to us now to unite our efforts to eliminate as well as we are able the man-made deficiencies of the existing system.

NO PEACE IN GERMANY

That part of Germany under American control is ready for peace, but no progress has been made in that direction, according to a report by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, military governor. All prisoners of war, totalling more than 8,000,000, have been released.

The area has been entirely disarmed. Facilities for chemical warfare have been completely destroyed, as have been ammunition and arms factories. Mine fields have been removed and U-boat pens blown up.

But progress in the activities of peace has been disappointing. Such major problems as food, fuel, clothing and shelter have not been solved. The situation is further complicated by thousands coming into the American zone in an effort to escape from the Russians.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—With every major studio reducing its payroll because of that British tax, the Motion Picture Relief Fund is now caring for more people than it did during the worst years of the depression. . . . Don't waste tears on John Loder; he's telling pals that he should be "congratulated," not pitied, for "losing" Hedy Lamarr. . . . Time out for Celeste Holm, bedded by laryngitis. . . . Jose Iturbi has been awarded the French Legion of Honor. . . . Stage Actress Collette Lyons is plotting a stay at Las Vegas, Nevada, where she will divorce Alan Dinehart, Jr.

Martha Sherrill, voted "most beautiful" by fellow members of the Models' Guild, is Hollywood bound to make screen tests for Samuel Goldwyn. . . . Blue-pencil those unfounded reports that Mary Beth Hughes and Michael North are reconciling; t'ain't so. . . . Betty Grable says that studio bosses must reconcile themselves to another lengthy break in her screen work; she intends to have another baby within the next two years. . . . News to me: that Maureen O'Hara has been studying for grand opera for the past seven years and hopes to make her debut in "La Tosca" next season.

Ann Sothern is nursing a painful leg injury, incurred while making dance scenes for "April Showers" . . . In case you're interested, the average weekly pay for by-the-hour laborors in the film studios is $109.69. . . . That phony who's gone about impersonating Jimmy Cagney for years, is reported at his old tricks again, this time in the Philippines. . . . Ha! Pat Dane's first screen job, after divorcing Tommy Dorsey, called for her to sing "Don't Fall In Love."

Preview Nights: Pic of a lightweight week: Universal-International's "Ride The Pink Horse" (Robert Montgomery-Thomas Gomez-Rita Conde). A crime thriller as novel as its title, and entertaining enough to rate a place on every adult fan's "should see" list. . . . So-so: Eagle-Lion's "Caravan" (Stewart Granger-Jean Kent-Anne Crawford). Made-in-England costume romance, so full of cliches and antiquated situations that American audiences will probably laugh at all the wrong times. . . . Republic's "Exposed" (Adele Mara-Robert Scott-Adrian Booth). The kind of Class B melodrama that leaves theatre-goers feeling stung. . . . Best performance: Robert Montgomery in "Ride The Pink Horse."

There's something a bit disheartening about the news that Peter Shaw will be dropped from MGM's list of contract players. Shaw is the young Irish actor who received a glamour build-up about a year ago when he was linked romantically with Lana Turner, Joan Crawford and Marie McDonald. Despite all of the high-pressure publicity, and in spite of MGM's "big plans" for his future, he's never been given a single screen role. To drop him without giving him an adequate opportunity to demonstrate his ability doesn't seem like fair play. In any league, a man should be given his chance at bat before he's called out.

I'm amused by the pish-posh now being dished out anent Lana Turner's profound desire to escape the penalties of fame on her forthcoming European trip. According to the reams of publicity sent me, Lana wants to make the tour unrecognized by movie fans and, in order to insure her privacy, she plans to go disguised in a black wig. Well, I'd like to offer Lana a small bet. I'll wager that she can achieve the privacy she wants—if she really wants it—by going second class, without any disguise at all, and comporting herself on all occasions like any normal American tourist. Janet Gaynor, at the very peak of her career, tried that technique and discovered that she could spend three weeks at one of the most crowded resorts in Wisconsin without a single person giving her a second glance. Incidentally, I don't think the discovery brought her unmitigated pleasure.

Mention of Lana's European junket reminds me of Joan Crawford's scheduled trip to Honolulu—and the indignation with which a certain columnist reported that the pesky fan magazines wanted to send a photographer with her, thereby robbing her of her sacred "privacy." I see no cause of indignation on anyone's part—especially Joan's. Those same fan magazines have played no small part in her climb to stardom. They were loyal to her and fought her battles on several occasions when it seemed that her career had reached its end. As old friends, who have done her immeasurable good over a long period of years, the magazine editors, I think are entitled to claim special privileges.

Trade papers report that RKO will change the title "Joan of Lorraine" to "Joan." "Stations West" will be shortened by lopping off the final letter in the first word, making it just "Station West."

All of which should prove that Hollywood's economy drive is really underway.

DOWN SOUTH

By Thurman Sensing
Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council

When Winston Churchill held out nothing but "blood, sweat, and tears" to the English people during their dark days, he was stating the price of winning the war. He was letting them know there was no easy way to victory.

The greatest need the world has at the present time is to realize that it is just as true that there is no easy way to win the peace. Perhaps "blood" and "tears" are no longer required of the people of the world now that the conflict has ended—though it would be hard to convince some parts of the world of that fact— but "sweat" is still in order.

The peace following a war is no time for a let-down. How well the people of the South found that out some eighty years ago! The South then, like the world today, had lost much of its manpower, most of its invested capital, and had had its land ravaged and destroyed by war. Neither was there any lend-lease to help the South in those days, nor any United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to help the South, nor any source from which the South could borrow money, nor any "plan" to help the South toward recovery. The South had to come back—and it has come back—by the "sweat of its brow", and there was never any question in the minds of the Southerners that they could escape the hard work the South's rehabilitation required.

The world is now in the same position as would be an individual who found it necessary to use most of his life-time savings to meet an emergency. Through two terrible world-wide wars—the second ten times more expensive than the first—the world has destroyed generations of accumulated wealth. The restoration of this wealth will be a slow process, and the peoples of the world must face the fact that it can only be done by working longer hours instead of shorter hours, by paying their own way rather than expecting someone to take care of them, by earning what they get rather than trying to get "something for nothing." The pitiable spectacle now presented by the people of Great Britain, after showing unsurpassed courage during the war years, is due entirely to their desire to attain a higher standard of living and prosperity and leisure hours without being willing to work for them. The luxuries of life are not attained simply by wanting them. It makes a sorry show indeed for nations like England and France and Italy, prostrate on their backs and fighting for their very existence, to be plagued with strikes by groups of their people who place their own self-interest above love of country.

Neither can we take the attitude in this country that we can escape the penalty of war. The wars were not fought on our soil, but we largely financed and furnished the material goods necessary for their winning. The United States came out of the second world war with a debt the like of which has not been known in the history of nations. Thus far there is no evidence that we are willing to face the fact this debt must be paid, yet the last thing we hear mentioned is any actual "plan" to retire the national debt. This debt, now amounting to eighty per cent more than the total assessed value of all our taxable property, means that we fought the war on borrowed capital. It simply represents the value of destroyed wealth accumulated through generations of hard work—destroyed just as completely as if it had all been sunk in the deepest parts of the sea. To say that we are having prosperity or that we can have prosperity as a nation so long as this debt hangs over us is simply ignoring the facts in the case.

There is no easy way to pay this debt. It can't be paid by printing more money. It can't be paid by the continuance of an extravagant national budget. It can't be paid by enormous exports of goods to foreign countries for which we get nothing in return. It can't be said by continuous demands for higher wages and shorter hours. It can only be paid by creating wealth, by greater efficiency, by producing more goods at the same cost, by willingness to work longer hours and give value received for the compensation paid, by paying the penalty of war with "the sweat of our brows."

Sunday School Lesson

Scripture: Ecclesiastes: 1:2, 17; 2:1, 11, 24; 12:1-8, 13, 14.

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

"Plans" or "goals" might be better. But the real theme is, how can one get the most out of life?

It is the question that has agitated the minds of those who have had minds to be agitated as far back as man became a thinking being. Some haven't given much thought to it; they have drifted into life, and they have drifted through it, without much thought about plans or goals. Others, alas! and many millions of them, have had to take very much what life handed to them, without much chance to determine even their daily life or their destiny. They have been among the mass of mankind, dominated and exploited, if not actually enslaved.

But among those who have given some thought to it, and to whom some choice has been possible in determining what sort of lives they would live, or how they would get the most out of life, there have been varying choices and goals. To many the chief aim has been to get as much pleasure and personal happiness out of life as possible. One philosophy (of Hedonism) claims that this is the motivation of everyone; even of the self-sacrificing and martyr-like person, who would not act as he, or she, does if that were not the most personally satisfying thing to do. That, to say the least, seems to be straining a point; and, if it were true, it might still be remarked that the pleasure of some too often means unhappiness for others.

Other goals of life have been the acquiring of wealth and possessions, often without much regard for their essential value and use; the acquisition of power, with the mastery and sway over great empires, with ruthless tyranny, or with the petty tyranny of their feebler imitators, equally ruthless in their small spheres. Gentler souls have made contemplation their chief quest, retiring into some form of cloistered living; and some have made knowledge their deepest satisfaction, often without much wisdom concerning its esential value and use.

The Hebrew prophets and poets had much to say concerning these various quests, and the greatest value in life. If the writer of the Book of Ecclesiastes seems to be an incurable pessimist, declaring that all is vanity, it should be remembered that he is exploring the futility of what he deems false and unsatisfying quests, but is setting over aaginst them what he states as man's proper and highest goal.

His "conclusion of the whole matter" is: "Fear God, and keep His commandments: for this is the whole duty of man."

What does that mean? God, to these Hebrews, was the creator and upholder of the universe. To His laws governing the earth and the heavenly bodies they found a parallel in the moral law, governing man's character and his relationship to his fellowmen. Hence the conception of righteousness and uprightness became dominant in all thought of the highest and best in life, just as the foundation, the square, and the plumbline were the symbols and essentials of all true building.

To keep the commandments was, therefore, the means and goal of the true life. In characters that need reforming, and a world that needs rebuilding, it may well be asked, is there any other way?

BIBLE THOUGHTS

God is better served in resisting a temptation to evil than in many formal prayers.—William Penn

But the very hairs of your head are all numbered.—Matthew 10:30.

Fair or foul the lot apportioned life on earth, we bear alike.—Robert Browning.

By PETER EDSON

By Peter Edson
(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON— (NEA) —The United Nations committee report, recommending partition of strife-torn Palestine into Jewish and Arab states, is a good bit like the judgment of old King Solomon in the case of the two women and the divided babe.

Gold-star Sunday School scholars all know the story. The two women came before the king, each claiming to be the mother of the same child.

"And the king said, Bring me a sword. And they brought a sword before the king.

"And the king said, Divide the child in two, and give half to one and half to the other."

Up to this point the parallel is perfect. Here is a high committee from 11 nations having no direct interest in Palestine. They are set up like 11 King Solomons to pass judgment on the case. Palestine is the child. The Jews and the Arabs, like the two mothers of Bible times, both claim it. The 11 Solomons say, "Divide the child in two, and give half to the one and half to the other."

The Jewish Zionists are apparently agreeable to this decision. But the Arabs are yelling bloody murder.

Continuing The Parable

According to the Bible parable, this might be taken to mean that Palestine rightly belongs to the Arabs. For the rest of the narrative goes like this:

"Then spake the woman whose the living child was unto the king, for her bowels yearned upon her son, and she said, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wise slay it. But the other said, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

"Then the king answered her and said, Give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: she is the mother thereof.

"And all Israel heard the judgment which the king had judged: and they feared the king: for they saw that the wisdom of God was in him, to do judgment."

There is no indication that the judgment of the UN committee on the infant Palestine is going to have such a happy ending. Partition of Palestine has been suggested since the end of World War I. The British Royal Peel commission recommended it in 1936. The Anglo-American, Grady-Morrison Cabinet committee revised the idea again last year. But there have been no takers.

The United States government has taken no official position on this proposed solution. President Truman's Day of Atonement statement, and his letters to Prime Minister Clement Attlee and King Ibn Saud last October, still stand as U. S. policy. They merely call for immediate admission of 100,000 Jewish refugee immigrants to Palestine.

No New U. S. Statement

Secretary of State George C. Marshall, in two letters to congressional groups earlier this year, declared there would be no new statement of U. S. policy on Palestine until the UN committee had reported to the coming session of the General Assembly.

If the U. S. government now agrees to partition Palestine, it may be doing itself a great disservice. To agree to partition would probably satisfy a noisy minority of American Zionists who have actively financed open revolt and bloodshed against British authority in Palestine. But such a move would alienate the Arab world and might lead to a still bloodier religious war. In the touchy state of near-eastern affairs today, American national interest needs strong support from the Arab world.

Partitioning Palestine, as now proposed, offers no lasting solution to the Arab-Jewish conflict, anyway. It merely gives the Zionists a beachhead from which to seek further expansion.

There has been too much partitioning of the postwar world as it is. India is partitioned into Hindustan and Pakistan. China is unofficially partitioned into Communist and Nationalist halves. Germany, Austria and Korea are partitioned into Communist and Allied zones. And Europe, in fact, is partitioned by an iron curtain.

Instead of achieving one world, the drift is all in the other direction—dividing it instead of uniting it. Now, if ever, is needed the wisdom of God in modern King Solomons.

Our Children

BOOKS

What makes a book unfit for youth to read? The same thing that would make it unfit for anybody to read—insincerity.

Any good work of art expresses sincerity. It is the honest expression of the thought that was in the mind of the creator. Any touch that is put in there to startle, to win the attention of those who have neither mind nor feeling for beauty, any attempt to bid for applause for anything whatever but the one definite purpose of creative expression is false and a false work is a bad work.

When some defender of such falsity says, "If you say this book is unfit for children and youth to read, how about the Bible? It should not be read either, then."

O, yes it should. The Bible was not written to exploit evil. Far from it. It was written to denounce evil and elevate good, and it does. There is no false intent in the Bible. Whatever is written there is written in the cause of truth and not in the cause of untruth.

There is the spirit of sincerity and truth in the Bible but there is none in the obscene book. The bad book drags in the evil in human nature for the sale of the book. A book that shocks is sensational and the sensational book sells well—for a time. The Bible is the best seller of all, down through the ages.

Then Shakespeare and the ancient classics come in for the same criticism. "You don't like this book? How about Shakespeare?" When any writer of this generation writes a play that can stand up beside Shakespeare's, the children and the young people can read it. I'll cheer for it.

The classics, the Shakespearian plays are written not with an eye to drawing the sensation seekers, but with an eye to life, just as it is, just as we know it to be. There is no overemphasis on evil. The work is sincere and—child or man—we can accept what life offers. It is real. It is never unmixed. It has a ring of truth and sincerity in all its dealings; but the bad book, no. It is lopsided in its falsity.

There are many good books—many good plays. Let us praise them and offer them to the children. Life has no favorites, takes no sides. The good and evil are always with us, but we always have the choice between them. Most of us—and most of the young people—will make the better book, better play, cleaner movie our choice. At least we can say which side we are on.

Children may learn unpleasant words and names in literature not suited to them. Dr. Patri recommends "Good Books For Children," in his leaflet P-8.

Pitching Horseshoes

By Billy Rose

I finally found out what's wrong with the British Empire.

My Uncle Charlie told me. And if my Uncle Charlie doesn't know, who does? Charlie reads Popular Mechanics and invents things. He's currently trying to patent an envelope with gummed flaps in six delicious flavors.

Billy Rose

Like Galileo, Charlie is not appreciated by his contemporaries. This includes his wife, Frieda. Except for the week when Aunt Frieda was visiting her sick sister in Philadelphia, she and Charlie have had an argument every day of their forty years of married life. When they stop fighting, I'll start worrying about them.

But to get back to the British Empire. I went down to the East Side last night to stoke up on Aunt Frieda's sauerbrauten and candied red cabbage. When I walked into their shoe box of a flat, I noticed my uncle was sporting an eye the color of a huckleberry tart.

"Charlie"! I said. "You sweet, simple sonofagun. Who gave you the shiner?"

"This eye," said my uncle, "is the proof of what's wrong with the British Empire."

"Only a genius could give such an explanation," yelled Aunt Frieda from the kitchen. "Genius—spelled backwards, jackass."

"These things a woman does not understand," said Charlie. "You make the sauerbrauten, Frieda. World politics leave to the men."

"To the men, eh?" snapped my aunt. "I suppose their record is so wonderful!"

Charlie pretended not to hear her. "About the British," he said. "I'm reading where Princess Elizabeth is making a marriage with a Lieutenant Philip-Something. I am also seeing pictures of the engagement party in the palace. In these pictures everybody is making a face like he would like to take his shoes off. Only the King and Queen look happy—which is natural considering they are getting rid of their oldest daughter.

"Now, if I am invited to such a party I don't go. No singing. No dancing. No speech making. Where is the fun? And where is the romance? Has another young fellow got a chance to get the Princess in a corner and say, 'Why marry a fellow with such skinny legs?' Of course not. Everything in England is with rules and traditions. And in a crazy world which is making up new rules every five minutes, an Empire which is running by old rules is liable to come unstuck."

"H. V. Kaltenborn couldn't do better," I said. "But what has Princess Elizabeth got to do with your black eye?"

"This," said Charlie. "The black eye shows why things are more hunky dooley in American than in England. For instance, day before yesterday, Mr. Fabian, my chess partner, is inviting me and Frieda to an engagement party for his daughter, Patty. Patty is becoming engaged to Joe Weiner, a salesman who is driving a convertible car where he presses a button and the top goes up and down. At the engagement party is also Danny Gordon, who used to go around with Pattty until she met the salesman. Everybody is feeling sorry for Danny, who is a very nice fellow and goes to law school by night and does not yet bring home a dollar.

"Mr. Fabian's house is fixed up very fancy, with a buffet with several different kinds delicatessen and a punch bowl which is more schnapps than punch. Buckingham Palace, I'm betting, hasn't got a nicer punch bowl."

"Excepting," hollered Aunt Frieda from the kitchen, "Mrs. Fabian had to borrow the punch bowl from her sister, Anna, and the King of England owns one free and clear."

"Everybody is enjoying the different kinds delicatessen," continued Charlie, "when all of a sudden comes such an excitement! Joe Weiner, Patty's intended, slaps Danny Gordon between the shoulders, and says, 'Drink hearty. The best man won.' Danny Gordon, an American-born boy, does not think this is very funny. Danny shows he does not think it is funny by grabbing Joe Weiner, the salesman, and pushing his face down in the punch bowl. The salesman reaches for a big plate of potato salad and hits Danny on the side of the head with it. Patty starts to holler on the salesman. She says she made the potato salad with her own hands, that it is very good potato salad, and was not intended for hitting people on the side of the head.

"At the same time, several of the regulars from the coffee house are having a conversation with some of the salesman's friends from uptown. Suddenly somebody lets fly a plate pastrami. Now the engagement party really becomes a party. I am defending myself with a salami when everything goes black. Meyer tells me someone is hitting me in the eye with a three-pound pumpernickel. When I open my eyes again, I see Pattty cleaning out the potato salad from Danny Gordon's ears and telling him it was all a mistake and she is loving him very truly. The salesman and his friends from uptown are going home in the convertible where you press a button and the top goes up and down. The party continues with everybody kissing everybody. The bride's father reads his speech, putting Danny's name in the appropriate places instead of the salesman."

"What has all this to do," I asked Uncle Charlie, "with Ernest Bevin, Sir Stafford Cripps, and Mother India?"

"Everything," said Charlie. "Only in America could happen such a party and such a shuffling from plans."

"But how about their Labor Government?" I asked Charlie. "How about its new plan to nationalize everything?"

OCCUPATION COST CITED BY ROYALL

Hundreds Of Millions More Needed To Feed Germany, Japan, Halt Communism

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall reported to Senators today that the cost of occupying Germany, Japan and other areas, coupled with England's "dollar shortage", will mean additional hundreds of millions from the United States treasury.

Royall told a closed-door session of the Senate Appropriations committee that at least $265,000,000 more than the $600,000,000 that congress provided will be required before next July 1.

But Senator Gurney (R-SD), chairman of the Armed Services committee who also serves on Appropriations, estimated that "another half billion dollars" will be needed between now and the end of the fiscal year next July.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) told reporters a special session of congress is required before the regular January meeting. O'Mahoney said "The issue here is whether to let Germany starve or let Communism take over."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) disagreed, saying "nothing presented here indicates the need for a special session." Agreeing with Ferguson was Chairman Bridges (R-NH) who called today's meeting but said he planned no formal follow-up action.

Bridges also said that if the U. S. is called on to pay a greater share of German-Austrian occupation costs—now split 50-50 with Britain in the bizonal areas—he will insist this country's controls there be increased accordingly.

He disclosed that British-American discussions regarding possible revision.

A copy of his formal statement became available after his closed door testimony.

In it Royall reminded the Senators that the agreement expires at the end of this year and Prime Minister Attlee indicated in a speech to the House of Commons that "after the present arrangement runs out, Britain can not continue to supply dollars under the bi-zonal agreement." At the same time Royall promised senators that United States Representatives "will use every reasonable effort in our conversations with the British to obtain the maximum contribution possible."

Royall stated he had not been informed of what percentage or share of costs the British will ask the United States to assume when the 50-50 agreement ends. (There has been mention of an 85 per cent figure.) The chairman was asked whether American dollars would be used to pay British occupation troops.

three of the Hideaway string. These are Makers Igo, which finished third in the two-year-old stallion gelding class at the world championship show in Shelbyville recently; Miss Monroe, a junior mare, which was fourth in her class and Wilson Allen, fourth in the stud division at the same show.

Several five-gaited horses, always of interest, will give a thrilling performance. Competition in the five-gaited class calls for performance of the gaits prescribed by the American Saddle Horse Breeders Association—flat-footed walk, canter, trot, slow gait and rack. All entries in the three-gaited division are required to perform at a walk, trot and canter.

Another feature of the show will be the donation of two fine colts by Brewer Haynes, of West Monroe.

The interest that the sponsoring Junior Charity League is taking in the show comprises the fact that a percentage of the net profits will go to this group and will be used to care for less privileged in the community. Each year the league raises money through some source to be devoted to charity. This year the horse show was decided upon as the best available means of securing needed cash.

The show has been managed by Vernon E. La Cour for the North Louisiana Rodeo and Horse Show Association, and he has been untiring in his efforts to produce an exhibition that will be long remembered for its outstanding features.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Menefee will entertain all participants in the show and all Junior League committee chairmen and their assistants at a barbecue Sunday night in the park that adjoins the arena. The park has been specially lighted and placed in readiness to entertain the party.

The source said the delegates maintained that since the various world currencies are supposed to be freely convertible into dollars by 1951 under the Marshall plan, the surplus could be applied to the western hemisphere deficit.

The chief purpose of the conference was to determine what degree of self-help could be organized by Europe before calling on the United States for assistance, in accordance with Marshall's suggestions.

There was no electrical power in Biloxi, a city of 35,000. Residents moved soaked household belongings out on the sidewalks to dry.

Voluntary cooperation by the ctiy's taxi companies enabled police to move 5,000 persons to school shelters from the perilous beachfront, a move which kept down loss of life.

The Red Cross housed and fed 8,000 people in the shelters and Mrs. Mollie Hodges, a disaster worker from Meridian, Miss., said "at least 1,000 still need to be supplied with food and household goods."

As we flew back along the devastated zone we noted one thing: The damage was heavily concentrated along the beachfront where nothing withstood the titanic thrust of wind-borne water. Homes and buildings protected by trees a few blocks from the shore suffered relatively slight damage.

Levee board engineers said that after the embankment had been repaired, the water remaining inside would have to be pumped out.

The port of New Orleans suffered comparatively minor damage. Principal loss along the 22 miles of docks was the destruction of a wharf owned by the Southern Pacific Lines.

The New Orleans port commission, which owns most of the docks and facilities, reported that its only facility damaged was the public grain elevator.

"Bub-O-Leon", which bids fair to rival the past popularity of the yo-yo craze, has struck here in earnest. It has, all resulted through the discovery in a New York research laboratory last March of a plastic balloon. Something new was born of that experiment and a Bub-O-Leon Inc., company came into being backed by a group of Hollywood executives and performers. They chipped in a pool, $180,000, just to see if the novelty would click. It clicked far beyond expectations and every five and ten in the land is now either selling them or is about to put in this line. In two weeks 100,000 sets were sold and sales are growing as fast as a snowball rolling down hill. The men who own the company are anticipating another fortune from their efforts.

He said that "we refuse to believe that it was Mr. Vishinsky's intention to reflect on the honor of our country."

The United States, Austin said, still believes "that peace is the purpose of all countries, both governments and people," although he said that "the methods practiced by them differ."

"We believe," he added, "that those followed by the Soviet Union are ill-conceived and have more tendency to generate hate and war than love and peace."

"These methods, which led to Mr. Vishinsky's speech," he said, "include obstruction of the will of the majority in the establishment of peace forces by the security council, in the atomic energy commission and in the commission on conventional armaments."

Youngsters from Eastport, Maine to San Diego, Calif., and that includes kiddies of the Twin Cities, are just bubbling over these days. "Bub-O-Leon", which bids fair to rival the past popularity of the yo-yo craze, has struck here in earnest. It has, all resulted through the discovery in a New York research laboratory last March of a plastic balloon. Something new was born of that experiment and a Bub-O-Leon Inc., company came into being backed by a group of Hollywood executives and performers. They chipped in a pool, $180,000, just to see if the novelty would click. It clicked far beyond expectations and every five and ten in the land is now either selling them or is about to put in this line. In two weeks 100,000 sets were sold and sales are growing as fast as a snowball rolling down hill. The men who own the company are anticipating another fortune from their efforts.

LEG WOUNDS TAKE DILLON, GRAYSON FROM TRIBE LINE

Malone To Reconvert Linemen To Strengthen Tackle Positions

After upholding the 14-year tradition for Coach James L. Malone of never losing a season opener at home, the Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. Indians, who defeated Northwest Mississippi, 19 to 13, here last Thursday night, will meet the Henderson Junior College eleven of Athens, Tex., here next Friday night at Brown Field.

Although the winner against the Northwest Rangers, the Redskins suffered sore wounds in the conflict that left two tackles hospitalized, necessitating the shifting of Indian linemen to equalize the strength in the forward wall for the Henderson invasion.

Coach Malone last night declared there was "something freakish" about Dillon's injury. It was first thought he had been a cleat victim, but Malone said an examination of the wound revealed it was a clean cut and nothing like a cleat wound. He expressed the opinion that "some foreign object" in the turf of the playing field had caused Dillon's injury.

The turf at Brown Field was completely reworked and resodded past summer. Malone said it was possible that in the work on the field that a piece of metal had been lost and worked into the sod, and he reported that a thorough examination of the sod in the area where Dillon was hurt was being undertaken.

The loss of Dillon and Grayson leaves the Tribe sorely hurt as far as tackles are concerned. Malone had only five tackles, including Martin Biddy, Bob Lively, and Charles "Bud" Cain, and a revamping of the line will be in order this week with the probability that Malone will convert a couple of his husky guards into tackles.

Gene Roswell, who played tackle at Ouachita Parish High School here a few seasons ago before entering military service, is trying for an end berth at N. J. C., but it is now considered likely that Malone will consider giving Roswell a chance at a tackle slot instead.

Left Halfback Jerry Gregg, who was something of a golden streak as he reeled off spectacular runs through the Ranger opposition Thursday, apparently is snapping out of the injury he suffered late in the game and will be available for duty Friday. Gregg came out of the contest with a twisted knee, but after a check-up yesterday it was reported he would be ready to travel again.

While the wounds suffered were serious enough, the rest of the Indian squad came out of the Ranger scrap in good shape and are primed for the Henderson invasion.

Henderson might even be considered in the role of favorite for the coming scramble, having already scored two victories this season while holding the opposition scoreless.

Henderson stopped Ranger Junior College, 20-0, in the season opener, and the past week trimmed Weatherford Junior College, 19 to 0. Indian scout reports on the next Redskin foe say Henderson has a fast and tricky backfield combination that is definitely offensive minded.

AGGIES TROUNCE PIRATES, 48 TO 0

Texas A. And M. Has Little Trouble Swamping Southwestern Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Texas Aggies warmed up for a rugged nine-game schedule before 18,000 in Kyle Field by romping over Little Southwestern of Georgetown, 48 to 0.

The Aggies had a little trouble moving in the first period, but once they started to click, they chased over seven touchdowns and John Ballentine booted six extra points.

Head Coach Homer Norton had the Aggies mixing a spotty running game with a deadly passing attack and the out-manned Pirates were forced to yield points in each quarter.

Southwestern's forward wall found the Aggie charging too fast for adequate pass protection and as a result the No. 1 Pirate flinger, William Sweet, was rushed badly throughout the struggle.

Ed Dusek, fullback, tallied two touchdowns. The rest were divided evenly between George Kadera, Jennings Anderson, Ralph Daniel, Bob Goode, and Garrett Guly, center who hauled down a hurried Pirate pass in the fourth and streaked 70 yards behind Aggie blockers.

Kadera scored No. 2 early in the second a pass had netted a 27-yard gain to the Pirate four.

Joe Sacra, Aggie guard, set up the third marker by covering Bill Higgins' fumble on the Southwestern 19. Hollnig a few plays later pitched a short one to Anderson for an easy touchdown.

Early in the third Dusek slipped off his left end behind neat blocking to charge across the goal line 71 yards away. A few minutes later Burl Baty hit Goode with a pass good for 30 yards and Daniels pounded over from the three.

Goode scored late in the third with Guly counting the last one in the fourth.

SNOW GOOSE, BUT WHY NOT SCORE TRIUMPHS IN BELDAME HANDICAP

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—As might be expected when the fair sex gets together, the ladies of the turf popped up with some unexpected antics in the Beldame Handicap at Aqueduct today, but thanks to But Why Not, queen of the three-year-old fillies, the day didn't get completely out of hand.

It started out as if the entire proceedings were headed for a merry-go-round ride when Snow Goose a 17-to-1 outsider who had never won a race until last May, confounded the 39,569 customers by whipping Gallorette and Honeymoon handily in the first section. Then however, But Why Not, the sturdy Texas Miss who stands right up front and center with the best of the boys in the three-year-old scramble, came along to take the second half by a whisker with a $4.30 for $2 price tag on her.

Gallorette finished a well-walloped second in the first half, beaten three lengths by Snow Goose, but the mighty Maryland mare managed to save something from the wreckage with the $10,000 second money. This boosted her earnings to $337,685 and thus she became the queen of all the galloping golddiggers, passing the $334,035 bankroll that Busher had piled up to be the top money-winning member of her sex.

The Beldame, richest race of the season for the girl gallopers, drew 21 starters and the race had to be split into two $50,000 halves.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(NEA)—In Havana last March 9, Leo Durocher said the Dodgers would break in front and stay there a la the Red Sox of a year ago.

Leo Durocher

Branch Rickey called attention to the fact that no other club was so deep in extraordinary talent.

It was pointed out that everybody should hit.

It was obvious that as a unit the the Brooklyns made the opposition look like rare collections of dray horses.

All hands—with the exception of Pete Reising, nursing a debatable shoulder at the moment—could throw from Hanava to Mexico City, and accurately.

Manager Clay Hopper of Montreal said he would be the most surprised man in baseball if Jackie Robinson didn't play second base, yet there you had Muggsy Stanky, Robinson, the sprinter, had led International League hitters with .349.

Three years on the farm seemed not to have hurt Arky Vaughan at third base. Back of him Durocher had Lavagetto, Rojek and Miksis, the last two equally competent at shortstop and second base. Tom Brown, only 19, shortly was to be discharged from the army capable of grabbing the job from the ensemble. A third baseman named Spider Jorgenson was hitting a ton for Montreal.

With all the talent, the most talked of player in Havana was Duke Snider, a young outfielder who hit .500 for Fort Worth the last month of the 1946 season after coming out of the army. A left-hand hitter, they said he packed more power than anybody in the organization. They were already comparing him with Country Slaughter of the Cardinals.

All of which—and some more—was duly reported.

"You never know what this far-flung Brooklyn organization is going to do, outside of one thing," we closed. "With Rickey in charge and Durocher running the works, Flatbush is going to come up with a corking club."

Durocher didn't like it when he read the account in the Ancon Panama American.

"Why put me on the spot?" he asked, when the club returned to Ebbets Field.

But this is one interview Durocher did not deny, and certainly won't now that the club is romping home free. Lippy Leo knew what he had. So did Branch Rickey and Burt Shotton.

And it wasn't anything he did or said in baseball that put Leo Durocher on the spot.

WHITTAKER COMING BACK WITH 'STRING'

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Ben Whittaker, the Texas horseman whose Carolyn A. copped the Louisiana Derby last season, will be shooting again at the major purses during the 75th Diamond Jubilee season at New Orleans' historic Fair Grounds beginning November 27.

Whittaker is sending his whole stable to New Orleans under Trainer J. P. Conway. Included in the lot is My Request, the crack 2-year-old colt which scored impressively in Aqueduct's $25,000 Cowdin Stakes, as well as in the $10,000 United States Hotel Stakes at Saratoga.

The speedy Carolyn A, Lucky Reward, Ibania, Chief Barker and Half Brother will be other Whittaker candidates for Fair Grounds stakes.

Trainer Jimmy Rowan is planning to ship five of Sylvester Labrot's racers to the Crescent City meeting. They are the crack three-year-olds, Repand, Balbar and Manchac, and two promising two-year-olds, Bovard and Dutel.

Al Wellman, whose Detroit Stable scored a lot of victories at the Fair Grounds last season, has requested stable room for twenty five horses, including the reliable Eva T. and Many Lands.

Roy Dickerson, track superintendent, is on the scene to put the finishing touches on the Fair Grounds oval, which has been completely rebuilt for the 75th Anniversary season.

FRNKA FASHIONS UNPREDICTABLE TEAM AT TULANE

Speed Seems To Be Best Asset Of Light, Inexperienced Squad

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—(Special)—For the first time this season, the jig-saw puzzle that will eventually become Tulane's representative in the Southeastern Conference football race began to form this week.

Although Coach Henry Frnka said it is still too early for definite lineups to face the University of Alabama on Sept. 27, he admitted that "the pieces are beginning to fit together and the picture should be complete by early next week."

From all appearances that picture was going to be light and inexperienced, and probably fast—but the question of whether it will be faster than its opponents will not be answered completely until the end of the season.

The backfield was a little heavier in comparison, with quarterbacks averaging 182, tailbacks 179, wingbacks 176, and fullbacks 188. None of the backs reach the 200-pound mark.

The experience side of the picture is also rather bleak, with only ten of the linemen holding two years of experience in college ball, either on the squad or on the team. Of the group, Ed Demaree, a guard, is most experienced, with a year at Tulane plus three at the United States Naval Academy.

In the backfield, experience is concentrated at quarterback and fullback, with Quarterbacks Bennie Ellender and Leonard Finley and Fullbacks Marvin McCain and Dick Hoot leading the group. All have had three years in college ball, although Ellender did not letter last season and one of Hoot's years was in the U. S. Navy program at Villanova, where he played quarterback.

At ends, John Wasieleski and Rex Patridge, two squadmen of last season,

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—While football coaches are stifling their sobs in the traditional crying towels, their college baseball-teaching colleagues are moaning in high C as they discover how many of their stars signed pro contracts during the summer. . . . For instance, Frank Prentup was counting on Don Swartz to pitch Colorado University to a conference championship next spring. But Don pitched some brilliant non-professional tournament ball during the summer and was signed by the Cubs for a reported $6,000 bonus. . . . Texas University, whose Southwest Conference championship team was expected to return intact, hears that the entire infield has been signed up. . . . Stanford was ready to boom Lloyd Merriman for All-America fullback when Lloyd turned to pro baseball. . . . Michigan State's John Kobs is keeping his fingers crossed His star shortstop, Marty Hansen, turned down an $8,000 offer from the Reds last spring, but now John hears the big league scouts again are pestering both Hansen and Pitcher Robin Roberts.

Other Fish To Fry

For his last week-end of relaxation before the start of football battling, Coach Bob Higgins, of Penn State, hid out in New York state and went fishing. . . . Bob's prize catch was a 22-inch bass, said to be one of the largest ever landed in that section. . . . It couldn't gain through a Higgins line either.

Shorts And Shells

North Carolina University Publicitor Bob Madry, an expert manufacturer of All-America football prospects, is moaning because Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice is getting too much pre-season publicity. . . . Madry is afraid that Justice may have a merely good afternoon some day and the experts who see him then all will think he's been over-rated. . . . Bob Kiphuth, Yale athletic director and swimming coach, had a $700 toothache recently. Bob went to Europe to inspect the Olympic swimming site and the day he landed he suffered an ulcerated tooth. . . . Rather than try hit-and-run treatments, he caught the first plane back to New Haven without even one look at a swimming pool. . . . Tip: Look for Southwestern Louisiana Institute to come up with one of the season's best small-college guards in Ted "Yokum" Andrus. Ted hails from Rayne, La., and really pours it on.

Relatively Speaking

Report from Los Angeles says that Spec Sanders, football Yankee quarterback, made a notable contribution to that crowd of 82,675 which saw the Yankees beat the Los Angeles Dons when no fewer than 91 of his relatives turned up for the game. . . . The gang all came from Texas and Oklahoma and stayed over for this week's tussle with the 49'ers.

Weak End Notes

Barney (Six Years) Poole, former Army end, now says the other half of the Mississippi passing combination, Charley Conerly, is a better all-around back than Arnold Tucker. . . . Earl Banks, Iowa guard, recently came up with a new alibi for missing practice: "I was home cashing my terminal leave bond."

ASSAULT'S TRIAL RUN DRAWS MIXED OPINIONS

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Robert J. Kleberg's Assault worked a mile in 1:42 3/5 on Belmont Park's main track today in preparation for his special race against Armed on that strip next Saturday.

Assault turned the first six furlongs in 1:16 over a track slightly off in spots. The colt's trial was received with mixed opinions by observers, some considering it satisfactory and others not being impressed. He is slated for a mile and a furlong work Monday morning.

The special, a $100,000, winner-take-all affair at equal weights, will be decided over the mile and a quarter route.

After upholding the 14-year tradition for Coach James L. Malone of never losing a season opener at home, the Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. Indians, who defeated Northwest Mississippi, 19 to 13, here last Thursday night, will meet the Henderson Junior College eleven of Athens, Tex., here next Friday night at Brown Field.

Although the winner against the Northwest Rangers, the Redskins suffered sore wounds in the conflict that left two tackles hospitalized, necessitating the shifting of Indian linemen to equalize the strength in the forward wall for the Henderson invasion.

Coach Malone last night declared there was "something freakish" about Dillon's injury. It was first thought he had been a cleat victim, but Malone said an examination of the wound revealed it was a clean cut and nothing like a cleat wound. He expressed the opinion that "some foreign object" in the turf of the playing field had caused Dillon's injury.

The turf at Brown Field was completely reworked and resodded past summer. Malone said it was possible that in the work on the field that a piece of metal had been lost and worked into the sod, and he reported that a thorough examination of the sod in the area where Dillon was hurt was being undertaken.

The loss of Dillon and Grayson leaves the Tribe sorely hurt as far as tackles are concerned. Malone had only five tackles, including Martin Biddy, Bob Lively, and Charles "Bud" Cain, and a revamping of the line will be in order this week with the probability that Malone will convert a couple of his husky guards into tackles.

Gene Roswell, who played tackle at Ouachita Parish High School here a few seasons ago before entering military service, is trying for an end berth at N. J. C., but it is now considered likely that Malone will consider giving Roswell a chance at a tackle slot instead.

Left Halfback Jerry Gregg, who was something of a golden streak as he reeled off spectacular runs through the Ranger opposition Thursday, apparently is snapping out of the injury he suffered late in the game and will be available for duty Friday. Gregg came out of the contest with a twisted knee, but after a check-up yesterday it was reported he would be ready to travel again.

While the wounds suffered were serious enough, the rest of the Indian squad came out of the Ranger scrap in good shape and are primed for the Henderson invasion.

Henderson might even be considered in the role of favorite for the coming scramble, having already scored two victories this season while holding the opposition scoreless.

Henderson stopped Ranger Junior College, 20-0, in the season opener, and the past week trimmed Weatherford Junior College, 19 to 0. Indian scout reports on the next Redskin foe say Henderson has a fast and tricky backfield combination that is definitely offensive minded.

AGGIES TROUNCE PIRATES, 48 TO 0

Texas A. And M. Has Little Trouble Swamping Southwestern Texas

The Aggies had a little trouble moving in the first period, but once they started to click, they chased over seven touchdowns and John Ballentine booted six extra points.

Head Coach Homer Norton had the Aggies mixing a spotty running game with a deadly passing attack and the out-manned Pirates were forced to yield points in each quarter.

Southwestern's forward wall found the Aggie charging too fast for adequate pass protection and as a result the No. 1 Pirate flinger, William Sweet, was rushed badly throughout the struggle.

Ed Dusek, fullback, tallied two touchdowns. The rest were divided evenly between George Kadera, Jennings Anderson, Ralph Daniel, Bob Goode, and Garrett Guly, center who hauled down a hurried Pirate pass in the fourth and streaked 70 yards behind Aggie blockers.

Kadera scored No. 2 early in the second a pass had netted a 27-yard gain to the Pirate four.

Joe Sacra, Aggie guard, set up the third marker by covering Bill Higgins' fumble on the Southwestern 19. Hollnig a few plays later pitched a short one to Anderson for an easy touchdown.

Early in the third Dusek slipped off his left end behind neat blocking to charge across the goal line 71 yards away. A few minutes later Burl Baty hit Goode with a pass good for 30 yards and Daniels pounded over from the three.

SNOW GOOSE, BUT WHY NOT SCORE TRIUMPHS IN BELDAME HANDICAP

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—As might be expected when the fair sex gets together, the ladies of the turf popped up with some unexpected antics in the Beldame Handicap at Aqueduct today, but thanks to But Why Not, queen of the three-year-old fillies, the day didn't get completely out of hand.

It started out as if the entire proceedings were headed for a merry-go-round ride when Snow Goose a 17-to-1 outsider who had never won a race until last May, confounded the 39,569 customers by whipping Gallorette and Honeymoon handily in the first section. Then however, But Why Not, the sturdy Texas Miss who stands right up front and center with the best of the boys in the three-year-old scramble, came along to take the second half by a whisker with a $4.30 for $2 price tag on her.

Gallorette finished a well-walloped second in the first half, beaten three lengths by Snow Goose, but the mighty Maryland mare managed to save something from the wreckage with the $10,000 second money. This boosted her earnings to $337,685 and thus she became the queen of all the galloping golddiggers, passing the $334,035 bankroll that Busher had piled up to be the top money-winning member of her sex.

The Beldame, richest race of the season for the girl gallopers, drew 21 starters and the race had to be split into two $50,000 halves.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(NEA)—In Havana last March 9, Leo Durocher said the Dodgers would break in front and stay there a la the Red Sox of a year ago.

Leo Durocher

Branch Rickey called attention to the fact that no other club was so deep in extraordinary talent.

It was pointed out that everybody should hit.

It was obvious that as a unit the the Brooklyns made the opposition look like rare collections of dray horses.

All hands—with the exception of Pete Reising, nursing a debatable shoulder at the moment—could throw from Hanava to Mexico City, and accurately.

Manager Clay Hopper of Montreal said he would be the most surprised man in baseball if Jackie Robinson didn't play second base, yet there you had Muggsy Stanky, Robinson, the sprinter, had led International League hitters with .349.

Three years on the farm seemed not to have hurt Arky Vaughan at third base. Back of him Durocher had Lavagetto, Rojek and Miksis, the last two equally competent at shortstop and second base. Tom Brown, only 19, shortly was to be discharged from the army capable of grabbing the job from the ensemble. A third baseman named Spider Jorgenson was hitting a ton for Montreal.

With all the talent, the most talked of player in Havana was Duke Snider, a young outfielder who hit .500 for Fort Worth the last month of the 1946 season after coming out of the army. A left-hand hitter, they said he packed more power than anybody in the organization. They were already comparing him with Country Slaughter of the Cardinals.

All of which—and some more—was duly reported.

"You never know what this far-flung Brooklyn organization is going to do, outside of one thing," we closed. "With Rickey in charge and Durocher running the works, Flatbush is going to come up with a corking club."

Durocher didn't like it when he read the account in the Ancon Panama American.

"Why put me on the spot?" he asked, when the club returned to Ebbets Field.

But this is one interview Durocher did not deny, and certainly won't now that the club is romping home free. Lippy Leo knew what he had. So did Branch Rickey and Burt Shotton.

And it wasn't anything he did or said in baseball that put Leo Durocher on the spot.

RESUME SOFTBALL SERIES TOMORROW

The Autumn League resumes its softball championship playoffs here tomorrow night with Red Shield Club facing Cook and Preddy at 7:30 o'clock, and the Amvets tackling George Guerriero Insurance at 8 o'clock. Both games will be played on the Barkdull Faulk diamond.

Red Shield and Guerriero took the lead in the playoffs with victories in the opening games the past week and can sew up berths in the finals with second wins tomorrow. If the final teams are determined tomorrow, the championship round will begin Tuesday night.

In the Civic Club League, the playoff of a tie for the second half championship between the Exchange Club and the Optimist Club will take place Tuesday night on the West Monroe diamond.

Winner of the playoff will meet the Monroe Kiwanis Club, first half champion, for the league title.

WHITTAKER COMING BACK WITH 'STRING'

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Ben Whittaker, the Texas horseman whose Carolyn A. copped the Louisiana Derby last season, will be shooting again at the major purses during the 75th Diamond Jubilee season at New Orleans' historic Fair Grounds beginning November 27.

Whittaker is sending his whole stable to New Orleans under Trainer J. P. Conway. Included in the lot is My Request, the crack 2-year-old colt which scored impressively in Aqueduct's $25,000 Cowdin Stakes, as well as in the $10,000 United States Hotel Stakes at Saratoga.

The speedy Carolyn A, Lucky Reward, Ibania, Chief Barker and Half Brother will be other Whittaker candidates for Fair Grounds stakes.

Trainer Jimmy Rowan is planning to ship five of Sylvester Labrot's racers to the Crescent City meeting. They are the crack three-year-olds, Repand, Balbar and Manchac, and two promising two-year-olds, Bovard and Dutel.

Al Wellman, whose Detroit Stable scored a lot of victories at the Fair Grounds last season, has requested stable room for twenty five horses, including the reliable Eva T. and Many Lands.

Roy Dickerson, track superintendent, is on the scene to put the finishing touches on the Fair Grounds oval, which has been completely rebuilt for the 75th Anniversary season.

FRNKA FASHIONS UNPREDICTABLE TEAM AT TULANE

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—(Special)—For the first time this season, the jig-saw puzzle that will eventually become Tulane's representative in the Southeastern Conference football race began to form this week.

Although Coach Henry Frnka said it is still too early for definite lineups to face the University of Alabama on Sept. 27, he admitted that "the pieces are beginning to fit together and the picture should be complete by early next week."

From all appearances that picture was going to be light and inexperienced, and probably fast—but the question of whether it will be faster than its opponents will not be answered completely until the end of the season.

The backfield was a little heavier in comparison, with quarterbacks averaging 182, tailbacks 179, wingbacks 176, and fullbacks 188. None of the backs reach the 200-pound mark.

The experience side of the picture is also rather bleak, with only ten of the linemen holding two years of experience in college ball, either on the squad or on the team. Of the group, Ed Demaree, a guard, is most experienced, with a year at Tulane plus three at the United States Naval Academy.

In the backfield, experience is concentrated at quarterback and fullback, with Quarterbacks Bennie Ellender and Leonard Finley and Fullbacks Marvin McCain and Dick Hoot leading the group. All have had three years in college ball, although Ellender did not letter last season and one of Hoot's years was in the U. S. Navy program at Villanova, where he played quarterback.

At ends, John Wasieleski and Rex Patridge, two squadmen of last season,

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—While football coaches are stifling their sobs in the traditional crying towels, their college baseball-teaching colleagues are moaning in high C as they discover how many of their stars signed pro contracts during the summer. . . . For instance, Frank Prentup was counting on Don Swartz to pitch Colorado University to a conference championship next spring. But Don pitched some brilliant non-professional tournament ball during the summer and was signed by the Cubs for a reported $6,000 bonus. . . . Texas University, whose Southwest Conference championship team was expected to return intact, hears that the entire infield has been signed up. . . . Stanford was ready to boom Lloyd Merriman for All-America fullback when Lloyd turned to pro baseball. . . . Michigan State's John Kobs is keeping his fingers crossed His star shortstop, Marty Hansen, turned down an $8,000 offer from the Reds last spring, but now John hears the big league scouts again are pestering both Hansen and Pitcher Robin Roberts.

Other Fish To Fry

For his last week-end of relaxation before the start of football battling, Coach Bob Higgins, of Penn State, hid out in New York state and went fishing. . . . Bob's prize catch was a 22-inch bass, said to be one of the largest ever landed in that section. . . . It couldn't gain through a Higgins line either.

Shorts And Shells

North Carolina University Publicitor Bob Madry, an expert manufacturer of All-America football prospects, is moaning because Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice is getting too much pre-season publicity. . . . Madry is afraid that Justice may have a merely good afternoon some day and the experts who see him then all will think he's been over-rated. . . . Bob Kiphuth, Yale athletic director and swimming coach, had a $700 toothache recently. Bob went to Europe to inspect the Olympic swimming site and the day he landed he suffered an ulcerated tooth. . . . Rather than try hit-and-run treatments, he caught the first plane back to New Haven without even one look at a swimming pool. . . . Tip: Look for Southwestern Louisiana Institute to come up with one of the season's best small-college guards in Ted "Yokum" Andrus. Ted hails from Rayne, La., and really pours it on.

Relatively Speaking

Report from Los Angeles says that Spec Sanders, football Yankee quarterback, made a notable contribution to that crowd of 82,675 which saw the Yankees beat the Los Angeles Dons when no fewer than 91 of his relatives turned up for the game. . . . The gang all came from Texas and Oklahoma and stayed over for this week's tussle with the 49'ers.

Weak End Notes

Barney (Six Years) Poole, former Army end, now says the other half of the Mississippi passing combination, Charley Conerly, is a better all-around back than Arnold Tucker. . . . Earl Banks, Iowa guard, recently came up with a new alibi for missing practice: "I was home cashing my terminal leave bond."

ASSAULT'S TRIAL RUN DRAWS MIXED OPINIONS

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Robert J. Kleberg's Assault worked a mile in 1:42 3/5 on Belmont Park's main track today in preparation for his special race against Armed on that strip next Saturday.

Assault turned the first six furlongs in 1:16 over a track slightly off in spots. The colt's trial was received with mixed opinions by observers, some considering it satisfactory and others not being impressed. He is slated for a mile and a furlong work Monday morning.

The special, a $100,000, winner-take-all affair at equal weights, will be decided over the mile and a quarter route.

Fowler Hurls Mackmen To 3-2 Victory With 7-Hit Pitching

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics stopped the New York Yankees, 3-2, behind the seven-hit pitching of Dick Fowler today as Sam Chapman and Hank Majeski drove in all the home club's runs before a crowd held to 6,134 by mist and cold.

OLE MISS EDGES KENTUCKY, 14 TO 7

Conerly And Poole Lead Rebels To Southeastern Conference Win

OXFORD, Miss., Sept. 20.—(AP)—The good right arm of Charley Conerly and the big, grasping hands of Barney Poole today accounted for a Southeastern Conference football victory for the University of Mississippi over Kentucky's Wildcats. The score was 14 to 7.

Under sunny skies ventilated by hurricane-bred brisk breezes, a crowd of about 18,000 saw the Rebels rack up touchdowns in the first and third periods, while Kentucky's best effort was an opening period tally.

It was Conerly a lithe, fleet-footed Clarksdale, Miss., youth who engineered Mississippi's offensive power, although his key receiver, Poole, with ever-hungry mitts, cashed in eight tosses for 71 yards and one touchdown.

As if that wasn't enough, Conerly reeled off consistent running gains to keep the Wildcats' defense off balance and got off punts for an average of 35.7 yards.

GIRLS HEADLINE ATTRACTION ON MAT CARD HERE

Violet Viann Matched With Evelyn Wall At Kallio's Tuesday

With a pair of battling girls to provide top entertainment for the night, Promoter Gus Kallio last night said the appearance here Tuesday of Violet Viann and Evelyn Wall promises to attract the largest crowd of the year to his Walnut street arena.

The Viann-Wall match will be one half of a double main event card that also includes a non-title scrap between George Craig, Louisiana light heavyweight champion from Tulsa, Okla., and Kilroy, the hooded mystery man of the ring.

Kallio arranged his girls' battle a week ago when he announced that Miss Viann, Los Angeles, Calif., would meet Lola Hart, Detroit, Mich., but he announced last night that Evelyn Wall, Corpus Christi, Tex., had been lined up as the opposition for Miss Viann instead of Miss Hart.

As Kallio's customers learned, however, that the ring Amazons were being billed this week, they began making early applications for tickets, and Kallio said last night that the demands for advanced sales was greater than for any previous program this year. The turnout of fans is expected to tax the capacity of the arena.

Viann, a comely California lass, is already well known to Kallio's regular customers, having appeared here before on two occasions, but Miss Wall will be making her first showing locally.

Reports concerning the ability of Miss Wall tag her as a hair-pulling vixen with plenty of villainy in her bag of ring tricks, and she is promising Miss Viann a very troublesome night.

In her previous showings here, Miss Viann was matched against heavier women, but she took the handicap in stride to give good performances. She will probably be outweighed again this trip, but can be counted on to give her Texas rival an interesting match.

The girls' scratchfest and the Craig-Kilroy brawl will each have time limits of an hour and fifteen minutes with two falls to win.

Kilroy had challenged for Craig's belt, Kallio reported, but Craig, when informed of the masked man's bid for his crown, declared Kilroy would have to post a forfeit in order to get such a match. Kallio said he had since been unable to contact Kilroy concerning the posting of a forfeit and for that reason was billing the scrap as a non-title affair.

LONGHORNS DAZZLE RED RAIDERS, 33-0

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Sporting dazzling speed, tricky running and clever field generalship, the University of Texas Longhorns smothered Texas Tech's Red Raiders, 33-0, here today before 30,000 shirt sleeved fans.

Two left halfbacks, Byron Gillory and Billy Pyle, stole the show with burning, swirling runs as both packed up two touchdowns.

But it was Bobby Layne's presence that set the Longhorns' new T offense moving. He was calling the signals when Texas scored all its touchdowns but one, and the Longhorns did not click so smoothly when he was out of the game.

DEMONS CRUSHED BY PORKERS, 64-0

Arkansas Runs Wild In Rain To Subdue Northwestern Louisiana

By Carl Bell

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Arkansas' Southwest Conference co-championship Razorbacks used a powerful rushing attack to subdue the Northwestern Louisiana State College Demons, 64 to 0, in a rain-soaked football season opener here today.

The Razorbacks' spectacular scoring plays kept most of the crowd, cut to about 7,500 by a steady, driving rain, in the stands until the end, which came earlier than scheduled as the third and fourth quarters were cut to 12 minutes each by agreement of the two teams.

Arkansas, which won a share of the Southwest title last year with an iron-clad defense, turned loose an offense which was smooth despite the loose footing and wet ball. Its defense was good enough to hold the Demons to a net gain of minus two yards.

Arkansas registered 17 first downs, polled up 503 yards rushing and completed two of three forward passes for 24 yards. The Razorbacks were never forced to punt.

Coach John Barnhill kept his Razorback starters under wraps, playing them no more than ten minutes. But they managed to score five times in their short-lived efforts.

Fullback Leon Campbell and little Kenny Holland, reserve quarterback, led the scoring with three touchdowns apiece. Halfback Clyde Scott sprinted for two tallies and helped set up another with a 25-yard gallop. Ross Pritchard and Tracy Scott, substitute halfbacks, accounted for the other two touchdowns.

OLE MISS EDGES KENTUCKY, 14 TO 7

Conerly And Poole Lead Rebels To Southeastern Conference Win

OXFORD, Miss., Sept. 20.—(AP)—The good right arm of Charley Conerly and the big, grasping hands of Barney Poole today accounted for a Southeastern Conference football victory for the University of Mississippi over Kentucky's Wildcats. The score was 14 to 7.

Under sunny skies ventilated by hurricane-bred brisk breezes, a crowd of about 18,000 saw the Rebels rack up touchdowns in the first and third periods, while Kentucky's best effort was an opening period tally.

It was Conerly a lithe, fleet-footed Clarksdale, Miss., youth who engineered Mississippi's offensive power, although his key receiver, Poole, with ever-hungry mitts, cashed in eight tosses for 71 yards and one touchdown.

As if that wasn't enough, Conerly reeled off consistent running gains to keep the Wildcats' defense off balance and got off punts for an average of 35.7 yards.

GIRLS HEADLINE ATTRACTION ON MAT CARD HERE

Violet Viann Matched With Evelyn Wall At Kallio's Tuesday

With a pair of battling girls to provide top entertainment for the night, Promoter Gus Kallio last night said the appearance here Tuesday of Violet Viann and Evelyn Wall promises to attract the largest crowd of the year to his Walnut street arena.

The Viann-Wall match will be one half of a double main event card that also includes a non-title scrap between George Craig, Louisiana light heavyweight champion from Tulsa, Okla., and Kilroy, the hooded mystery man of the ring.

Kallio arranged his girls' battle a week ago when he announced that Miss Viann, Los Angeles, Calif., would meet Lola Hart, Detroit, Mich., but he announced last night that Evelyn Wall, Corpus Christi, Tex., had been lined up as the opposition for Miss Viann instead of Miss Hart.

As Kallio's customers learned, however, that the ring Amazons were being billed this week, they began making early applications for tickets, and Kallio said last night that the demands for advanced sales was greater than for any previous program this year. The turnout of fans is expected to tax the capacity of the arena.

Viann, a comely California lass, is already well known to Kallio's regular customers, having appeared here before on two occasions, but Miss Wall will be making her first showing locally.

Reports concerning the ability of Miss Wall tag her as a hair-pulling vixen with plenty of villainy in her bag of ring tricks, and she is promising Miss Viann a very troublesome night.

In her previous showings here, Miss Viann was matched against heavier women, but she took the handicap in stride to give good performances. She will probably be outweighed again this trip, but can be counted on to give her Texas rival an interesting match.

The girls' scratchfest and the Craig-Kilroy brawl will each have time limits of an hour and fifteen minutes with two falls to win.

Kilroy had challenged for Craig's belt, Kallio reported, but Craig, when informed of the masked man's bid for his crown, declared Kilroy would have to post a forfeit in order to get such a match. Kallio said he had since been unable to contact Kilroy concerning the posting of a forfeit and for that reason was billing the scrap as a non-title affair.

TARHEELS SEEK COMPETITION IN OTHER CIRCUITS

By Ned Mills

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 20. — (NEA)—Altogether too strong for the 16-member Southern Conference, North Carolina invades the Southeastern and Southwest leagues seeking stiffer competition. The Tarheels will get it from Georgia and Texas right under the gun. Tennessee comes later. In their own circuit, Carl Snavely's young men engage Wake Forest, William and Mary, Florida, North Carolina State, Maryland and Duke and tackle independent Virginia.

There still is no freshman rule in this section, so the Chapel Hill outfit hardly knows what to expect.

Virginia, for example, has a pea-green pippin in Johnny Papit of Philadelphia. Florida introduces a flock of boys who stuck out in high schools. Duke is always a dog fight for Carolina.

Choo Choo Justice and Company return practically intact, however, so should take it all in the Southern, could go through unbeaten. Only a poor piece of officiating prevented the Chapel Hill entry from beating the great Charley Trippi and all-conquering Georgia in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl last New Year's Day.

Wallace Wade of Duke has a way of bouncing back. The Blue Devils could use a fullback, but field efficient operatives in George Clark, Buddy Mulligan and Howard Hartley behind an excellent line.

Wake Forest, frequently a sleeper, as the Demon Deacons were a year ago in smacking Tennessee, is consequently well-respected in the circuit. Peahead Walker's outfit twice scored on North Carolina in 1946. Sophomores Tom Fetzer and Bud Lail hope to fill the shoes of Tailback Red Cochran.

With Schoolboy Papit and more than 20 lettermen, including the passers Bruce Bailey, Ray Brown, George Grimes, Ralph Shoaf and Grover Jones, Virginia should experience little difficulty against conference Members George Washington, V. P. I., Washington and Lee, figures to retaliate against Richmond's 19-6 triumph of last autumn. Other opponents are Harvard, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and North Carolina, the latter two different stories. The Cavaliers' chief concern has to do with the forward wall.

Jim Tatum, rebuilding at Maryland, may be far enough along with new men and his split T to give somebody some trouble. South Carolina once more is potent on defense, must build an attack. Virginia Tech has 28 lettermen, is banking on Southpaw Tailback Ralph Beard to make the T go. Clemson and independent Miami of Coral Gables have representative teams capable of stirring up trouble. Luke Dunfree is expected to spark the attack at The Citadel, which has added player strength. V. M. I. has a new coach, Slick Morton, and a new system.

Dick Worthing and Mike Boyda are still around to haunt Washington and Lee's opponents and their passes to Charley Harrington and Jim Lukens pose problems for the enemy. Although Richmond may not be as strong as some of the others, the Spiders cannot be overlooked.

Davidson and Furman are still in the league, but that's just about all.

CENTENARY BLASTED 19 TO 7 BY HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 20.—(AP)—A stout defense and versatile attack gave the University of Houston Cougars a 19 to 7 victory over the Centenary Gentlemen here tonight but it was James Francis, smallest man on the Louisiana team that nearly stole the show.

Lacking both in weight and experience, the visitors' big moment came late in the second quarter as Francis took Cougar Roy Wallace's punt on his own 15 and scampered 85 yards for Centenary's lone touchdown. Bob Barlow kicked the extra point to reduce Houston's lead to 13-7.

It was not an ordinary broken field run. Francis was swarmed by Cougars three times but on the Cougar 40 he turned complete around among a mass of tacklers and found himself in the clear.

Houston had taken an early lead on drives resulting from a Gent fumble and a nice punt return by Jackie Gwin.

Standing 'Em on Their Heads

'BAMA CRUSHES SOUTHERN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide faltered only once tonight in fashioning a workmanlike 34-7 victory over game but outmanned Mississippi Southern of Hattiesburg, Miss., before 30,000 fans.

NEVILLE BENGALS NOSE OUT MINDEN CRIMSON WAVE, 7-6

McElroy's Tackle Of Cone On Last Play Saved Game For Tigers

An almost too confident Neville High School football team found the Minden Crimson Wave almost too hot to handle last night, but the Bengals squeezed through to a 7-6 triumph, thanks to a last play tackle by Left Halfback Bucky McElroy who stopped Norman Cone, Minden quarterback, on what looked like a sure touchdown run.

On the last play of the game, and with the ball on the Minden 31, Cone brought the crowd to its feet when he snagged a pass from Lamar Pace, broke into the clear and appeared headed for a game-winning touchdown when McElroy overhauled him from behind on the Neville 20 after about the most spectacular run of the night for a gain of 49 yards and Minden's longest single run of the contest.

A rain that soaked the field just before game time failed to dampen the enthusiasm of a responsive crowd that turned out for Neville's first home appearance of the season, and about 3,000 fans were on hand for the scrap. However, the rain made ball handling hazardous and made passing almost impossible.

The Tigers scored first in the opening period when McElroy got away on a 41-yard dash around right end to pay dirt, and Tommy Phillips came into the game for the first time to run the ballover on a line play to provide the point that meant the difference between victory and a tie.

The Wave struck back in the second quarter when James Beck set up the touchdown on a hidden ball play that got him away for 35 yards through left tackle before he was hauled down on the Tiger one. One the very next play, Beck carried it the rest of the way. Cone's kick for the point failed.

Neville put on its biggest offensive show in the second quarter when the Tigers made five of their eleven first downs, but they were never able to score again after McElroy's first quarter dash. The Tigers held the ball in Minden territory most of the last half, but a couple of fumbles spiked drives, and the Wave held for downs a couple of times.

There was some bruising play in both lines and apparently the forwards liked the soggy field. David Kahn, Buster Stevens, Bob Hickman, Ronald Gunter, Perry Kent, Billy Corser, Joe Love, John Smith, and Billy Buckley carried the brunt of Neville's line work, while Bob Tatum, Maurice Whitlow, Dan Stewart, Leonard Doerge, Bobby Almond, and Herbert Ashcraft gave the Bengals a mighty busy night.

Cone and Beck were easily the outstanding performers in the Minden backfield, although Edward Kennedy got off a few good gains.

The Neville offensive machine rolled up 207 yards from scrimmage against an even 100 yards for Minden. Neville lost thirteen yards from scrimmage, and the Wave lost only three. Neville completed one pass for 16 yards, and Mindon completed one for 49.

DODGERS' PLUNGE TO FLAG SNAGGED BY BRAVES, 8 TO 1

By Joe Reichler

BROOKLYN, Sept. 20.—(AP)—It took a pitcher who never before had won a game at Ebbets Field, to put a crimp into Brooklyn's bid to claim the National League flag today when Johnny Sain, curve-balling Boston righthander, hurled the Braves to an 8-1 victory over the Dodgers.

As a result the Brooks, now leading the St. Louis Cardinals by eight and a half games, must wait at least another day since the Cards beat the Cubs Saturday night, 5 to 0. The Dodgers need one more victory or a Cardinal defeat to make their World Series entry against the New York Yankees a mathmatical certainty. They have seven games left to play. The Cardinals have 10.

Sain, who gained his 20th triumph for the second successive season, never gave the 29,762 chilled customers a chance to whoop it up. He limited the disappointed Dodgers to six scattered singles and appeared on the way to his fourth shutout of the year until the Brooks combined a base on balls, a single and long fly in the eighth inning for their only run.

The Braves, eyeing the runner-up spot, thus gained a half game on the Cardinals and are now only a game and a half out of second place. They have a three-game bulge on the New York Giants.

Vic Lombardi, who in his last start against the Braves had emerged with a 1-0 victory, was the loser. He was followed to the mound by Jack Banta and Johnny Vancuyk, recent importations from Montreal of the International League.

The little left hander, although nicked for only five hits in the five innings he toiled, never had a chance. He allowed only an infield single and a base on balls in the first inning but when he finally retired the side he found himself behind, 4-0.

Heider's work has been temporarily discontinued by a thigh injury but he is expected to be ready for the Crimson Tide game. On the right, Olsen and Tarzetti lead the pack, with Emile O'Brien, a squadman, Freshman Don Joyce and Dick Chassee following.

In the backfield, Jim Keeton, the passing star of last year's Wave, heads the quarterback brigade, with Bennie Ellender due as first relief, Leonard Finley as second, Donald Chernick, a freshman as third, and Bob Whitman, as fourth. Whitman, however, has been troubled with a shoulder injury that has been slow to heal.

Fullback McCain seems a likley choice to open, with Bill Svoboda and Hoot ranking second and third, and two freshmen, Anthony D'Alessio and Clinton Arnold, in fourth and fifth spots.

TARHEELS SEEK COMPETITION IN OTHER CIRCUITS

By Ned Mills

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 20. — (NEA)—Altogether too strong for the 16-member Southern Conference, North Carolina invades the Southeastern and Southwest leagues seeking stiffer competition. The Tarheels will get it from Georgia and Texas right under the gun. Tennessee comes later. In their own circuit, Carl Snavely's young men engage Wake Forest, William and Mary, Florida, North Carolina State, Maryland and Duke and tackle independent Virginia.

There still is no freshman rule in this section, so the Chapel Hill outfit hardly knows what to expect.

Virginia, for example, has a pea-green pippin in Johnny Papit of Philadelphia. Florida introduces a flock of boys who stuck out in high schools. Duke is always a dog fight for Carolina.

Choo Choo Justice and Company return practically intact, however, so should take it all in the Southern, could go through unbeaten. Only a poor piece of officiating prevented the Chapel Hill entry from beating the great Charley Trippi and all-conquering Georgia in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl last New Year's Day.

Wallace Wade of Duke has a way of bouncing back. The Blue Devils could use a fullback, but field efficient operatives in George Clark, Buddy Mulligan and Howard Hartley behind an excellent line.

Wake Forest, frequently a sleeper, as the Demon Deacons were a year ago in smacking Tennessee, is consequently well-respected in the circuit. Peahead Walker's outfit twice scored on North Carolina in 1946. Sophomores Tom Fetzer and Bud Lail hope to fill the shoes of Tailback Red Cochran.

With Schoolboy Papit and more than 20 lettermen, including the passers Bruce Bailey, Ray Brown, George Grimes, Ralph Shoaf and Grover Jones, Virginia should experience little difficulty against conference Members George Washington, V. P. I., Washington and Lee, figures to retaliate against Richmond's 19-6 triumph of last autumn. Other opponents are Harvard, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and North Carolina, the latter two different stories. The Cavaliers' chief concern has to do with the forward wall.

Jim Tatum, rebuilding at Maryland, may be far enough along with new men and his split T to give somebody some trouble. South Carolina once more is potent on defense, must build an attack. Virginia Tech has 28 lettermen, is banking on Southpaw Tailback Ralph Beard to make the T go. Clemson and independent Miami of Coral Gables have representative teams capable of stirring up trouble. Luke Dunfree is expected to spark the attack at The Citadel, which has added player strength. V. M. I. has a new coach, Slick Morton, and a new system.

Dick Worthing and Mike Boyda are still around to haunt Washington and Lee's opponents and their passes to Charley Harrington and Jim Lukens pose problems for the enemy. Although Richmond may not be as strong as some of the others, the Spiders cannot be overlooked.

Davidson and Furman are still in the league, but that's just about all.

CENTENARY BLASTED 19 TO 7 BY HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 20.—(AP)—A stout defense and versatile attack gave the University of Houston Cougars a 19 to 7 victory over the Centenary Gentlemen here tonight but it was James Francis, smallest man on the Louisiana team that nearly stole the show.

Lacking both in weight and experience, the visitors' big moment came late in the second quarter as Francis took Cougar Roy Wallace's punt on his own 15 and scampered 85 yards for Centenary's lone touchdown. Bob Barlow kicked the extra point to reduce Houston's lead to 13-7.

It was not an ordinary broken field run. Francis was swarmed by Cougars three times but on the Cougar 40 he turned complete around among a mass of tacklers and found himself in the clear.

Standing 'Em on Their Heads

'BAMA CRUSHES SOUTHERN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide faltered only once tonight in fashioning a workmanlike 34-7 victory over game but outmanned Mississippi Southern of Hattiesburg, Miss., before 30,000 fans.

NEVILLE BENGALS NOSE OUT MINDEN CRIMSON WAVE, 7-6

McElroy's Tackle Of Cone On Last Play Saved Game For Tigers

An almost too confident Neville High School football team found the Minden Crimson Wave almost too hot to handle last night, but the Bengals squeezed through to a 7-6 triumph, thanks to a last play tackle by Left Halfback Bucky McElroy who stopped Norman Cone, Minden quarterback, on what looked like a sure touchdown run.

On the last play of the game, and with the ball on the Minden 31, Cone brought the crowd to its feet when he snagged a pass from Lamar Pace, broke into the clear and appeared headed for a game-winning touchdown when McElroy overhauled him from behind on the Neville 20 after about the most spectacular run of the night for a gain of 49 yards and Minden's longest single run of the contest.

A rain that soaked the field just before game time failed to dampen the enthusiasm of a responsive crowd that turned out for Neville's first home appearance of the season, and about 3,000 fans were on hand for the scrap. However, the rain made ball handling hazardous and made passing almost impossible.

The Tigers scored first in the opening period when McElroy got away on a 41-yard dash around right end to pay dirt, and Tommy Phillips came into the game for the first time to run the bal lover on a line play to provide the point that meant the difference between victory and a tie.

The Wave struck back in the second quarter when James Beck set up the touchdown on a hidden ball play that got him away for 35 yards through left tackle before he was hauled down on the Tiger one. One the very next play, Beck carried it the rest of the way. Cone's kick for the point failed.

Neville put on its biggest offensive show in the second quarter when the Tigers made five of their eleven first downs, but they were never able to score again after McElroy's first quarter dash. The Tigers held the ball in Minden territory most of the last half, but a couple of fumbles spiked drives, and the Wave held for downs a couple of times.

There was some bruising play in both lines and apparently the forwards liked the soggy field. David Kahn, Buster Stevens, Bob Hickman, Ronald Gunter, Perry Kent, Billy Corser, Joe Love, John Smith, and Billy Buckley carried the brunt of Neville's line work, while Bob Tatum, Maurice Whitlow, Dan Stewart, Leonard Doerge, Bobby Almond, and Herbert Ashcraft gave the Bengals a mighty busy night.

The Neville offensive machine rolled up 207 yards from scrimmage against an even 100 yards for Minden. Neville lost thirteen yards from scrimmage, and the Wave lost only three. Neville completed one pass for 16 yards, and Mindon completed one for 49.

DODGERS' PLUNGE TO FLAG SNAGGED BY BRAVES, 8 TO 1

By Joe Reichler

BROOKLYN, Sept. 20.—(AP)—It took a pitcher who never before had won a game at Ebbets Field, to put a crimp into Brooklyn's bid to claim the National League flag today when Johnny Sain, curve-balling Boston righthander, hurled the Braves to an 8-1 victory over the Dodgers.

As a result the Brooks, now leading the St. Louis Cardinals by eight and a half games, must wait at least another day since the Cards beat the Cubs Saturday night, 5 to 0. The Dodgers need one more victory or a Cardinal defeat to make their World Series entry against the New York Yankees a mathmatical certainty. They have seven games left to play. The Cardinals have 10.

Sain, who gained his 20th triumph for the second successive season, never gave the 29,762 chilled customers a chance to whoop it up. He limited the disappointed Dodgers to six scattered singles and appeared on the way to his fourth shutout of the year until the Brooks combined a base on balls, a single and long fly in the eighth inning for their only run.

The Braves, eyeing the runner-up spot, thus gained a half game on the Cardinals and are now only a game and a half out of second place. They have a three-game bulge on the New York Giants.

Vic Lombardi, who in his last start against the Braves had emerged with a 1-0 victory, was the loser. He was followed to the mound by Jack Banta and Johnny Vancuyk, recent importations from Montreal of the International League.

The little left hander, although nicked for only five hits in the five innings he toiled, never had a chance. He allowed only an infield single and a base on balls in the first inning but when he finally retired the side he found himself behind, 4-0.

have been running in the one-two spots on the left side, followed by Ed Heider, a 1946 letterman, and Bill Riggs and Al Fleider, two freshmen. Heider's work has been temporarily discontinued by a thigh injury but he is expected to be ready for the Crimson Tide game. On the right, Olsen and Tarzetti lead the pack, with Emile O'Brien, a squadman, Freshman Don Joyce and Dick Chassee following.

In the backfield, Jim Keeton, the passing star of last year's Wave, heads the quarterback brigade, with Bennie Ellender due as first relief, Leonard Finley as second, Donald Chernick, a freshman as third, and Bob Whitman, as fourth. Whitman, however, has been troubled with a shoulder injury that has been slow to heal.

Fullback McCain seems a likley choice to open, with Bill Svoboda and Hoot ranking second and third, and two freshmen, Anthony D'Alessio and Clinton Arnold, in fourth and fifth spots.

At the time of the first census in the United States, 1840, only 40 per cent of the people were literate.

JACKSON OKAYED BY JONES TICKET

Former Governor Supports Candidate For State School Superintendent

LAKE CHARLES, La., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Former Gov. Sam Jones today endorsed the candidacy of S. M. Jackson for state superintendent of education, and expressed hope that all groups wanting that office removed from factional politics would do likewise.

"The Jones ticket," the former governor said, "endorses the candidacy of S. M. Jackson for state superintendent of education, and we believe him qualified by character, training and experience for this vitally important office.

"Mr. Jackson has a special understanding of the educational needs of our underprivileged people. Moreover, he has the vision needed to bring about a trained citizenship to develop Louisiana's sources and possibilities.

"Finally, he has committed himself to bring about a well rounded educational program for the state.

"We hope that this office can be removed from factional politics. Schools should be completely free from this influence. We therefore hope that all elements, factions and groups who share this will join in backing Mr. Jackson's candidacy to the end that he may have a new day for Louisiana's public schools."

OUACHITA

restored to operation several hours later, he said.

A grim reminder of how close the city approached serious damage lay in statement by Rodriguez that if the storm had struck a year ago, the city would have been without power for several days.

However, during the last year, Rodriguez said, four more substations have been installed, a system of automatic breakers has been put in operation, and high lines have been reinforced with heavy copper wiring.

Although the storm had subsided to little more than wind gusts and sporadic rains, amateur radio operators yesterday were still on duty in Monroe and in more than 500 stations comprising the hurricane network.

With communications still disabled in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, and other areas which lay in path of the hammering hurricane, the "hams" continued to direct emergency and rescue operations along the coast.

Bernie Wilenzick, operator of Station W5IBF at his home at 502 Erin Avenue, said that he and two others served as dispatchers for all trains in the New Orleans area, including the Illinois Central's crack Panama Limited.

Howard Griffith, of Edgewater Gardens, said he had transmitted more than 200 inquiries from families seeking information about persons in the storm area. In addition, Griffith said he was continuing to serve as a contact for various rescue crews in the coast sections.

The Red Cross office here closed at midnight Friday, after it became apparent that the worst of the storm was over. Disaster crews removed to the safety of schools and churches several families who feared the hurricane winds predicted earlier, but no calls for other assistance were received, the office reported.

The municipal airport, closed to air traffic late Friday afternoon, was reopened about 2 a. m. yesterday. Delta airlines resumed all flights after 9 a. m., but a west-bound schedule to Fort Worth at 6.05 a. m. and an 8:29 a. m. flight to Atlanta were both grounded because planes were unable to return to points of origin.

The Southern Bell Telephone company reported that most of its circuits to Baton Rouge and New Orleans were still out, and that emergency calls only were being accepted, subject to a delay of six or more hours.

Early yesterday morning carpenters were at work putting back a roof on the home of George D. Richardson on the Columbia road. Richardson, who apparently felt the storm at its worst, said the roof sailed off about 9 p. m. Friday, and exposing the interior and the occupants to the accompanying rains.

The Red Cross said that two families whose homes were damaged by the storm had moved in with relatives for the present.

By morning all of the city's hotels, jammed by out-of-towners stranded by the approaching storm and by local residents who sought safer shelter, had been emptied of the overflow.

First reports of the storm's damage here were exaggerated. A broadcast that parts of the Virginia Hotel roof garden had been blown away was later discounted by L. J. Hulin, the manager, who said that the only damage was the loss of a piece of flashing from the roof.

CRASH LANDING MADE BY CRIPPLED CLIPPER

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—A four-engined Pan-American airways clipper, limping in on two engines after an exploding tire damaged its landing gear in the air, made a crash landing early tonight without injury to the 41 passengers and crew members aboard, it was reported.

The plane was Bodoszrer LaGuardia Field from Bermuda, but headed for Floyd Bennett Field, which was nearer, after the trouble developed as the craft prepared for the approach about 50 miles out of New York City.

Union parish's four-month-old Ora field was credited with its 31st successful oil well yesterday when the Monroe district conservation office reported the Lion Oil company's Farrar No. 2, in section 34-22-1W, had been officially gauged as flowing at the rate of 132 barrels per day. The test was through a 16/64-inch choke from 2.140-54 feet, with the oil gravity 30.2 and gas-oil ratio 50 to 1.

Since the Ora discovery well, first of the 31 producers, was brought in on June 1 nineteen dry holes have been drilled in and around the field and there are a number of wells that still are undergoing tests after not being immediately successful.

The new Lion well is the company's second good one on the Farrar lease, which is just northeast of production on the Perry J. Tucker farm. The Farrar No. 1 was brought in recently at the rate of 162 barrels per day. The Lion company, which has its headquarters at El Dorado, Ark., applied earlier in the week for permits for wells No. 3 and 6 on the same lease, and its contractor, the Markham Production Co. of Kilgore, Texas, yesterday was setting surface pipe for No. 3.

Northeast of the Farrar lease and in the same section, township and range, the Guy Mabee Drilling company was said yesterday to have an assured producer in its S. L. Smith No. 2. Heavily saturated oil sand was reported to have been cored Thursday and preliminary tests Saturday were declared to indicate that the well would prove one of the best in the field.

Union parish's only current deep test, the Pan-American Production company's wildcat, the Elva Rugg No. 1, was listed in the conservation department's weekly report as drilling below 8,200 feet. Located in section 31-20-1W, seven miles northwest of Downsville and a half-mile from the Lincoln parish line, the well is to go down 10,000 feet in search of deep production.

The California Company's deep search for oil in the Lafourche swamp, in Ouachita parish, eight miles southeast of Monroe, was down 5,159 feet, the weekly report said. It is destined for 9,000 feet.

In Morehouse parish the Union Oil company of California's wildcat, the J. W. Thompson No. 1 in section 19-19-6E, begun on Sept. 16, was reported at 150 feet, and the Taylor-Kirby company's Doc E. H. Clark in section 10-20-7E was listed as drilling at 500 feet.

Among abandonments in the Monroe district, not previously reported, was the American Liberty company's wildcat, J. E. Holt No. 6, in section 10-16-8E in Franklin parish, south of the southwest edge of West Delhi field. It was given up as dry at 3,703 feet. Another unsuccessful wildcat was the Marine Oil company's Ayer Timber Unit No. 3 in section 24-15-9E in Madison parish, eight miles northeast of Crowville. It was plugged after reaching a depth of 8,510 feet. The H. W. Williams company's H. A. Strong No. 2 in section 28-9-1E in Grant parish, a mile and a half southeast of Selma, was abandoned at 1,715 feet.

A new Richland parish location, for which a drilling permit was asked Saturday, is the American Liberty's Mengel-Harter Unit No. 1 in section 4-16-8E, in the West Delhi field.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Grains moved over a wide price range in a hectic market on the board of trade today.

Sharp declines extending to 10 cents in wheat, 8 cents in corn and 6 cents in oats were recorded during the first few minutes of trading. In each case this represented the limit permitted in a single session and for corn it was the third consecutive day of limit declines.

Considerable new buying was attracted into the pit at that level, particularly in wheat. The bread cereal had a good rally which cancelled the full 10-cent decline and brought deferred contracts above the preceding close. Corn and oats advanced several cents in sympathy with wheat.

Wheat closed 3 3/4-7 1/8 lower, September $2.57 1/4, corn was 8 cents lower, September 2.38, and oats were 3 3/4-5 3/8 lower, September $1.08.

Former Governor Supports Candidate For State School Superintendent

LAKE CHARLES, La., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Former Gov. Sam Jones today endorsed the candidacy of S. M. Jackson for state superintendent of education, and expressed hope that all groups wanting that office removed from factional politics would do likewise.

"The Jones ticket," the former governor said, "endorses the candidacy of S. M. Jackson for state superintendent of education, and we believe him qualified by character, training and experience for this vitally important office.

"Mr. Jackson has a special understanding of the educational needs of our underprivileged people. Moreover, he has the vision needed to bring about a trained citizenship to develop Louisiana's sources and possibilities.

"Finally, he has committed himself to bring about a well rounded educational program for the state.

"We hope that this office can be removed from factional politics. Schools should be completely free from this influence. We therefore hope that all elements, factions and groups who share this will join in backing Mr. Jackson's candidacy to the end that he may have a new day for Louisiana's public schools."

restored to operation several hours later, he said.

A grim reminder of how close the city approached serious damage lay in statement by Rodriguez that if the storm had struck a year ago, the city would have been without power for several days.

However, during the last year, Rodriguez said, four more substations have been installed, a system of automatic breakers has been put in operation, and high lines have been reinforced with heavy copper wiring.

Although the storm had subsided to little more than wind gusts and sporadic rains, amateur radio operators yesterday were still on duty in Monroe and in more than 500 stations comprising the hurricane network.

With communications still disabled in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, and other areas which lay in path of the hammering hurricane, the "hams" continued to direct emergency and rescue operations along the coast.

Bernie Wilenzick, operator of Station W5IBF at his home at 502 Erin Avenue, said that he and two others served as dispatchers for all trains in the New Orleans area, including the Illinois Central's crack Panama Limited.

Howard Griffith, of Edgewater Gardens, said he had transmitted more than 200 inquiries from families seeking information about persons in the storm area. In addition, Griffith said he was continuing to serve as a contact for various rescue crews in the coast sections.

The Red Cross office here closed at midnight Friday, after it became apparent that the worst of the storm was over. Disaster crews removed to the safety of schools and churches several families who feared the hurricane winds predicted earlier, but no calls for other assistance were received, the office reported.

The municipal airport, closed to air traffic late Friday afternoon, was reopened about 2 a. m. yesterday. Delta airlines resumed all flights after 9 a. m., but a west-bound schedule to Fort Worth at 6.05 a. m. and an 8:29 a. m. flight to Atlanta were both grounded because planes were unable to return to points of origin.

The Southern Bell Telephone company reported that most of its circuits to Baton Rouge and New Orleans were still out, and that emergency calls only were being accepted, subject to a delay of six or more hours.

Early yesterday morning carpenters were at work putting back a roof on the home of George D. Richardson on the Columbia road. Richardson, who apparently felt the storm at its worst, said the roof sailed off about 9 p. m. Friday, and exposing the interior and the occupants to the accompanying rains.

The Red Cross said that two families whose homes were damaged by the storm had moved in with relatives for the present.

By morning all of the city's hotels, jammed by out-of-towners stranded by the approaching storm and by local residents who sought safer shelter, had been emptied of the overflow.

First reports of the storm's damage here were exaggerated. A broadcast that parts of the Virginia Hotel roof garden had been blown away was later discounted by L. J. Hulin, the manager, who said that the only damage was the loss of a piece of flashing from the roof.

CRASH LANDING MADE BY CRIPPLED CLIPPER

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—A four-engined Pan-American airways clipper, limping in on two engines after an exploding tire damaged its landing gear in the air, made a crash landing early tonight without injury to the 41 passengers and crew members aboard, it was reported.

The plane was Bodoszrer LaGuardia Field from Bermuda, but headed for Floyd Bennett Field, which was nearer, after the trouble developed as the craft prepared for the approach about 50 miles out of New York City.

Union parish's four-month-old Ora field was credited with its 31st successful oil well yesterday when the Monroe district conservation office reported the Lion Oil company's Farrar No. 2, in section 34-22-1W, had been officially gauged as flowing at the rate of 132 barrels per day. The test was through a 16/64-inch choke from 2,140-54 feet, with the oil gravity 30.2 and gas-oil ratio 50 to 1.

Since the Ora discovery well, first of the 31 producers, was brought in on June 1 nineteen dry holes have been drilled in and around the field and there are a number of wells that still are undergoing tests after not being immediately successful.

The new Lion well is the company's second good one on the Farrar lease, which is just northeast of production on the Perry J. Tucker farm. The Farrar No. 1 was brought in recently at the rate of 162 barrels per day. The Lion company, which has its headquarters at El Dorado, Ark., applied earlier in the week for permits for wells No. 3 and 6 on the same lease, and its contractor, the Markham Production Co. of Kilgore, Texas, yesterday was setting surface pipe for No. 3.

Northeast of the Farrar lease and in the same section, township and range, the Guy Mabee Drilling company was said yesterday to have an assured producer in its S. L. Smith No. 2. Heavily saturated oil sand was reported to have been cored Thursday and preliminary tests Saturday were declared to indicate that the well would prove one of the best in the field.

Union parish's only current deep test, the Pan-American Production company's wildcat, the Elva Rugg No. 1, was listed in the conservation department's weekly report as drilling below 8,200 feet. Located in section 31-20-1W, seven miles northwest of Downsville and a half-mile from the Lincoln parish line, the well is to go down 10,000 feet in search of deep production.

The California Company's deep search for oil in the Lafourche swamp, in Ouachita parish, eight miles southeast of Monroe, was down 5,159 feet, the weekly report said. It is destined for 9,000 feet.

In Morehouse parish the Union Oil company of California's wildcat, the J. W. Thompson No. 1 in section 19-19-6E, begun on Sept. 16, was reported at 150 feet, and the Taylor-Kirby company's Doc E. H. Clark in section 10-20-7E was listed as drilling at 500 feet.

Among abandonments in the Monroe district, not previously reported, was the American Liberty company's wildcat, J. E. Holt No. 6, in section 10-16-8E in Franklin parish, south of the southwest edge of West Delhi field. It was given up as dry at 3,703 feet. Another unsuccessful wildcat was the Marine Oil company's Ayer Timber Unit No. 3 in section 24-15-9E in Madison parish, eight miles northeast of Crowville. It was plugged after reaching a depth of 8,510 feet. The H. W. Williams company's H. A. Strong No. 2 in section 28-9-1E in Grant parish, a mile and a half southeast of Selma, was abandoned at 1,715 feet.

A new Richland parish location, for which a drilling permit was asked Saturday, is the American Liberty's Mengel-Harter Unit No. 1 in section 4-16-8E, in the West Delhi field.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Grains moved over a wide price range in a hectic market on the board of trade today.

Sharp declines extending to 10 cents in wheat, 8 cents in corn and 6 cents in oats were recorded during the first few minutes of trading. In each case this represented the limit permitted in a single session and for corn it was the third consecutive day of limit declines.

Considerable new buying was attracted into the pit at that level, particularly in wheat. The bread cereal had a good rally which cancelled the full 10-cent decline and brought deferred contracts above the preceding close. Corn and oats advanced several cents in sympathy with wheat.

The rally however, failed to hold. Renewed liquidation again forced prices down, with corn sinking again to the limit decline.

Wheat closed 3 3/4-7 1/8 lower, September $2.57 1/4, corn was 8 cents lower, September 2.38, and oats were 3 3/4-5 3/8 lower, September $1.08.

Larger Enrollment Requires More Teachers; Indians Down Rival

Last week held a full schedule for Northeast Junior College what with three days of registration, followed by two days of regular class work, a pep meeting, and Coach James L. Malone's Indians' victory over the football squad from Northwest Mississippi Junior College Thursday night at Brown Field.

Registration figures climbed to 750 exclusive of preparatory students enrolling for music classes. A new record was established by sophomores who reached the highest total for that group in the history of the college. The fall semester picture also shows more civilian students than were enrolled last year. Veterans number 319, according to the service officer of the Louisiana department, veterans affairs, stationed on the campus.

Because of the large enrollment, three additional instructors were employed after the beginning of the semester. Mrs. Mildred Goff Mitchell is on the English faculty and James DeMoss and Waldorf Smith are teaching in the science department.

A feature on this week's calendar of activities is the special assembly in Brown Hall auditorium Tuesday at 9:50 a. m. The public is extended through this medium an invitation to attend the program at which Dr. W. R. Hammond, head of the department of social sciences, will preside. The numbers planned are as follows:

Organ music by Mrs. Florence Z. Allbritton, assistant professor of piano; "America," sung by the audience, with E. Alwin Parker, new member of the science department, leading; Scripture reading and prayer by Dr. A. M. Serex, pastor of the First Methodist Church of this city; violin solos, "Cavatina" and "Bouree," both by Bohm, played by Francis H. Burke, new instructor in violin and instrumental music, who will be accompanied by James Monroe, instructor in piano; address by Dean Rodney Cline; "Alma Mater" by the audience singing with the organ, piano and violin.

2 MAYORS URGE HANDICAPPED AID

Proclamation Issued By Chief Executives Of Twin Cities

Employment of handicapped veterans is being urged by the mayors of Monroe and West Monroe. In the furtherance of this effort a joint proclamation has just been issued by Mayor H. H. Benoit and Mayor C. C. Bell, Jr., of Monroe and West Monroe, respectively. It is as follows:

WHEREAS, the placement of disabled veterans and other handicapped persons in self-sustaining employment presents a problem of sufficient and economic importance, and

WHEREAS, thousands of handicapped workers performed jobs vital to our recent victory in World War II and many other men and women became disabled in the service of their country, and

WHEREAS, there are millions of handicapped persons in the United States, including disabled veterans of World Wars I and II, and

WHEREAS, these handicapped people deserve self-supporting jobs and an equal opportunity to establish economical independence, and

WHEREAS, the Congress of the United States has designated the first week in October of each year as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, and

WHEREAS, the president of the United States has issued a proclamation to the people of the United States to recognize and observe the first week in October of each year as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, and

WHEREAS, the governor of the state of Louisiana has issued a similar proclamation for the state of Louisiana;

NOW, THEREFORE, WE, H. H. BENOIT AND C. C. BELL, JR., mayors of the cities of Monroe and West Monroe, join the president of the United States and the governor of the state of Louisiana in proclaiming the week of October 5th through October 11th as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, and we call upon all local officials, all local employers, all local civic organizations, and all citizens to render all possible assistance in securing suitable employment for the handicapped in order that they may make useful contributions to our communities, state, and nation.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, we have hereunto set our hand and caused the seals of the cities of Monroe and West Monroe to be affixed on this 19th day of September, 1947.

MONROE LITTLE THEATRE INC., STARTS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The Monroe Little Theatre, Inc., now starting its sixteenth membership campaign, owes its organization, in a large way, to inspiration and untiring efforts of the late Mrs. Minnie Ruffin, at that time, principal of the City High School and one of Monroe's leading educators and civic leaders.

In April, the Playground and Recreation Association brought to Monroe, Charles Wells, of New York City, dramatic specialist of the National Recreation Association. Classes in various phases of stage craft were conducted by Mr. Wells, and as a fitting climax to his class in drama, a meeting was held in the auditorium of the St. Francis Sanitarium, to discuss plans for a permanent organization. The first meetings during the organization process were held in the Monroe Hotel and the Jewish Temple Annex.

May 8, 1932, a charter was presented and approved in the Temple Annex and Mrs. Elmer Richards was elected president. Plans were then made for the first play "The Whole Town's Talking," by John Emerson, and Anita Loos. The play was directed by Myrick Russell and presented at the Grand Street Theater, a building formerly used by a movie theater, the use of which was granted by Frank Masling.

There were no seats in the building at the time. The stage was small and there were no dressing rooms. The city agreed to furnish the electricity. Members then redecorated the side walls, painted scenery, arranged for seats, enlarged the stage and made a curtain.

The opening date was July 14, 1932, one of the hottest nights ever experienced in Monroe. But the July heat didn't phase the social committee, who improvised their own air-cooling system. Tubs were filled with ice, and fans so placed that the icey breezes wafted over the audience. Great tubs of iced lemonade were also furnished to assuage the thirst of the perspiring audience. The Grand Street Theater was used for the workshop plays until July, 1933. By this time audiences had grown to such an extent that it was necessary to find larger quarters.

It was then that the heads of the Ouachita Parish Junior College and the Ouachita Parish School were extremely courteous in lending their auditoriums for practice and performance.

Among the plays given in past years by the Monroe Little Theatre are: "Sun Up," directed by Louise Harberson; "Big Hearted Herbert," directed by Blanche Oliver; "Dulcy," directed by Emma Alexander; "Adam and Eva," directed by L. K. Turner; "The Importance of Being Earnest," directed by Jack Purdy; Ibsen's "Doll House," directed by Louis Guerriero; "Submerged," directed by Eula Davenport; "The Patsy," directed by Lucyle Godwin; "Three Cornered Moon," by Mary Louise and George Snellings, Jr.

By 1939, the membership of the Little Theatre was well over a thousand members, and had its own workshop, in a building on North Second Street, with Lorenzo McIntosh Smith, a full-time director.

For two years the Little Theatre flourished, presenting the plays at Junior College, through the courtesy of Dean C. C. Colvert. Six plays were given each year, under the capable direction of Lorenzo. And then came the war. And with it a dearth of male talent and also directors. The future looked gloomy. Many members were in service and for awhile the Little Theatre seemed doomed to a series of manless plays or no plays at all. But, with the advent of Selman field, the picture changed.

A director, Mickey Merrill, whose husband, Captain Merrill was stationed at Selman field, injected new life into the group. There was plenty of talent available at Selman field, ready and willing to take part in the plays.

Many had had extensive experience on the stage, and several wives of Selman field men were movie or Broadway stars.

This afforded and cemented a feeling of good will and friendship between the civilians of Monroe and Selman field. Sunday matinees were given free for the enlisted men and women at Selman field and one or two repeat request performances of plays were given at the Post Theater.

Attendance during this period was record-breaking. The problem of civilian clothes for the Selman field men was often confusing. On one occasion, only two pair of men's civilian shoes could be found for five men in a play. But this was no obstacle. By the simple expedient of removing their shoes when they left the stage, the next man making his entrance did a quick change act, and entered on his cues, properly shod.

With the transfer of captain, then Major Merrill to Detroit, a new director, Rose Serwich, took over, and for one year directed the plays, and on numerous occasions afterwards, pinch-hit for other directors.

When the affairs of the world had once again resumed their normal course, the services of Kay Crandall were secured.

Miss Crandall has had extensive experience in Little Theatre work, and has the distinction of being the only woman ever to direct a G. I. play while with the Red Cross in China.

And so, the Monroe Little Theatre is entering its sixteenth year of existence, planning an even greater future and a permanent home.

MRS. JEANNE HARDEN IS SPEAKER AT MEETING OF SECRETARIES INTERNATIONAL

The Monroe Chapter of Secretaries International was privileged to hear at the August business meeting one of its members, Mrs. Jeanne Harden, give an excellent address on "Why I Am a Member of Secretaries International and the Qualifications necessary to Enter." Mrs. Harden said:

"Ladies, I feel it is an honor and a privilege to be a member of a secretaries organization of this type.

"This organization is doing so much to make employers realize the importance of their secretary's position, that she is keeping in touch with anything new in her line of work, that she is making new contacts constantly, that she is bettering herself as a person.

"A secretary doesn't look at her position as an eight-hour-a-day job which she works at only for her check. She makes that position become a vital part of her life. It is as important to her as eating and sleeping. Thus, in belonging to an organization such as Secretaries' International, whose standards are of the best, she shows everyone that she means to do everything possible to attain the "perfect secretary" which we all want to be.

"In our organization we want only the best secretaries, the highest type of secretaries. We want our organization to be the finest in Monroe, in the state of Louisiana, and in fact, the United States.

"We don't want any kind of a secretary. We want secretaries whom we are proud of, whose character is fine, who will do everything they can to improve and better the organization, be a vital working part. We might compare our organization to a wheel, every spoke of which is necessary to the movement of the wheel, which, in turn, is as necessary to the vehicle as the other wheels. The spokes, in this case, would be the members.

"So you see, ladies, why we are so particular. One flaw or one bad spoke would impair the forward movement of the wheel. One secretary with a questionable reputation would cause unfavorable comment, so we have the best and want the best.

"Ladies, let me review again the steps that must be taken to become a member of the Monroe Chapter. First, the secretary visits or is a guest at a meeting. She expresses her desire to become a member of Secretaries International. The directors then examine her qualifications to make sure she is eligible for membership. The membership chairman mails her an application for membership. She must, of course, pay an initiation fee and annual dues that can be arranged at her convenience. Upon completion of the application she will be initiated into the finest organization in our United States."

Mrs. Harden, who is employed at the Agriculture Extension Service in West Monroe, serves as membership chairman of the Monroe Chapter.

Following Mrs. Harden's address, the vice-president, Mrs. Lena Wallace, displayed a number of souvenirs she received at the national convention held in Memphis in July.

Business for the evening consisted of considerable discussion as to whether the Southwest Regional Convention should be held in Monroe. A motion was made and carried that Monroe be hostess to the convention to be held October 25 and 26. A special meeting was called for Wednesday, August 27, to complete plans. The program for September, to be led by the finance chairman, Mrs. Marion Tetreau, was outlined for the benefit of the members.

Members and guests present were Lena Wallace, Lois Hollingsworth, Helen McDaniel, Marion Tetreau, Vicci Bennett, Juanita George, Marguerite Lindle, Helen Youngblook, Jeanne Harden and Lucile Jones.

CHILDREN ARE BROUGHT TO HAPPY AND USEFUL LIVING THROUGH P.-T. A. MEDIUM

"There is a parenthood so proud that it will not ask or take for its children that which it does not strive to share with the children of all." These words of great significance grace the last leaf of the interesting year books just issued by the Sherrouse Parent Teacher association.

Glancing over the Sherrouse P.-T. A. year book placed on our desk by the publicity chairman, we noted the beautiful words of the Parent-Teacher Prayer appearing in the first section. It would be well for every parent of school-age children to memorize the lines as follows:

"Heavenly Father:

We come to Thee for wisdom to understand our children and patience to live, work, and share our lives with them.

Grant us power to guard their health, education, recreation, and spiritual development and to make them strong in body, mind, and spirit.

Teach us to love our neighbor, that our children may learn tolerance and that there may be peace among nations.

Free us from fear, that our courage may make our homes a haven of security for those we love.

Strengthen all who lead, that they may know and do Thy will in our time.

Fill our hearts with faith, that our gifts and powers may be used to lay the firm foundations of a better world. Thou wilt be a refuge; to our flag, a promise; to our country, a fortress.

Consecrate us to our tasks, and bless us that we may bless all children everywhere."

The policies of the P.-T. A. also published in the year book were read with interest. They are:

To carry on constructive work for better parenthood, better homes, better schools and better communities.

To refrain from all partisan and factional political activities.

To abstain from encroaching on administrative functions of the school.

To co-operate with the principal and the teachers in promoting the best interests of the school and community.

The work which this capable group of women will conduct through the coming year is clearly outlined in the program.

Special emphasis is placed on American Education Week, Book Week and Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. Plans for Christmas will be more elaborate than ever this year.

The twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of the P.-T. A. in Louisiana will be observed not only by the Sherrouse P.-T. A. but every association in the Twin Cities. The past twenty-five years have been mighty years, signifying great progress along the paths that bring our children to happy, useful, adventurous living. Forty thousand members united on behalf of child welfare and the guidance of parents and teachers really constitute a powerful force in Louisiana and the four million and a half national members of P.-T. A. have a challenging task as trustees for the welfare of the nation's children.

A supper of beautiful appointment was given in one of the private dining rooms of the Heidelberg hotel, Jackson, Miss., the night following rehearsal of the Nolan-Harkins wedding party at the church. Miss Josephine Nola, the bride-elect was also honored with a seated tea in the home of Mrs. J. M. Balck of Jackson, the week before her marriage. Other prenuptial affairs included a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. John P. Harkins.

Sherrouse P.-T. A. Members Outline The Year's Work

A large and enthusiastic group was welcomed by Mrs. W. O. Webb, president of the Sherrouse P.-T. A., at the first meeting of the year at the school Wednesday afternoon.

The roll call of members was conducted by Mrs. E. L. Magnon, Membership chairman, who at this time reported 240 members up to date. Each paid member received an attractive handbook prepared by Mrs. Herbert Walker, program chairman.

Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett, public health nurse, spoke on Community and School Facilities which are available. "Too much emphasis cannot be placed on having a child immunized and parents now come to have the children vaccinated long before they enter school," said Mrs. Gossett.

Mrs. Reid Talks To Members Of The Pilot Club

Miss Nona Martin, president of the Pilot Club thanked every member for the excellent work done throughout the summer when they met for the first meeting of the fall season in the home of Mrs. Lucille Coats with Mrs. Janet Lynch, co-hostess.

Miss Martin stressed the importance of the educational program planned by the club and praised in highest terms the work already accomplished along this line.

The year books, published by Miss Katie McGee and Mrs. Elma Lois Williams, were distributed at this time and thanks extended both members for the excellence of their work.

Delegates who attended the Pilot Club convention in Ohio this past summer gave reports of the meeting and told of the work being accomplished by the different clubs throughout the country.

One of the most interesting programs of the year enjoyed by members of the local Pilot Club at the Virginia Hotel featured Mrs. Irene Simms Reid who traveled in South America in July and talked about the work club women are doing "south of the border."

An interesting meeting was held early in September at the Virginia Hotel with Miss Louise Moore and Mrs. Mary Harker, hostesses. Miss Ida Ross Strohn and Miss Helen Benoit were hostesses at the previous meeting.

Sherrouse P.-T. A. Members Outline The Year's Work

A large and enthusiastic group was welcomed by Mrs. W. O. Webb, president of the Sherrouse P.-T. A., at the first meeting of the year at the school Wednesday afternoon.

The roll call of members was conducted by Mrs. E. L. Magnon, Membership chairman, who at this time reported 240 members up to date. Each paid member received an attractive handbook prepared by Mrs. Herbert Walker, program chairman.

Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett, public health nurse, spoke on Community and School Facilities which are available. "Too much emphasis cannot be placed on having a child immunized and parents now come to have the children vaccinated long before they enter school," said Mrs. Gossett.

Miss Nona Martin, president of the Pilot Club thanked every member for the excellent work done throughout the summer when they met for the first meeting of the fall season in the home of Mrs. Lucille Coats with Mrs. Janet Lynch, co-hostess.

Miss Martin stressed the importance of the educational program planned by the club and praised in highest terms the work already accomplished along this line.

The year books, published by Miss Katie McGee and Mrs. Elma Lois Williams, were distributed at this time and thanks extended both members for the excellence of their work.

Delegates who attended the Pilot Club convention in Ohio this past summer gave reports of the meeting and told of the work being accomplished by the different clubs throughout the country.

One of the most interesting programs of the year enjoyed by members of the local Pilot Club at the Virginia Hotel featured Mrs. Irene Simms Reid who traveled in South America in July and talked about the work club women are doing "south of the border."

An interesting meeting was held early in September at the Virginia Hotel with Miss Louise Moore and Mrs. Mary Harker, hostesses. Miss Ida Ross Strohn and Miss Helen Benoit were hostesses at the previous meeting.

La Tertulia Club Meets For First Program Of Year

The home of Mrs. Richard Watkins in West Monroe was adorned with late summer flowers when she and Mrs. H. H. Mullins entertained La Tertulia club members at their first meeting of the new club year.

Mrs. Watkins, the president, presided over the meeting and several items of club business were dispensed with.

Mrs. C. E. Granberry, program chairman, announced the subject for the year, "Our World Today in Relation to the Races of Mankind", chosen by the club in view of its appropriateness in these days.

Two angles of the subject were discussed at this meeting, Mrs. Jeanette Mehaffey talking on "The Red and Brown Races", and Mrs. Granberry's discussion dealing with "The White, Yellow and Black Races."

Mrs. Mahaffey said in part: "The Red Race was one of the original races of mankind and the Brown Race was created after intermarriage [illegible]ith other races after the discovery [illegible] America. The Red race, or American Indians, as we call them, are artistic, energetic, clean and progressive.

"Some of the brick buildings built by them before 1492 are still standing and weather proof. There are still many tribes of Indians in North and Central America. The only place they have been known to live is in the Americas.

"The Brown peoples are found today in most parts of the world. They are very much like the Indians in that they are very artistic and are lovers of music. Some are quite cultured, while others are of the "don't care" type.

In Mrs. Granberry's interesting discussion, she said, "On the basis of bodily characteristics including form, color, and features, modern ethnologists have divided mankind into four primary groups of families, the Caucasian (white) Mongolian (yellow) Negro (black) and American (red). It is probable that all these primary groups had reached definite characteristics before the close of the Stone Age thousands of years B. C.

"The term Caucasian is taken from the mountain range between the Black and the Caspian seas, near which region the finest physical specimens of man have always been found. So we see North Africa between Sahara and the Mediterranean was their original home. This race has now spread through colonization over the whole earth."

Mrs. Granberry then brought to light some of the mental and physical characters of the Mongolian, Yellow, and the Negro races, in which the hair, skin, skull, cheekbone, nose, eyes, speech, stature, and temperament, were widely entered into.

MRS. R. L. M'HENRY ORGANIZES WELCOME WAGON NEWCOMERS CLUB IN THE TWIN CITIES

One of the nicest ways of welcoming newcomers to Monroe and West Monroe has been inaugurated by Mrs. R. L. McHenry, who recently organized a Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club. Mrs. McHenry, hostess for eleven years for the Welcome Wagon conceived the idea of forming a club so that newcomers in the Twin Cities could meet at regular intervals and become acquainted not only with each other but with the older residents.

The response to this idea was splendid. The initial meeting was held Thursday morning at the residence of Mrs. McHenry at 8:10 Walnut Street.

Mr. James A. Noe offered the use of KNOE once a month for a program gotten up by the Newcomer Club introducing some of the members each time. The first radio program will be at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday, September 23, 1947, and every fourth Tuesday thereafter.

Mrs. McHenry explained the significance of the Welcome Wagon and its origin. Welcome Wagon is in every city in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Mrs. McHenry will serve as chairman of the next meeting to be held at the LaCasa at 12:30 p.m. on October 7. Mrs. C. C. Locke, Jr., and Mrs. A. R. Brin will be hostesses.

Mrs. John F. Dillard, Jr., was appointed secretary of the club and Mrs. W. H. Webster as historian.

Balance First Principal In Riding Properly

Everyone in the Twin Cities is more or less "horse minded" these days and especially today with the Junior Charity League Horse Show claiming major attention. In a recent edition of "Saddle and Bridal," national horse magazine, there was an article "Equitation" that will be of interest to every horse lover.

This article, in referring to the principles of horsemanship in intermediate classes, says the young rider seldom, if ever, can predict during early training how far he or she may later practice the sport of riding—"about all that we know at first is the desire to ride a horse."

After a limited number of lessons, some give up riding and become interested in some other sports, while there are others who just ride, yet never improve their ability in horsemanship beyond a certain point, owing to lack of interest or timidity or perhaps a combination of both, Scofield says.

Others continue to ride and display a keen interest to improve their knowledge and ability and become accomplished in the art of horsemanship and in some instances become the owners of show stables and breeding farms; some may even make it a profession.

To those who truly love the sport, riding becomes a great pleasure, but it takes skill which can only be acquired by considerable practice. The art of riding can never be acquired by trying to imitate and copy the style of another, continues Scofield. From the start, the rider must learn to sit on the horse with ease and balance, learn the feel of the saddle and in harmony with every movement of the horse and in this respect the rider's weight, thighs, legs and hands are of the utmost importance to become proficient in equitation.

All riders should be familiar with and have some knowledge of minor training methods and know how to keep a horse from developing certain bad habits that at times may seem simple matters of no importance, yet lead to serious accidents. After all, it is far better to keep the horse from developing a bad habit rather than break him of it. This does not mean that to ride well and become a good rider, one must be a horse trainer, but horses do not always do what their riders want them to do and the difficulties that arise at times are caused by the rider's lack of ability to convey his wishes to the horse; also by the horse showing fear which may result in the horse not only shying or rearing, but running away. Disobedience often shows itself in various little ways and the rider pays little or no attention to these happenings which increase from time to time until the horse displays a stronger will power to the point where they become bad habits, yet if the rider has the knowledge and ability to check the misbehavior of the horse, it is eliminated at the start, rather than allowed to develop into a bad habit and the remedy usually is very simple. It is all based on the old adage that still holds true, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

The sensation of color can be produced by stimuli other than light: for instance, pressure in the eyeball while in complete darkness.

The home of Mrs. Richard Watkins in West Monroe was adorned with late summer flowers when she and Mrs. H. H. Mullins entertained La Tertulia club members at their first meeting of the new club year.

Mrs. Watkins, the president, presided over the meeting and several items of club business were dispensed with.

Mrs. C. E. Granberry, program chairman, announced the subject for the year, "Our World Today in Relation to the Races of Mankind", chosen by the club in view of its appropriateness in these days.

Two angles of the subject were discussed at this meeting, Mrs. Jeanette Mehaffey talking on "The Red and Brown Races", and Mrs. Granberry's discussion dealing with "The White, Yellow and Black Races."

Mrs. Mahaffey said in part: "The Red Race was one of the original races of mankind and the Brown Race was created after intermarriage [illegible]ith other races after the discovery [illegible] America. The Red race, or American indians, as we call them, are artistic, energetic, clean and progressive.

"Some of the brick buildings built by them before 1492 are still standing and weather proof. There are still many tribes of Indians in North and Central America. The only place they have been known to live is in the Americas.

"The Brown peoples are found today in most parts of the world. They are very much like the Indians in that they are very artistic and are lovers of music. Some are quite cultured, while others are of the "don't care" type.

In Mrs. Granberry's interesting discussion, she said, "On the basis of bodily characteristics including form, color, and features, modern ethnologists have divided mankind into four primary groups of families, the Caucasian (white) Mongolian (yellow) Negro (black) and American (red). It is probable that all these primary groups had reached definite characteristics before the close of the Stone Age thousands of years B. C.

"The term Caucasian is taken from the mountain range between the Black and the Caspian seas, near which region the finest physical specimens of man have always been found. So we see North Africa between Sahara and the Mediterranean was their original home. This race has now spread through colonization over the whole earth."

Mrs. Granberry then brought to light some of the mental and physical characters of the Mongolian, Yellow, and the Negro races, in which the hair, skin, skull, cheekbone, nose, eyes, speech, stature, and temperament, were widely entered into.

MRS. R. L. M'HENRY ORGANIZES WELCOME WAGON NEWCOMERS CLUB IN THE TWIN CITIES

One of the nicest ways of welcoming newcomers to Monroe and West Monroe has been inaugurated by Mrs. R. L. McHenry, who recently organized a Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club. Mrs. McHenry, hostess for eleven years for the Welcome Wagon conceived the idea of forming a club so that newcomers in the Twin Cities could meet at regular intervals and become acquainted not only with each other but with the older residents.

The response to this idea was splendid. The initial meeting was held Thursday morning at the residence of Mrs. McHenry at 8:10 Walnut Street.

Mr. James A. Noe offered the use of KNOE once a month for a program gotten up by the Newcomer Club introducing some of the members each time. The first radio program will be at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday, September 23, 1947, and every fourth Tuesday thereafter.

Mrs. McHenry explained the significance of the Welcome Wagon and its origin. Welcome Wagon is in every city in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Mrs. McHenry will serve as chairman of the next meeting to be held at the LaCasa at 12:30 p.m. on October 7. Mrs. C. C. Locke, Jr., and Mrs. A. R. Brin will be hostesses.

Mrs. John F. Dillard, Jr., was appointed secretary of the club and Mrs. W. H. Webster as historian.

Balance First Principal In Riding Properly

Everyone in the Twin Cities is more or less "horse minded" these days and especially today with the Junior Charity League Horse Show claiming major attention. In a recent edition of "Saddle and Bridal," national horse magazine, there was an article "Equitation" that will be of interest to every horse lover.

This article, in referring to the principles of horsemanship in intermediate classes, says the young rider seldom, if ever, can predict during early training how far he or she may later practice the sport of riding—"about all that we know at first is the desire to ride a horse."

After a limited number of lessons, some give up riding and become interested in some other sports, while there are others who just ride, yet never improve their ability in horsemanship beyond a certain point, owing to lack of interest or timidity or perhaps a combination of both, Scofield says.

Others continue to ride and display a keen interest to improve their knowledge and ability and become accomplished in the art of horsemanship and in some instances become the owners of show stables and breeding farms; some may even make it a profession.

To those who truly love the sport, riding becomes a great pleasure, but it takes skill which can only be acquired by considerable practice. The art of riding can never be acquired by trying to imitate and copy the style of another, continues Scofield. From the start, the rider must learn to sit on the horse with ease and balance, learn the feel of the saddle and in harmony with every movement of the horse and in this respect the rider's weight, thighs, legs and hands are of the utmost importance to become proficient in equitation.

All riders should be familiar with and have some knowledge of minor training methods and know how to keep a horse from developing certain bad habits that at times may seem simple matters of no importance, yet lead to serious accidents. After all, it is far better to keep the horse from developing a bad habit rather than break him of it. This does not mean that to ride well and become a good rider, one must be a horse trainer, but horses do not always do what their riders want them to do and the difficulties that arise at times are caused by the rider's lack of ability to convey his wishes to the horse; also by the horse showing fear which may result in the horse not only shying or rearing, but running away. Disobedience often shows itself in various little ways and the rider pays little or no attention to these happenings which increase from time to time until the horse displays a stronger will power to the point where they become bad habits, yet if the rider has the knowledge and ability to check the misbehavior of the horse, it is eliminated at the start, rather than allowed to develop into a bad habit and the remedy usually is very simple. It is all based on the old adage that still holds true, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

MONROE BRANCH OF THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN MEETS

The hospitable plantation home of Dr. Julia Hunter offered an idyllic and peaceful setting for members of the Monroe Branch of the American Association of University Women when they inaugurated their year's work with an all-day A. A. U. W. work shop presided over by the state president, Mrs. George Allen of New Orleans and participated in by branches from Ruston, Shreveport and Natchitoches.

The meeting was held on the spacious, cool porch, overlooking the bayou. Over their coffee cups those present worked out the problems of the various branches.

The main speakers were Dr. Sarah Clapp, Natchitoches, Dr. Katherine French, Shreveport, and Mrs. Charles Bannerman, Shreveport, all of whom had attended both the national meeting of A. A. U. W. at Dallas and the international meeting held recently in Toronto, Canada.

Detailed reports of these meetings were brought to the group and exchange of ideas between the branches afforded a stimulating challenge for the years' work ahead.

The central theme of all the talks and reports was the responsibility which the A. A. U. W. women have in the affairs of the world today.

Dr. Clapp, in speaking on the educational phase of A. A. U. W., pointed out that all the activities of the branches involved some phase of education either directly or indirectly, and that all branches must become aware of the fact that education is a continuous process—that our formal education is only the beginning, that upon the completion of it we enter into a life long graduate school—the world becoming the classroom, and that "education should have its nose under every man's tent."

In pointing out some educational procedures which the branches might follow through, Dr. Clapp advocated keeping in close touch with the schools of the community and aiding in evaluating them by studying the teaching groups, the physical equipment, and the rating. She further stressed the fact that the kind of teacher was important and that the A. A. U. W. group should help in preventing the shortage of teachers from becoming an excuse for the lowering of standards. She advocated open-mindedness relative to new methods and insisted that the branches, in helping along educational lines, avoid devotion to extremes—instead weigh, evaluate, and balance. Another way in which she felt that the women of the branches might be of assistance to the community was to foster the going to college of the superior student and the study of the foreign languages with the view of exchange of students in the future.

Dr. Clapp stressed the need for women in public affairs, pointing out that the educated women should not only vote, but should become available for election to public office, belong to a political party, and work for that party. She also stated that the branches could further their educational program by influencing public opinion before it had been crystalized and thus become effective as a policy forming agency. She advised careful study of the press, the radio, and the movie, appraising them and evaluating their educational values.

Dr. Clapp concluded her address by bringing to the group a quotation which she said she felt all members of the A. A. U. W. might adhere to: "Think like a man of action and act like a man of thought."

Following Dr. Clapp's address Mrs. Charles Bannerman brought a report on International Relations in which she stressed the need for study on such topics as Russia, Germany's atom bomb, cancer, the various economic fields, reciprocal trade, etc. Mrs. Bannerman also advocated a monthly radio broadcast by outstanding women with the idea of bringing to the attention of the public the work which the A. A. U. W. branches are foster-

Dr. Katherine French was the next speaker. Dr. French first reported on the growth of the A. A. U. W. fellowship fund. She told of how the state of Louisiana had completed its quota, with the Monroe Branch leading with the largest per cent per member. Then she told of the great work being done by women who are recipients of the A. A. U. W. fellowships, particularly the women from foreign countries who have been able to do some outstanding work because of these fellowships. She compared the American woman with some of these foreign women showing how the American woman is easily discouraged and some times even lazy. She pointed out that the A. A. U. W. women must have the urge to get up and do. "We can be lazy," she said, "and talk about Southern literature at our meetings and be content or we can get up and do something worthwhile." She continued by saying that if the A. A. U. W. was just another club, then disband—there was no place for it. Dr. French concluded her remarks by saying that the A. A. U. W. is definitely an educational group—that it is up to the women to conserve the spiritual values, to think things through, and in so doing help Europe and thus save the world today.

It was announced at the workshop that the state meeting of the A. A. U. W. would be held in Shreveport with the tentative dates set as March 7-8.

This meeting served as the first meeting of the current year for the Monroe branch. The next meeting will be held in October, the exact date to be announced later. All members of the local branch are urged to contact persons eligible for membership in A. A. U. W. before the October meeting, as October has been designated by the local group as the month for their membership campaign.

The Mangham Literary Club held their first meeting for the 1947-48 club year in the home of Mrs. Lionel Thames, with Mrs. Theo Jones, co-hostess. Lighted candles and arrangement of fall flowers created an attractive background.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. John F. Boughton. Mrs. Bob Bell, leader, had charge of the installation of the club officers as follows: President, Mrs. John F. Boughton; vice-president, Mrs. Adams Childress; recording secretary, Mrs. R. B. Boughton; corresponding secretary, Miss Barbara Nan Corry.

Mrs. Bell introduced the subject "Education Today the Hope of Tomorrow," and the club members joined in the singing of "School Days."

Mrs. Lionel Thames gave an interesting discussion on "Learning to Live Together." She said: "Although alertness to occasions in group life for joint effort yields worthwhile dividends, such incidents do not provide adequate opportunity for the systematic building of social responsibility. It is in the field of extra curriculum activities that schools have made the most progress in getting pupils to work together for a group purpose.

By capitalizing on student body opinion already developed and by stimulating direct participation, a faculty will experience little difficulty in establishing among youth the attitudes and technics of cooperative effort; for youth is quick to sense that the common good should transcend special privilege. They derive much satisfaction from devising the approach to a commonly recognized problem, from contributing to its solution according to their respective abilities and from evaluating the product of their joint efforts."

The "Story of Mary Stewart's Collect" and a biography of Mary Stewart's life was given by Mrs. R. B. Boughton. The "Collect" was written as a personal prayer for the day and without any organization in mind. It was offered for publication under the title, "A Collect for Club Women," because at that time women working together for large interest was a new thing and it was thought they had need for special petition and meditation of their own. The first women's organization to hear or use the Collect or to print it in its year books was the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Two slight changes have been made at Mary Stewart's suggestion in the version as originally printed. One, omission of a title; and two, substitution in the last verse of the prayer of the word human for the word woman's—which in point of fact but restores the original text, for she says she changed the word human to woman's when it was offered for publication under the title of "A Collect for Club Women."

An article from the September issue of General Federation Clubwoman written by Frances Perkins and entitled "Reflections on Education" was reviewed by Mrs. Reese Boies. Mrs. Boies said in part:

"I think that man really, fundamentally, seeks some kind of action that will permanently bless mankind, enable man to live in his world as a human, to live in his own world in his own way as a human; and so we seek today in education to establish humanness. We seek to humanize the strange creatures which we recognize as ourselves. This, I think is the purpose of education and should never be lost sight of as we train our people to be more and more effective tools and instruments for carrying on particular pieces of work, as they become more expert. The hazard is that they may become less humane, less human. Man should and must transmit manhood to their sons and women must and should and will, I think, transmit womanliness to their daughters. It can be done in no other way. It cannot be taught.

But education is not a science, or only partly a science. It is an art. It is an art in which man speaks to man, mind speaks to mind, heart speaks to heart, understanding takes place, and anyone who has ever seen a young person develop, intellectually and spiritually and emotionally, knows that growth and vitality are there."

The Club Collect was read and delicious frosted drinks and confections were served to the following members: Mrs. John F. Boughton, Mrs. Bennie Boughton, Mrs. R. B. Boughton, Mrs. Bob Bell, Mrs. Theo Jones, Mrs. Lionel Thames, Mrs. O. E. Deville, Mrs. Reese Boies, Mrs. Adams Childress.

MONROE BRANCH OF THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN MEETS

The hospitable plantation home of Dr. Julia Hunter offered an idyllic and peaceful setting for members of the Monroe Branch of the American Association of University Women when they inaugurated their year's work with an all-day A. A. U. W. work shop presided over by the state president, Mrs. George Allen of New Orleans and participated in by branches from Ruston, Shreveport and Natchitoches.

The meeting was held on the spacious, cool porch, overlooking the bayou. Over their coffee cups those present worked out the problems of the various branches.

The main speakers were Dr. Sarah Clapp, Natchitoches, Dr. Katherine French, Shreveport, and Mrs. Charles Bannerman, Shreveport, all of whom had attended both the national meeting of A. A. U. W. at Dallas and the international meeting held recently in Toronto, Canada.

Detailed reports of these meetings were brought to the group and exchange of ideas between the branches afforded a stimulating challenge for the years' work ahead.

The central theme of all the talks and reports was the responsibility which the A. A. U. W. women have in the affairs of the world today.

Dr. Clapp, in speaking on the educational phase of A. A. U. W., pointed out that all the activities of the branches involved some phase of education either directly or indirectly, and that all branches must become aware of the fact that education is a continuous process—that our formal education is only the beginning, that upon the completion of it we enter into a life long graduate school—the world becoming the classroom, and that "education should have its nose under every man's tent."

In pointing out some educational procedures which the branches might follow through, Dr. Clapp advocated keeping in close touch with the schools of the community and aiding in evaluating them by studying the teaching groups, the physical equipment, and the rating. She further stressed the fact that the kind of teacher was important and that the A. A. U. W. group should help in preventing the shortage of teachers from becoming an excuse for the lowering of standards. She advocated open-mindedness relative to new methods and insisted that the branches, in helping along educational lines, avoid devotion to extremes—instead weigh, evaluate, and balance. Another way in which she felt that the women of the branches might be of assistance to the community was to foster the going to college of the superior student and the study of the foreign languages with the view of exchange of students in the future.

Dr. Clapp stressed the need for women in public affairs, pointing out that the educated women should not only vote, but should become available for election to public office, belong to a political party, and work for that party. She also stated that the branches could further their educational program by influencing public opinion before it had been crystalized and thus become effective as a policy forming agency. She advised careful study of the press, the radio, and the movie, appraising them and evaluating their educational values.

Dr. Clapp concluded her address by bringing to the group a quotation which she said she felt all members of the A. A. U. W. might adhere to: "Think like a man of action and act like a man of thought."

Following Dr. Clapp's address Mrs. Charles Bannerman brought a report on International Relations in which she stressed the need for study on such topics as Russia, Germany's atom bomb, cancer, the various economic fields, reciprocal trade, etc. Mrs. Bannerman also advocated a monthly radio broadcast by outstanding women with the idea of bringing to the attention of the public the work which the A. A. U. W. branches are foster-

Dr. Katherine French was the next speaker. Dr. French first reported on the growth of the A. A. U. W. fellowship fund. She told of how the state of Louisiana had completed its quota, with the Monroe Branch leading with the largest per cent per member. Then she told of the great work being done by women who are recipients of the A. A. U. W. fellowships, particularly the women from foreign countries who have been able to do some outstanding work because of these fellowships. She compared the American woman with some of these foreign women showing how the American woman is easily discouraged and some times even lazy. She pointed out that the A. A. U. W. women must have the urge to get up and do. "We can be lazy," she said, "and talk about Southern literature at our meetings and be content or we can get up and do something worthwhile." She continued by saying that if the A. A. U. W. was just another club, then disband—there was no place for it. Dr. French concluded her remarks by saying that the A. A. U. W. is definitely an educational group—that it is up to the women to conserve the spiritual values, to think things through, and in so doing help Europe and thus save the world today.

It was announced at the workshop that the state meeting of the A. A. U. W. would be held in Shreveport with the tentative dates set as March 7-8.

This meeting served as the first meeting of the current year for the Monroe branch. The next meeting will be held in October, the exact date to be announced later. All members of the local branch are urged to contact persons eligible for membership in A. A. U. W. before the October meeting, as October has been designated by the local group as the month for their membership campaign.

The Mangham Literary Club held their first meeting for the 1947-48 club year in the home of Mrs. Lionel Thames, with Mrs. Theo Jones, cohostess. Lighted candles and arrangement of fall flowers created an attractive background.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. John F. Boughton. Mrs. Bob Bell, leader, had charge of the installation of the club officers as follows: President, Mrs. John F. Boughton; vice-president, Mrs. Adams Childress; recording secretary, Mrs. R. B. Boughton; corresponding secretary, Miss Barbara Nan Corry.

Mrs. Bell introduced the subject "Education Today the Hope of Tomorrow," and the club members joined in the singing of "School Days."

Mrs. Lionel Thames gave an interesting discussion on "Learning to Live Together." She said: "Although alertness to occasions in group life for joint effort yields worthwhile dividends, such incidents do not provide adequate opportunity for the systematic building of social responsibility. It is in the field of extra curriculum activities that schools have made the most progress in getting pupils to work together for a group purpose.

By capitalizing on student body opinion already developed and by stimulating direct participation, a faculty will experience little difficulty in establishing among youth the attitudes and technics of cooperative effort; for youth is quick to sense that the common good should transcend special privilege. They derive much satisfaction from devising the approach to a commonly recognized problem, from contributing to its solution according to their respective abilities and from evaluating the product of their joint efforts."

The "Story of Mary Stewart's Collect" and a biography of Mary Stewart's life was given by Mrs. R. B. Boughton. The "Collect" was written as a personal prayer for the day and without any organization in mind. It was offered for publication under the title, "A Collect for Club Women," because at that time women working together for large interest was a new thing and it was thought they had need for special petition and meditation of their own. The first women's organization to hear or use the Collect or to print it in its year books was the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Two slight changes have been made at Mary Stewart's suggestion in the version as originally printed. One, omission of a title; and two, substitution in the last verse of the prayer of the word human for the word woman's—which in point of fact but restores the original text, for she says she changed the word human to woman's when it was offered for publication under the title of "A Collect for Club Women."

An article from the September issue of General Federation Clubwoman written by Frances Perkins and entitled "Reflections on Education" was reviewed by Mrs. Reese Boies. Mrs. Boies said in part:

"I think that man really, fundamentally, seeks some kind of action that will permanently bless mankind, enable man to live in his world as a human, to live in his own world in his own way as a human; and so we seek today in education to establish humanness. We seek to humanize the strange creatures which we recognize as ourselves. This, I think is the purpose of education and should never be lost sight of as we train our people to be more and more effective tools and instruments for carrying on particular pieces of work, as they become more expert. The hazard is that they may become less humane, less human. Man should and must transmit manhood to their sons and women must and should and will, I think, transmit womanliness to their daughters. It can be done in no other way. It cannot be taught.

But education is not a science, or only partly a science. It is an art. It is an art in which man speaks to man, mind speaks to mind, heart speaks to heart, understanding takes place, and anyone who has ever seen a young person develop, intellectually and spiritually and emotionally, knows that growth and vitality are there."

The Club Collect was read and delicious frosted drinks and confections were served to the following members: Mrs. John F. Boughton, Mrs. Bennie Boughton, Mrs. R. B. Boughton, Mrs. Bob Bell, Mrs. Theo Jones, Mrs. Lionel Thames, Mrs. O. E. Deville, Mrs. Reese Boies, Mrs. Adams Childress.

WEDDING IN JACKSON IS OF INTEREST TO MANY FRIENDS IN THIS CITY

St. Peter's Catholic Church, Jackson, Miss., was the setting for a wedding characterized by simplicity and beauty Saturday morning, August 16, at 9:30 o'clock when Miss Josephine Anne Nola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nola, Sr., of Monroe, Louisiana, became the bride of Robert Michael Harkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Harkins of Carthage, Mississippi. The impressive double ring ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. M. Andrew Lawrence, followed by a nuptial mass in the presence of relatives and friends.

The main altar was beautifully decorated with white gladioli and white lilies mixed with fern and greenery in gold vases. White tapers burned softly in gold candelabra. The family pews were marked with bows of white ribbon.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. R. E. Jefferson, organist, presented a program of nuptial music and during the mass, Miss Mattye Hobert sang Schubert's "Ave Maria," Bach-Gounod's "Panis Angelicus" and "Oh, Lord, I Am Not Worthy." The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Mrs. Paul Nola, mother of the bride, was attired in a blue crepe with a corsage of pale yellow fujii mums. Mrs. M. P. Harkins, mother of the groom, wore a gray printed crepe with a corsage of rubrum lilies.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. John P. Harkins, as best man. Ushers were Mr. Steve A. Nasca, Baton Rouge, La., and Mr. E. J. Hickey, Chicago, Illinois. Groomsmen were: Mr. Leo Kraft of State College and Mr. Oliver Waggener, Jr. Altar boys were Jack Luckett and Joe Harkins.

Lovely Bride

The bride entered on the arm of her brother, Paul Nola, Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., who gave her in marriage. She was lovely in an ivory wedding gown of traditional bridal satin with a yoke of marquisette outlined with soft folds of satin forming a bertha which was embroidered with seed pearls. The fitted bodice was a pointed basque from which the voluminous skirt ended in a graceful cathedral train. The close fitting sleeves ended in lily points embroidered with seed pearls. The fingertip veil of imported illusion fell in cape effect from a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, amazon lilies, white carnations and tuberoses caught with white satin ribbon. For something old she wore a pair of antique gold and pearl earrings which belonged to her grandmother. She also wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Steve A. Nasca was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a floor-length model of shell pink marquisette over taffeta. Soft ruffles outlined the drop-shoulder neckline adorned at intervals with handmade flowers and this motif was repeated on the extremely full skirt which formed a bustle in the back. Her headdress was a halo of pink tulle with matching flowers to her bouquet and a shoulder-length veil of the same color. She carried a heart-shaped bouquet trimmed in shell pink horsehair braid with a cluster of orchids on the upper left hand side of the heart and orchid fujii mum petals following the line of the heart. She wore elbow-length lace mitts and the earrings given her by the bride.

The bride was also attended by Miss Teresa Harkins, maid of honor and Mrs. Frank Parrino, sister of the bride. They wore gowns similar to the matron of honor in heavenly blue with bouquets trimmed with blue horsehair braid and clusters of orcnids.

Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nola entertained with an informal reception in the Silver Room of the Heidelberg Hotel immediately following the ceremony. The two tables were overlaid with lovely damask covers. The bride's table was centered with a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake crested with a miniature bride and groom figurine, on either side of which were white carnation trees. Surrounding the cake were dainty garlands of tuberoses and fern. The other table contained the punch bowl with garlands of tuberoses and trays of delicious fingertip sandwiches. Garlands forming the words "Jo and Bud" were also used. The reception room was banked with palms and ferns with two princess baskets of white gladioli.

After the wedding cake had been cut in traditional fashion, it was served by Mrs. John P. Harkins. Punch was served by Miss Alice Owens and Mrs. J. M. Black. Miss Peggy Patterson presided over the bride's book.

The bride attended Neville High School, Monroe Commercial College and Northeast Junior College. She is a member of the Sigma Sigma and the National Honor Society. At present she is affiliated with United Gas Pipe Line Company.

Out of town guests for the wedding and reception were: Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hickey, Chicago, Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Nola, Monroe, La., Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Harkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harkins, Carthage, Miss., Miss Rosemary Marzula, Miss Mary Fury, Monroe, La., Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Sciara, Monroe, La., Mr. and Mrs. Steve Nasca, Baton Rouge, La., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nola, Jr., Birmingham, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parrino, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nola, Sr., Monroe, La., Mrs. E. Noel Caffey, Raleigh, North Carolina, Mrs. W. B. Kenna, Miss Alice Owens, Miss Bessie French, Mrs. E. J. Hickey from Chicago, Ill., Mrs. R. O. Luckett, Mrs. A. L. Fussie, Miss Nola and Miss Harkins.

Opera Club Meets With Mrs. R. Cline

Daniel Gregory Mason's popular book, "From Song To Symphony" has been selected for the course of study by the Opera Club of Monroe. The first chapter on "The Folksong" was given by Mrs. C. R. Tidwell at the opening meeting for the new club year. The lovely home of Mrs. Rodney Cline was beautifully decorated with floral arrangements and long-stemmed rose buds predominated as the club flower. Mrs. Cline and Mrs. P. A. Colvin were the very gracious co-hostesses.

These morning meetings always begin with serving, and on this occasion, especially delicious dainties were enjoyed. Mrs. R. W. Cretney made the presentation of a beautiful, gold Opera Club Pin to the out-going president, Mrs. Tidwell. This pin is identical to those presented to each president for the past twelve years.

Mrs. A. R. Doughty, the new president, presided over a short business session and then introduced the program chairman, Mrs. J. C. Liner, Jr. A lovely program of folksongs from different countries was given. The first number being Irish, "Would God I Were a Tender Apple Blossom" was sung by Mrs. J. Norman Coon. Then a Welsh folksong, "All Through The Night" was given in duet by Mrs. B. B. Martin and Mrs. J. Milton Coalson, who also sang a German number, "How Can I Leave Thee". Mrs. R. W. Cretney's contralto voice gave beauty to "Deep River", an American folksong.

The inspiring Club motto by Sydney Lanier was read in unison, "Music Means Harmony, Harmony Means Love, Love Means. . . . God."

PROMINENT JUNIOR CHARITY LEAGUE MEMBER

Mrs. J. L. Adams, Jr., Publicity chairman of the Junior Charity League, was one of the most indefatigable workers for the Horse Show sponsored by the league. She gave the members invaluable aid during the weeks when the preliminary work was being done.

'YOUTH AND YOUR COMMUNITY' IS SUBJECT OF THE CURRENT LITERATURE CLUB PROGRAM

Mrs. Earl Stovall, president, presided over the short business. At this time a project for the coming year was discussed.

The topic of the day, "Youth and Your Community" was given by Mrs. Leon Dennis.

Mrs. E. P. Cudd, guest speaker, gave a most interesting review of the book, "Thus Far and NO Further" by Rumer Godden. The book is really a collection of experiences and thoughts of the author during her stay in a bungalow situated far up the slopes of a range in the Himalayas. The bungalow was a spot of isolated beauty whose subtle influence on the lives of the author, her two children and their lovable Swiss-Italian governess is charmingly told.

Long ago there was a legendary flood in India. As the waters rose up the slopes of the mountain, a Lama left his quiet abode of contemplation and said to the water, "Rungli-Rungliot" ("Thus far and no further"), and the waters obeyed him. There after the place was called, Rungli-Rungliot. Rumer Godden's account of the winter spent there shows how each member of the tiny community flourished in that rarefied atmosphere of loving kindness and simple friendship. It is a highly personal story of an episode in the life of a deeply perspective, extremely sensitive woman, an idyll of the sort that each human being treasures in memory.

Delicious refreshments were served to the following members and guest: Mrs. Jordan Barton, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. Gene Demmary, Mrs. Dan Dennett, Mrs. Leon Dennis, Mrs. L. M. Frey, Mrs. H. C. Menuet, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr., Mrs. J. W. Reeves, Mrs. R. E. Seiler, Mrs. Earl Stovall, Mrs. Wm. Whitfield, Mrs. Jerry Whitledge, Mrs. Jack Wyatt and Mrs. E. P. Cudd.

P. Harkins of Carthage, Mississippi. The impressive double ring ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. M. Andrew Lawrence, followed by a nuptial mass in the presence of relatives and friends.

The main altar was beautifully decorated with white gladioli and white lilies mixed with fern and greenery in gold vases. White tapers burned softly in gold candelabra. The family pews were marked with bows of white ribbon.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. R. E. Jefferson, organist, presented a program of nuptial music and during the mass, Miss Mattye Hobert sang Schubert's "Ave Maria," Bach-Gounod's "Panis Angelicus" and "Oh, Lord, I Am Not Worthy." The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Mrs. Paul Nola, mother of the bride, was attired in a blue crepe with a corsage of pale yellow fujii mums. Mrs. M. P. Harkins, mother of the groom, wore a gray printed crepe with a corsage of rubrum lilies.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. John P. Harkins, as best man. Ushers were Mr. Steve A. Nasca, Baton Rouge, La., and Mr. E. J. Hickey, Chicago, Illinois. Groomsmen were: Mr. Leo Kraft of State College and Mr. Oliver Waggener, Jr. Altar boys were Jack Luckett and Joe Harkins.

Lovely Bride

The bride entered on the arm of her brother, Paul Nola, Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., who gave her in marriage. She was lovely in an ivory wedding gown of traditional bridal satin with a yoke of marquisette outlined with soft folds of satin forming a bertha which was embroidered with seed pearls. The fitted bodice was a pointed basque from which the voluminous skirt ended in a graceful cathedral train. The close fitting sleeves ended in lily points embroidered with seed pearls. The fingertip veil of imported illusion fell in cape effect from a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, amazon lilies, white carnations and tuberoses caught with white satin ribbon. For something old she wore a pair of antique gold and pearl earrings which belonged to her grandmother. She also wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Steve A. Nasca was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a floor-length model of shell pink marquisette over taffeta. Soft ruffles outlined the drop-shoulder neckline adorned at intervals with handmade flowers and this motif was repeated on the extremely full skirt which formed a bustle in the back. Her headdress was a halo of pink tulle with matching flowers to her bouquet and a shoulder-length veil of the same color. She carried a heart-shaped bouquet trimmed in shell pink horsehair braid with a cluster of orchids on the upper left hand side of the heart and orchid fujii mum petals following the line of the heart. She wore elbow-length lace mitts and the earrings given her by the bride.

The bride was also attended by Miss Teresa Harkins, maid of honor and Mrs. Frank Parrino, sister of the bride. They wore gowns similar to the matron of honor in heavenly blue with bouquets trimmed with blue horsehair braid and clusters of orchids.

Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nola entertained with an informal reception in the Silver Room of the Heidelberg Hotel immediately following the ceremony. The two tables were overlaid with lovely damask covers. The bride's table was centered with a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake crested with a miniature bride and groom figurine, on either side of which were white carnation trees. Surrounding the cake were dainty garlands of tuberoses and fern. The other table contained the punch bowl with garlands of tuberoses and trays of delicious fingertip sandwiches. Garlands forming the words "Jo and Bud" were also used. The reception room was banked with palms and ferns with two princess baskets of white gladioli.

After the wedding cake had been cut in traditional fashion, it was served by Mrs. John P. Harkins. Punch was served by Miss Alice Owens and Mrs. J. M. Black. Miss Peggy Patterson presided over the bride's book.

The bride attended Neville High School, Monroe Commercial College and Northeast Junior College. She is a member of the Sigma Sigma and the National Honor Society. At present she is affiliated with United Gas Pipe Line Company.

Cut of town guests for the wedding and reception were; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hickey, Chicago, Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Nola, Monroe, La., Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Harkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Opera Club Meets With Mrs. R. Cline

Daniel Gregory Mason's popular book, "From Song To Symphony" has been selected for the course of study by the Opera Club of Monroe. The first chapter on "The Folksong" was given by Mrs. C. R. Tidwell at the opening meeting for the new club year. The lovely home of Mrs. Rodney Cline was beautifully decorated with floral arrangements and long-stemmed rose buds predominated as the club flower. Mrs. Cline and Mrs. P. A. Colvin were the very gracious co-hostesses.

These morning meetings always begin with serving, and on this occasion, especially delicious dainties were enjoyed. Mrs. R. W. Cretney made the presentation of a beautiful, gold Opera Club Pin to the out-going president, Mrs. Tidwell. This pin is identical to those presented to each president for the past twelve years.

Mrs. A. R. Doughty, the new president, presided over a short business session and then introduced the program chairman, Mrs. J. C. Liner, Jr. A lovely program of folksongs from different countries was given. The first number being Irish, "Would God I Were a Tender Apple Blossom" was sung by Mrs. J. Norman Coon. Then a Welsh folksong, "All Through The Night" was given in duet by Mrs. B. B. Martin and Mrs. J. Milton Coalson, who also sang a German number, "How Can I Leave Thee". Mrs. R. W. Cretney's contralto voice gave beauty to "Deep River", an American folksong.

The inspiring Club motto by Sydney Lanier was read in unison, "Music Means Harmony, Harmony Means Love, Love Means. . . . God."

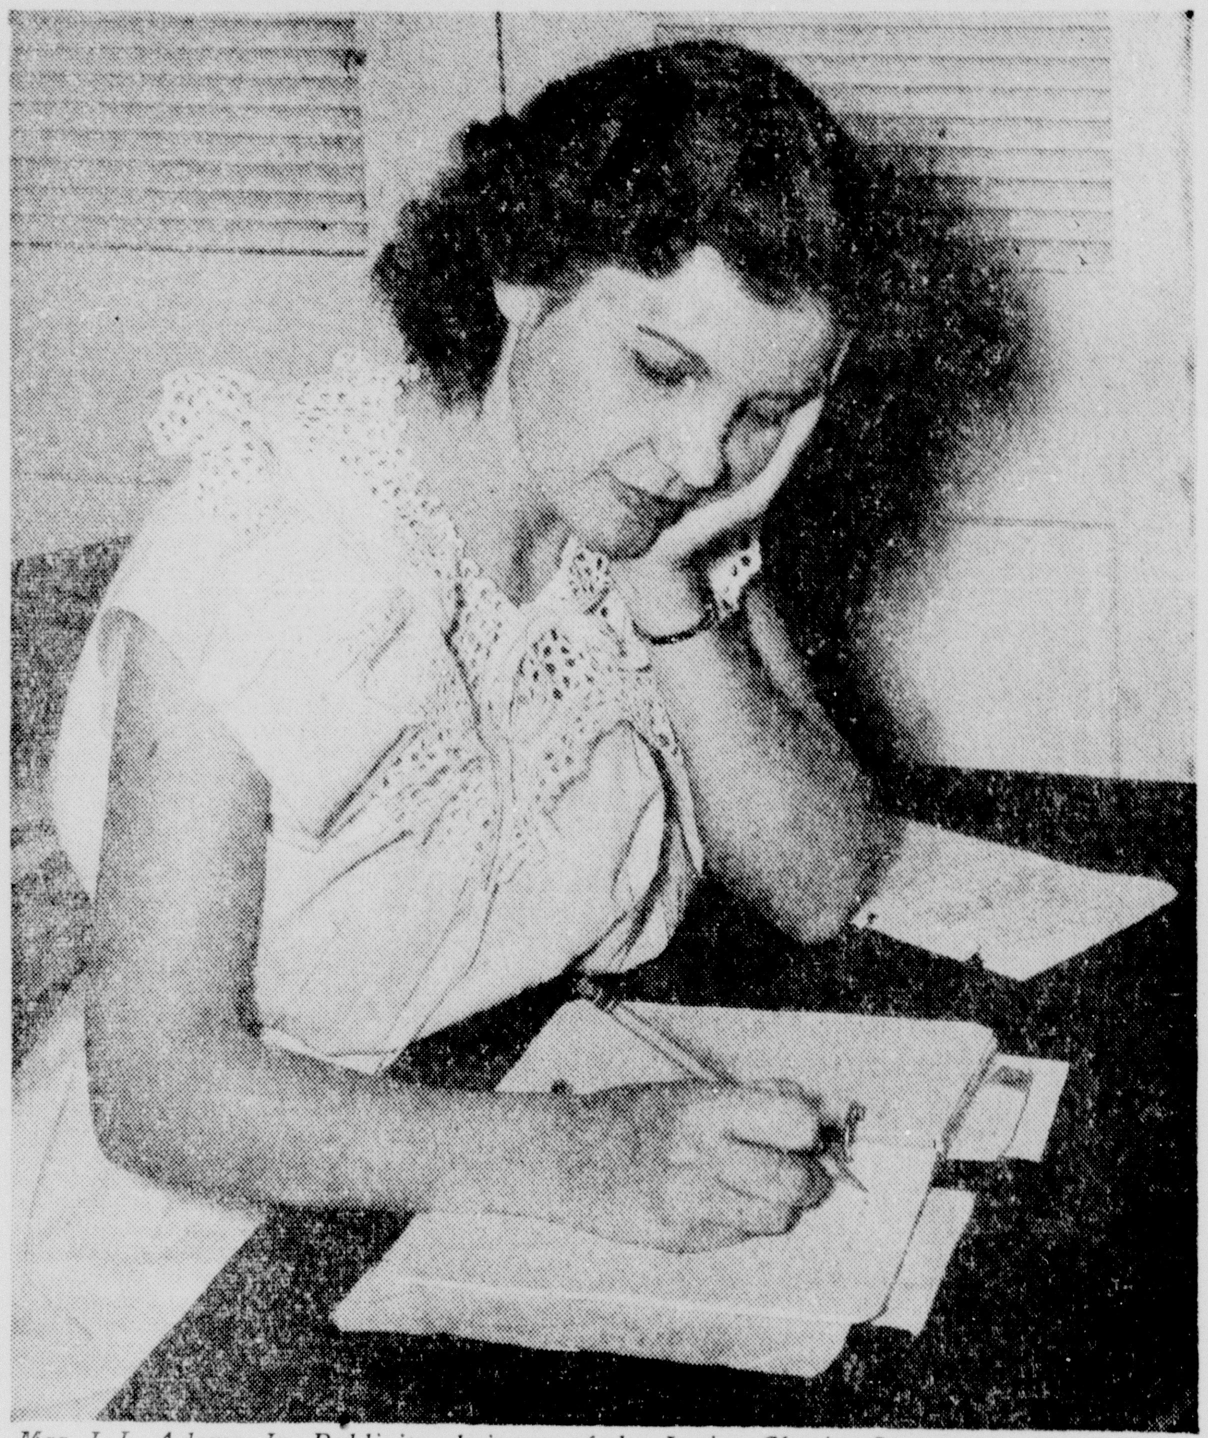
PROMINENT JUNIOR CHARITY LEAGUE MEMBER



Mrs. J. L. Adams, Jr., Publicity chairman of the Junior Charity League, was one of the most indefatigable workers for the Horse Show sponsored by the league. She gave the members invaluable aid during the weeks when the preliminary work was being done.

'YOUTH AND YOUR COMMUNITY' IS SUBJECT OF THE CURRENT LITERATURE CLUB PROGRAM

Mrs. Earl Stovall, president, presided over the short business. At this time a project for the coming year was discussed.

The topic of the day, "Youth and Your Community" was given by Mrs. Leon Dennis.

Mrs. E. P. Cudd, guest speaker, gave a most interesting review of the book, "Thus Far and NO Further" by Rumer Godden. The book is really a collection of experiences and thoughts of the author during her stay in a bungalow situated far up the slopes of a range in the Himalayas. The bungalow was a spot of isolated beauty whose subtle influence on the lives of the author, her two children and their lovable Swiss-Italian governess is charmingly told.

Long ago there was a legendary flood in India. As the waters rose up the slopes of the mountain, a Lama left his quiet abode of contemplation and said to the water, "Rungli-Rungliot" ("Thus far and no further"), and the waters obeyed him. There after the place was called, Rungli-Rungliot.

Rumer Godden's account of the winter spent there shows how each member of the tiny community flourished in that rarefied atmosphere of loving kindness and simple friendship. It is a highly personal story of an episode in the life of a deeply perspective, extremely sensitive woman, an idyll of the sort that each human being treasures in memory.

The interest of friends in this city is centered in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Nancy Graves, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Russell Graves of Memphis, Tenn., and Mr. David Dale Martin, son of Mrs. Frank Martin and the late Mr. Martin of this city. The ceremony took place at the Union Baptist church in Memphis, September 6, with the pastor, Dr. E. Gipson Davis, officiating.

Her three-quarter length double tiered veil was of imported bridal illusion and fell from a cap of heirloom rosepoint lace and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and tuberoses.

Mrs. Frank G. Davidson of Lnychburg, Va., the former Miss Katherine Graves, attended her sister as Matron of Honor and bridesmaids were Miss Estelle Newsum, Miss Lucille Maury, Miss Lucy Van Bibber of Huntington, W. V., and Miss Martha Miles of Atlanta. They wore peacock bengaline dresses of identical design with portrait necklines, brief sleeves and gathered skirts with triple bows in the backs, forming butsles. They wore coronets of ostrich tips and carried cascade bouquets of Bettertime roses.

Clarence Riggs Martin of Monroe, attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Albert C. Martin, another brother, James M. Goodwin, III, and Roger Ussery, all of Monroe and Kirk Graves Taylor of Jackson, Miss.

After the wedding there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was centered by a tiered wedding cake topped by a cluster of gardenias.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Riggs, Miss Evelyn Gannaway, Mrs. Frank Martin, Mrs. Roger Ussery, Mrs. Albert C. Martin, all of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Herring and Miss Beverly Herring of Shreveport, La., Mr. Robt. Cooper of Piqua, Ohio, Mr. John Shipp of Centerville, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Webster Buie, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Graves and Mr. and Mrs. Zachary Taylor, all of Jackson, Miss., Miss Janice Taylor and Miss Mae Taylor of Washington, and Mr. Frank G. Davidson, Jr., of Lynchburg.

Miss Jacobs Is The Bride Of Sheffield John

Miss Elsie M. Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Jacobs of Nashville, Tenn., became the bride of Sheffield John, Jr., son of Mrs. Lena K. John and the late Sheffield John, of this city, in an impressive double ring ceremony, performed at the Episcopal Church of the Advent. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Prentice Pugh, August 16, at four o'clock.

The bride wore on her wedding day a beautiful beige suit with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. Mrs. T. A. Shanks, sister of the groom, was the bride's only attendant. Mr. T. A. Shanks served the groom as best man. The bride graduated from Grundy County High School and Draughn's Business College. The groom is a graduate of Neville High School and served three and a half years with the army air forces.

After a short honeymoon to Memphis and Monroe, the couple will be located in Nashville where both are employed.

Purely Personal

There are plenty of headaches in the work of getting a horse show started in the right direction. There is constant, unremitting toil for some and for others a certain degree of hard work. But after everything has been said and done the chief thing to worry about is the weather. The weather can certainly ruin a horse show. The job of every league member is to plead with Jupiter Pluvius to spare the red, white and green decorations in the arena. The sixty-five league members are all optimists however, and they are sure their prayers will be heard.

A source of tremendous interest and revenue is the program. This year's program is most attractive, most complete and crammed with ads. Each member had to sell a minimum of advertisements and the merchants were generous to say the least. One of the busiest and one of the most energetic league workers is Mrs. Ray Rhymes. It has been her job to cajol newspaper men and women into giving as much publicity as possible. A packed arena will be the reward this afternoon and on Monday when every box and every grandstand seat is expected to be occupied.

But the big satisfaction for each of the sixty-five league members is not in the colorful decorations, the thick programs, the high stepping five-gaited champions, not in the gay round of parties accompanying this big social event, but in the knowing that they are bringing health and happiness into the lives of 100 or more needy children. It is to share in this satisfaction that every league member gives liberally of her time and effort. The needy children are referred to the Junior Charity League by the local social agencies. The work takes not only time but money—lots of money. And that is the reason for today's Horse Show.

Members of the league who have done a swell job are: Mrs. Shelby Hill, general chairman; Mrs. Vernon La Cour, Mrs. James Steele, Jr., Mrs. Ivy Jordon, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. Fred Amman, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Tidwell, Jr. They are all serving as committee chairman and have received wonderful support from members of their committees.

An interesting program was presented to the club by Mrs. D. L. Nicol, the program chairman. Each member had been asked to bring a miniature or a small arrangement to the meeting and these were on display. The program was introduced with a poem, read by Mrs. C. T. Johnson. Mrs. John Lewis conducted a "Back to School" resume of some of the highlights of the five Judging Schools to which delegates had been sent previously. Some of her remarks follow: "The primary purpose of the courses in a Judging School is to train judges and to teach the proper staging of flower shows. Each course has three divisions—Horticulture, Staging a Show, and Flower Arranging (about twice as much time is given to this as to the other two.)

The horticulture division teaches about plants, the soil best suited to various kinds of plants, the care to give them for bigger and better blooms, insect and disease control in a general way. This division also gives the points to be considered in judging the blooms of gladiolas, azaleas, camellias, tulips, etc.

The flower show division teaches that a flower show should be beautiful as well as educational. A well-balanced show should have one-half horticultural specimens and one-half arrangement classes.

Mrs. Lewis concluded her talk with a true and false quiz on the points she had made in the discussion. The hostesses carried out the back to school idea in their "lunch-box" refreshments, which were so cleverly served and so good.

The interest of friends in this city is centered in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Nancy Graves, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Russell Graves of Memphis, Tenn., and Mr. David Dale Martin, son of Mrs. Frank Martin and the late Mr. Martin of this city. The ceremony took place at the Union Baptist church in Memphis, September 6, with the pastor, Dr. E. Gipson Davis, officiating.

The altar, softly illuminated by myriad candles, was banked with white gladioli and ferns.

At the nuptial hour the bride walked down the aisle with her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a beautiful gardenia slipper satin wedding gown designed by Marie. The pointed basque had a deep; transparent yoke of imported Swiss illusion. It was appliqued with pears in valley lily design. The long sleeves buttoned from the elbow to the petal point over the wrists. The gathered skirt developed into voluminous folds and extended into a long cathedral train.

Her three-quarter length double tiered veil was of imported bridal illusion and fell from a cap of heirloom rosepoint lace and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and tuberoses.

Mrs. Frank G. Davidson of Lnychburg, Va., the former Miss Katherine Graves, attended her sister as Matron of Honor and bridesmaids were Miss Estelle Newsum, Miss Lucille Maury, Miss Lucy Van Bibber of Huntington, W. V., and Miss Martha Miles of Atlanta. They wore peacock bengaline dresses of identical design with portrait necklines, brief sleeves and gathered skirts with triple bows in the backs, forming butsles. They wore coronets of ostrich tips and carried cascade bouquets of Bettertime roses.

Clarence Riggs Martin of Monroe, attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Albert C. Martin, another brother, James M. Goodwin, III, and Roger Ussery, all of Monroe and Kirk Graves Taylor of Jackson, Miss.

After the wedding there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was centered by a tiered wedding cake topped by a cluster of gardenias.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Riggs, Miss Evelyn Gannaway, Mrs. Frank Martin, Mrs. Roger Ussery, Mrs. Albert C. Martin, all of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Herring and Miss Beverly Herring of Shreveport, La., Mr. Robt. Cooper of Piqua, Ohio, Mr. John Shipp of Centerville, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Webster Buie, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Graves and Mr. and Mrs. Zachary Taylor, all of Jackson, Miss., Miss Janice Taylor and Miss Mae Taylor of Washington, and Mr. Frank G. Davidson, Jr., of Lynchburg.

Miss Jacobs Is The Bride Of Sheffield John

Miss Elsie M. Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Jacobs of Nashville, Tenn., became the bride of Sheffield John, Jr., son of Mrs. Lena K. John and the late Sheffield John, of this city, in an impressive double ring ceremony, performed at the Episcopal Church of the Advent. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Prentice Pugh, August 16, at four o'clock.

The bride wore on her wedding day a beautiful beige suit with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. Mrs. T. A. Shanks, sister of the groom, was the bride's only attendant. Mr. T. A. Shanks served the groom as best man. The bride graduated from Grundy County High School and Draughn's Business College. The groom is a graduate of Neville High School and served three and a half years with the army air forces.

After a short honeymoon to Memphis and Monroe, the couple will be located in Nashville where both are employed.

BRIDE'S ATTENDANTS

Purely Personal

For the past several weeks and at an extremely accelerated pace during the last few days, members of the Junior Charity League have been working like trojans to make their first annual Horse Show a brilliant success, financially and from a standpoint of attendance. The proceeds go to the underprivileged children who are their wards.

There are plenty of headaches in the work of getting a horse show started in the right direction. There is constant, unremitting toil for some and for others a certain degree of hard work. But after everything has been said and done the chief thing to worry about is the weather. The weather can certainly ruin a horse show. The job of every league member is to plead with Jupiter Pluvius to spare the red, white and green decorations in the arena. The sixty-five league members are all optimists however, and they are sure their prayers will be heard.

A source of tremendous interest and revenue is the program. This year's program is most attractive, most complete and crammed with ads. Each member had to sell a minimum of advertisements and the merchants were generous to say the least. One of the busiest and one of the most energetic league workers is Mrs. Ray Rhymes. It has been her job to cajol newspaper men and women into giving as much publicity as possible. A packed arena will be the reward this afternoon and on Monday when every box and every grandstand seat is expected to be occupied.

But the big satisfaction for each of the sixty-five league members is not in the colorful decorations, the thick programs, the high stepping five-gaited champions, not in the gay round of parties accompanying this big social event, but in the knowing that they are bringing health and happiness into the lives of 100 or more needy children. It is to share in this satisfaction that every league member gives liberally of her time and effort. The needy children are referred to the Junior Charity League by the local social agencies. The work takes not only time but money—lots of money. And that is the reason for today's Horse Show.

Members of the league who have done a swell job are: Mrs. Shelby Hill, general chairman; Mrs. Vernon La Cour, Mrs. James Steele, Jr., Mrs. Ivy Jordon, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. Fred Amman, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Tidwell, Jr. They are all serving as committee chairman and have received wonderful support from members of their committees.

Welcome Garden Club Meets With Four Hostesses

Mrs. J. W. Myers, Mrs. S. E. Morris, Mrs. E. P. Jenevein, and Mrs. C. C. Lucky were hostesses for the September meeting of the Welcome Garden Club of the Twin Cities.

During the business meeting Mrs. J. A. Reid, the president, discussed plans for the Flower Judging School which is to be held in Monroe on October first and second. The lectures for this school will be held on the roof of the Frances Hotel. Mrs. Reid appointed the following committees: Hospitality: Mrs. A. B. Colmer, Mrs. J. R. Coulter, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. R. B. Henry, Mrs. O. R. Brauer, Mrs J. E. Shannon, Mrs. P. E. Massey, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Mrs. C. C. Lucky, Mrs A. R. Husky, and Mrs. Brice; Registration: Mrs. J. P. Lewis, Mrs. E. G. Snipes, Mrs. S. E. Morris, Mrs. W. B. Wheelis, Mrs. E. B. Johnson, Mrs. J. F. Stone, Mrs. E. L. Page, and Mrs. C. A. Caldwell; Invitation and Publicity: Mrs. D. L. Nicol, Mrs. J. W. Swift, Mrs. W. R. Gates, Mrs. P. B. Snodgrass, and Mrs. E. F Eaves; Plant Material: Mrs. Carey Holmes, Mrs. J. C. Anders, Mrs. Fred Hanna, Mrs. A. R. Butler, Mrs. S. H. Humphries, Mrs. T. D. Pickens, Mrs. L. A. Branch, Mrs. W. N. Reynolds, Mrs. C T Johnson, Mrs H. E. Downing, Mrs. C. L. Wright, and Mrs. I. W. Rogers; Arrangements: Mrs. Jack Bagwell, Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. H. E. Coon, Mrs. J. P. Lewis, Mrs. H E Downing, Mrs V. S. Garnett, Mrs. D. F Dennis, Mrs. Charles Swain, and Mrs. R. R. Pigott.

An interesting program was presented to the club by Mrs. D. L. Nicol, the program chairman. Each member had been asked to bring a miniature or a small arrangement to the meeting and these were on display. The program was introduced with a poem, read by Mrs. C. T. Johnson. Mrs. John Lewis conducted a "Back to School" resume of some of the highlights of the five Judging Schools to which delegates had been sent previously. Some of her remarks follow: "The primary purpose of the courses in a Judging School is to train judges and to teach the proper staging of flower shows. Each course has three divisions—Horticulture, Staging a Show, and Flower Arranging (about twice as much time is given to this as to the other two.)

The horticulture division teaches about plants, the soil best suited to various kinds of plants, the care to give them for bigger and better blooms, insect and disease control in a general way. This division also gives the points to be considered in judging the blooms of gladiolas, azaleas, camellias, tulips, etc.

The flower show division teaches that a flower show should be beautiful as well as educational. A well-balanced show should have one-half horticultural specimens and one-half arrangement classes.

The school gives very definite instructions on judging the flower arrangements."

Mrs. Lewis concluded her talk with a true and false quiz on the points she had made in the discussion. The hostesses carried out the back to school idea in their "lunch-box" refreshments, which were so cleverly served and so good.

MONROE LITERARY CLUB ENJOY FIRST MEETING OF NEW YEAR IN MRS. HOLLOWAY'S HOME

Motoring along the driveway, strewn with autumn leaves from the century old oaks, to the suburban home of Mrs. S. E. Holloway, members of the Monroe Literary club realized that summer is definitely over and a busy season for club women is now at hand. Mrs. C. D. McAdams, co-hostess, assisted Mrs. Holloway in receiving the club members and extending courtesies during the social hour, always a distinct feature of the semi-monthly meetings. Refreshments were served from a beautifully appointed tea table in the dining room at the close of the program.

Mrs. J. R. Roark led the singing of the club song, "Louisiana" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. W. Womack.

Mrs. Ben Parnell, program chairman, outlined the year's study featuring "The Races of Mankind." Mrs. A. B. Colmer addressing the club on the subject of "Race," quoted Henry P. Fairchild, professor of socialogy at the University of New York. He is an authority on population problems and a close student of racial theory.

In their psychological buildup for World War I the Germans laid great stress on their incomparable Kultur. This time they paraded as the representatives of a Master race. In both cases it was the same Germans, behaving in the same way. Thus they have added grosser bestiality to their crimes rather than contributed to the confusion between race and civilization.

H. G. Wells is quoted as having said, "There is no more evil thing than race prejudice. It holds more baseness and cruelty than any other error in the world." Race prejudice is bad, all prejudice is bad. Prejudice by definition is the forming of opinion in advance of the evidence, and without knowledge of the facts.

In the first place, it should be recognized that much of what is called "race prejudice" is not really race prejudice at all. It is not based upon heresay, imagination, or fantasy, but upon knowledge, experience and contact. It it an attitude of the kind that is generated when one group comes in touch with another group. Group feeling is one of the most nearly universal, deep-seated, and tenacious characteristics of the human mind. It applies to all sorts of groups, all the way from fundamental ones like the family and religion to trivial ones such as the athletic team to the sewing circle. Naturally and normally one's feeling towards one's own group is of sympathy and loyalty; one's feeling toward another groups is one of antipathy, alienation or at best, indifdifference.

Once a group becomes established it proceeds to develop different physical traits which are characteristic of each group respectively, and many of which are easily observable to the eye of the ordinary man. This result is due partly to the selective influence of physical environment, and partly to chance peculiarities of hereditary factors which each group was endowed from the beginning.

Thus were formed the five basic human races familiarly recognized by the common man all over the world, and accepted by most specialists as the starting point of their classifications, the white, black, yellow, brown and red. (Some classifiers reduce the number to three by regarding the yellow, brown and red as sub-groups of a single race.) If each of these groups, once separated from the parent stock, had remained in complete isolation down to the present day, we would have "pure" races. But as everyone knows, this has not happened. There have been many and extensive shiftings of population since very ancient times. Neverthless, the bulk of each of these races, in its original homeland, has retained sufficient uniformity and distinction to leave no doubt in the mind of the simple everyday man as to the actual existence of different races.

MONROE MAN WEDS IN MEMPHIS

Welcome Branch Book Club Holds First Meeting Of New Year

Members of the Welcome Branch of the Twentieth Century Book Club met for their first meeting of their new club year at the Frances hotel with Mrs. E. C. Gibson. Mrs. Zell Smith served as co-hostess, Mrs. Hensen Coon served as program chairman.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. A. J. Speer, president, who presided over the business session. Reports from various committees were given at this time and the club elected Mrs. Richard Whitehurst as corresponding secretary.

Highlighting the program for the afternoon was Miss Frances Flanders' review of Lucile Finlay's book, "The Coat I Wore." Miss Flanders told her audience that the historical novel is the most popular of all books and that Miss Finlay's current book, "The Coat I Wore," is a very accurate and well presented historical novel. The scene of the story is Natchez at the time of the American Revolution.

The story opens, however, with Colonel Anthony Hastings in the western part of North Carolina and the reader is told of his hazardous trip down the rivers until he reached Natchez. After reaching Natchez and setting up a village called White Apple Village, Hastings marries Dennis Connover.

Suspense is created when it appears that Colonel Hastings is becoming too interested in an old acquaintance, Lady Caroline Gresham, however, Miss Finlay works her plot out and in the end the colonel is very happily united with his wife and family.

Miss Finlay tells in interesting details of the war as it comes to Natchez, the expedition of James Willing, the seizure of Fort Panmure by the Spanish, the recovery of the fort and many more incidents of the war including Hastings' dangerous trip to England to enlist their aid.

Miss Flanders urged the members to read this book for an interesting and very accurate account of this nearby city during this historical time.

Mrs. Coon then introduced Mrs. R. W. Irby who sang "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. D. Holmes.

Mrs. Eugene Scott gave a very interesting paper on Stanley Nehmer's recent article, "The Occupation of Japan."

Mrs. Scott stated, "The views expressed by Mr. Stanley Nehmer in his article, 'The Occupation of Japan,' were his private views and were not to be construed as official.

"The occupation of Japan has gone through three phases, the first two of which can be considered as about complete. First, the disarmament and demobilization of four million Japanese men in both the army and the navy; second was the goal of the supreme commander for the allied powers to establish a Japan that would become and always remain a peaceful state.

"One of the most democratic constitutions in the world today went into effect on May 3, 1947. A constitutional monarch was substituted for an absolute and divine emperor.

"The elimination of the Zaibatsu was one of the principal objectives of the economic reform. Also, there was a reform in the feudalistic land-owning system. The efforts of the Katayama government appear to be most sincere in putting the economy of Japan on a more stable basis.

"The American goal as stated by Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson, is 'To push ahead with the reconstruction of those two great workshops of Europe and Asia—Germany and Japan—upon which the ultimate recovery of the two continents so largely depends.'"

After the program, the members and guests gathered around the tea table in conversational groups for a delightful social hour. The following members and guests were present: Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. G. E. Boggs, Mrs. Hensen Coon, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. J. G. Hicks, Mrs. H. D. Holmes, Mrs. R. W Irby, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. W. D. McGee, Jr., Mrs. J. E. McConnell, Mrs. Leola Nixon, Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. F. H. Peterson, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Mrs. Joe T. Ray, Mrs. Eugene Scott, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. A. J. Speer, Mrs. A. C. Warner, Mrs. W. B. Wheelis, Mrs. J. R. White, Mrs. Richard Whitehurst, Mrs. E. J. Whitman, Mrs. R. W. Dumm, Mrs. R. M. Pryor, Mrs. Ivy Jordan, Mrs. Fred Parrish, Mrs. Shelby Meek, Mrs. D. C. MONROE LITERARY CLUB ENJOY FIRST MEETING OF NEW YEAR IN MRS. HOLLOWAY'S HOME

Motoring along the driveway, strewn with autumn leaves from the century old oaks, to the suburban home of Mrs. S. E. Holloway, members of the Monroe Literary club realized that summer is definitely over and a busy season for club women is now at hand. Mrs. C. D. McAdams, co-hostess, assisted Mrs. Holloway in receiving the club members and extending courtesies during the social hour, always a distinct feature of the semi-monthly meetings. Refreshments were served from a beautifully appointed tea table in the dining room at the close of the program.

Mrs. J. R. Roark led the singing of the club song, "Louisiana" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. W. Womack.

Mrs. Ben Parnell, program chairman, outlined the year's study featuring "The Races of Mankind." Mrs. A. B. Colmer addressing the club on the subject of "Race," quoted Henry P. Fairchild, professor of socialogy at the University of New York. He is an authority on population problems and a close student of racial theory.

In their psychological buildup for World War I the Germans laid great stress on their incomparable Kultur. This time they paraded as the representatives of a Master race. In both cases it was the same Germans, behaving in the same way. Thus they have added grosser bestiality to their crimes rather than contributed to the confusion between race and civilization.

H. G. Wells is quoted as having said, "There is no more evil thing than race prejudice. It holds more baseness and cruelty than any other error in the world." Race prejudice is bad, all prejudice is bad. Prejudice by definition is the forming of opinion in advance of the evidence, and without knowledge of the facts.

In the first place, it should be recognized that much of what is called "race prejudice" is not really race prejudice at all. It is not based upon heresay, imagination, or fantasy, but upon knowledge, experience and contact. It it an attitude of the kind that is generated when one group comes in touch with another group. Group feeling is one of the most nearly universal, deep-seated, and tenacious characteristics of the human mind. It applies to all sorts of groups, all the way from fundamental ones like the family and religion to trivial ones such as the athletic team to the sewing circle. Naturally and normally one's feeling towards one's own group is of sympathy and loyalty; one's feeling toward another groups is one of antipathy, alienation or at best, indifdifference.

Once a group becomes established it proceeds to develop different physical traits which are characteristic of each group respectively, and many of which are easily observable to the eye of the ordinary man. This result is due partly to the selective influence of physical environment, and partly to chance peculiarities of hereditary factors which each group was endowed from the beginning.

Thus were formed the five basic human races familiarly recognized by the common man all over the world, and accepted by most specialists as the starting point of their classifications, the white, black, yellow, brown and red. (Some classifiers reduce the number to three by regarding the yellow, brown and red as sub-groups of a single race.) If each of these groups, once separated from the parent stock, had remained in complete isolation down to the present day, we would have "pure" races. But as everyone knows, this has not happened. There have been many and extensive shiftings of population since very ancient times. Neverthless, the bulk of each of these races, in its original homeland, has retained sufficient uniformity and distinction to leave no doubt in the mind of the simple everyday man as to the actual existence of different races.

Amelie L. Hebert Has Birthday Party

The living room and dining room were decorated with balloons and flowers. The tea table was adorned with the beautifully-embossed birthday cake. Punch and ice cream were served and the favors were miniature pink and blue baskets filled with candy. The balloons which were released from the chandeliers were given to each small guest.

Games were played and prices were won by Stanley Speed, Steve Sims, and Linda Kay Owens. The honoree received many gifts over which she exclaimed delightedly.

Guests were: John Burle Salley, Stanley Speed, Beth Crowson, Steve Sims, Shirley Jean Cooper, Marvin Crowson, Carolyn Ann Brooks, Armor Ramona Turner, George Hargus, Jr., Pamela Alice Sims, Linda Kay Owens, Virginia Lorette Owens, Linda Gay Dean, and Mrs. R. C. Fannin, Mrs. Durwood Brooks, Mrs. B. K. Owens, Mrs. G. W. Speed, Mrs. George Hargus, Mrs. A. H. Turner, Mrs. R. C. Crowson and Mrs. Lonnie Sims.

Welcome Branch Book Club Holds First Meeting Of New Year

Members of the Welcome Branch of the Twentieth Century Book Club met for their first meeting of their new club year at the Frances hotel with Mrs. E. C. Gibson. Mrs. Zell Smith served as co-hostess, Mrs. Hensen Coon served as program chairman.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. A. J. Speer, president, who presided over the business session. Reports from various committees were given at this time and the club elected Mrs. Richard Whitehurst as corresponding secretary.

Highlighting the program for the afternoon was Miss Frances Flanders' review of Lucile Finlay's book, "The Coat I Wore." Miss Flanders told her audience that the historical novel is the most popular of all books and that Miss Finlay's current book, "The Coat I Wore," is a very accurate and well presented historical novel. The scene of the story is Natchez at the time of the American Revolution.

The story opens, however, with Colonel Anthony Hastings in the western part of North Carolina and the reader is told of his hazardous trip down the rivers until he reached Natchez. After reaching Natchez and setting up a village called White Apple Village, Hastings marries Dennis Connover.

Suspense is created when it appears that Colonel Hastings is becoming too interested in an old acquaintance, Lady Caroline Gresham, however, Miss Finlay works her plot out and in the end the colonel is very happily united with his wife and family.

Miss Finlay tells in interesting details of the war as it comes to Natchez, the expedition of James Willing, the seizure of Fort Panmure by the Spanish, the recovery of the fort and many more incidents of the war including Hastings' dangerous trip to England to enlist their aid.

Miss Flanders urged the members to read this book for an interesting and very accurate account of this nearby city during this historical time.

Mrs. Coon then introduced Mrs. R. W. Irby who sang "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. D. Holmes.

Mrs. Eugene Scott gave a very interesting paper on Stanley Nehmer's recent article, "The Occupation of Japan."

Mrs. Scott stated, "The views expressed by Mr. Stanley Nehmer in his article, 'The Occupation of Japan,' were his private views and were not to be construed as official.

"The occupation of Japan has gone through three phases, the first two of which can be considered as about complete. First, the disarmament and demobilization of four million Japanese men in both the army and the navy; second was the goal of the supreme commander for the allied powers to establish a Japan that would become and always remain a peaceful state.

"One of the most democratic constitutions in the world today went into effect on May 3, 1947. A constitutional monarch was substituted for an absolute and divine emperor.

"The elimination of the Zaibatsu was one of the principal objectives of the economic reform. Also, there was a reform in the feudalistic land-owning system. The efforts of the Katayama government appear to be most sincere in putting the economy of Japan on a more stable basis.

"The American goal as stated by Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson, is 'To push ahead with the reconstruction of those two great workshops of Europe and Asia—Germany and Japan—upon which the ultimate recovery of the two continents so largely depends.'"

After the program, the members and guests gathered around the tea table in conversational groups for a delightful social hour. The following members and guests were present: Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. G. E. Boggs, Mrs. Hensen Coon, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. J. G. Hicks, Mrs. H. D. Holmes, Mrs. R. W Irby, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. W. D. McGee, Jr., Mrs. J. E. McConnell, Mrs. Leola Nixon, Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. F. H. Peterson, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Mrs. Joe T. Ray, Mrs. Eugene Scott, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. A. J. Speer, Mrs. A. C. LEGISLATION IS BEING SOUGHT

Association Of Life Underwriters Desires License Requirement

With the state convention of the Association of Life Underwriters only one month away, the legislative committee will hold one more meeting to complete the long-awaited draft of the qualification and license bill for life insurance agents.

State committeeman, J. W. Womack, of the local association in Monroe, will attend the final meeting to be held at the Heidelburg Hotel, in Baton Rouge on the 25th and 26th of September.

The first draft of the bill was presented to the state association in May of last year by the state insurance commissioner. Revision and clarification of the original draft has taken place over the past sixteen months. Mr. Womack stated that it is with much enthusiasm the state committeemen make plans to attend this meeting.

The purpose of the proposed legislation is to elevate the standards of the life insurance business in this state. Basic provisions require that every new applicant for a license as a life underwriter successfully pass an examination in order to insure that only qualified and competent underwriters receive licenses.

Full contents of the proposed bill will be brought before the local association in its regular October meeting.

RECORDING HEARD BY OPTIMIST CLUB

The Optimist meeting Friday was highlighted by presentation of a wire recording of conversations allegedly made by members of the club. George "Home Run" Taylor, a new member, received the brunt of the ribbing because of a home run he got in the last Optimist softball game. Other members who received quite a bit of ribbing were C. C. Bell, Ivy McDonald, Lester Carr, Bill Jackson, Al Newburn, Thomas Truitt, Robert Rainwater, Jimmy Newburn, Sylvian Masur, James Cole, W. L. Howard and a few others.

The boys work committee reported that twenty-four boys had been taken to the N. J. C. football game Thursday night. Rober Rainwater, Lester Carr, Clifton Hayden, and James Cole were appointed to take the boys to the game Friday night.

A welcome guest was M. C. Plummer. New members present for the first time were George Taylor and Clifton Hayden. Ike Hamilton was able to get away from the rush of business and make an interesting meeting.

Plans were started for celebration of National Optimist Week in October.

ENROLLMENT AT TECH SETS ALL-TIME MARK

RUSTON, Sept. 20. — (Special) — A total of 2,594 students registered for the fall semester at Louisiana Tech, establishing a new all-time high record in enrollment at the college. The official registration period ended Thursday, September 18.

Enrollment at Tech one year ago totaled 2,527, the highest number up to that time. Highest pre-war registration was in 1940-41, when 2,146 students were enrolled at the college.

WARNING GIVEN TO FARMING TRAINEES

JONESVILLE, La., Sept. 20.—(Special)—A warning was issued this week to Catahoula parish "on-the-farm" training veterans who show a lack of interest in meeting requirements set up by the Veterans Administration, the parish school board, instructors and other officials.

Stanford E. Richardson, supervisor of the Catahoula program, said every effort would be made to disqualify the veteran who is taking advantage of the subsistence payments of the program without showing any interest in farming.

Praising most of the over 200 veterans now participating in the parish program, Richardson said his staff with the backing of the school board and the VA was "weeding out" the disinterested enrollees so "their places may be filled with more deserving veterans who are interested."

The parish supervisor, who was appointed after enrollments in Catahoula's program reached such a high level to require adequate supervision and coordination, outlined the objectives of the "on-the-farm" training program:

1. To assist veterans in becoming progressively established or re-established on farms.
2. To provide such training as will improve the skills of veterans in carrying out new and improved agricultural practices to meet the needs of the individual trainee on his own farm.
3. To improve the living conditions of veterans on the farm in order to assure economic, emotional and social stability for themselves and their families.

LABOR POLITICAL UNIT FORMED HERE

AFL Offshoot To Have 700 Members In District, Says President

Formation of the Monroe and Northeast Louisiana division of labor's "Political Action Committee" was announced yesterday by Leon Johnston, who has been chosen as president of the group. He said the organization would have a membership of "more than 700," drawn from the 46 local unions belonging to the Twin Cities' Central Trades & Labor Council (A. F. of L.) and from numerous bodies of workers not affiliated with the federation.

Other officers of the local and district association are Mrs. Ceil Ringo, vice-president; Ralph White, recording secretary; Mrs. Pearl Hair, financial secretary, and P. L. Wallace, sergeant-at-arms. Chairman of the by-laws committee that will draft policies is C. C. Blandchard, and the other members are Miss Bertha Cook, Roy Buce, Joe Dieterich and Ralph White.

As was explained when the Louisiana labor political group was formed at a called meeting of the state A. F. of L. at Alexandria August 23-24 and by Lige Williams, of Shreveport, state president, at the Monroe Labor Day barbecue, the organization will take an active part in the current political campaign everywhere in Louisiana, and will indorse chosen candidates for state and parish offices. The organization was formed, Johnston said again yesterday, because the A. F. of L. is prohibited by its by-laws from engaging in politics as a body.

The new Monroe-Fifth district group is to hold weekly meetings at 7:30 p.m. each Tuesday during the campaign. Place of the gatherings is to be announced later, the president said.

LEGISLATION IS BEING SOUGHT

Association Of Life Underwriters Desires License Requirement

With the state convention of the Association of Life Underwriters only one month away, the legislative committee will hold one more meeting to complete the long-awaited draft of the qualification and license bill for life insurance agents.

State committeeman, J. W. Womack, of the local association in Monroe, will attend the final meeting to be held at the Heidelburg Hotel, in Baton Rouge on the 25th and 26th of September.

The first draft of the bill was presented to the state association in May of last year by the state insurance commissioner. Revision and clarification of the original draft has taken place over the past sixteen months. Mr. Womack stated that it is with much enthusiasm the state committeemen make plans to attend this meeting.

The purpose of the proposed legislation is to elevate the standards of the life insurance business in this state. Basic provisions require that every new applicant for a license as a life underwriter successfully pass an examination in order to insure that only qualified and competent underwriters receive licenses.

Full contents of the proposed bill will be brought before the local association in its regular October meeting.

BABY CONTEST OPENS AT ROBINSON STUDIO

A baby contest in which valuable cash prizes will be awarded the "cutest" babies was announced Friday by Miss Ellanette Toombs, manager of the Larry Robinson Studio, 501 Bernhardt building.

Photographs of children up to six years of age throughout this area will be taken free of charge by the studio and the finished photographs will be submitted to "Uncle Larry" Robinson for judging. The winning child will receive $25, second place winner $15 and third place, $10. All sittings made before October 17 will be entered in the contest, and no charge will be made for the sittings. Special prices will be made to parents desiring pictures of babies entering the contest, Miss Toombs said. The contest is open to any child residing in a radius of 100 miles of Monroe.

No appointment is necessary, it was said, and further information may be obtained by phoning 4043.

RECORDING HEARD BY OPTIMIST CLUB

The Optimist meeting Friday was highlighted by presentation of a wire recording of conversations allegedly made by members of the club. George "Home Run" Taylor, a new member, received the brunt of the ribbing because of a home run he got in the last Optimist softball game. Other members who received quite a bit of ribbing were C. C. Bell, Ivy McDonald, Lester Carr, Bill Jackson, Al Newburn, Thomas Truitt, Robert Rainwater, Jimmy Newburn, Sylvian Masur, James Cole, W. L. Howard and a few others.

The boys work committee reported that twenty-four boys had been taken to the N. J. C. football game Thursday night. Rober Rainwater, Lester Carr, Clifton Hayden, and James Cole were appointed to take the boys to the game Friday night.

A welcome guest was M. C. Plummer. New members present for the first time were George Taylor and Clifton Hayden. Ike Hamilton was able to get away from the rush of business and make an interesting meeting.

Plans were started for celebration of National Optimist Week in October.

ENROLLMENT AT TECH SETS ALL-TIME MARK

RUSTON, Sept. 20.—(Special)—A total of 2,594 students registered for the fall semester at Louisiana Tech, establishing a new all-time high record in enrollment at the college. The official registration period ended Thursday, September 18.

The men students, who outnumber the women nearly three to one and include a large number of veterans, had not been classified at the end of the registration period.

Enrollment at Tech one year ago totaled 2,327, the highest number up to that time. Highest pre-war registration was in 1940-41, when 2,146 students were enrolled at the college.

YES MAN HOLDS THANKSGIVING In SEPTEMBER

At Personal, we celebrate "Thanksgiving" in September. We call it Customer Appreciation Month. That's when we tell our customers, dealers, and friends how much we have appreciated their business.

George F. Keene

Of course, we try to show our appreciation every day in the year by saying "Yes" to 4 out of 5 folks—by finding ways to make a loan that others can't or won't. That we've succeeded is evidenced by the fact that "Personal" served over a million people the last year. Don't borrow unnecessarily—but if a loan of $25 to $250 or more will serve a worthy purpose, phone 1288 or see me at Personal Finance Co. of Monroe, 2nd Floor Bernhardt Bldg., DeSiard and N. 2nd St.

WARNING GIVEN TO FARMING TRAINEES

JONESVILLE, La., Sept. 20.—(Special)—A warning was issued this week to Catahoula parish "on-the-farm" training veterans who show a lack of interest in meeting requirements set up by the Veterans Administration, the parish school board, instructors and other officials.

Stanford E. Richardson, supervisor of the Catahoula program, said every effort would be made to disqualify the veteran who is taking advantage of the subsistence payments of the program without showing any interest in farming.

Praising most of the over 200 veterans now participating in the parish program, Richardson said his staff with the backing of the school board and the VA was "weeding out" the disinterested enrollees so "their places may be filled with more deserving veterans who are interested."

The parish supervisor, who was appointed after enrollments in Catahoula's program reached such a high level to require adequate supervision and coordination, outlined the objectives of the "on-the-farm" training program:

1. To assist veterans in becoming progressively established or re-established on farms.

2. To provide such training as will improve the skills of veterans in carrying out new and improved agricultural practices to meet the needs of the individual trainee on his own farm.

3. To improve the living conditions of veterans on the farm in order to assure economic, emotional and social stability for themselves and their families.

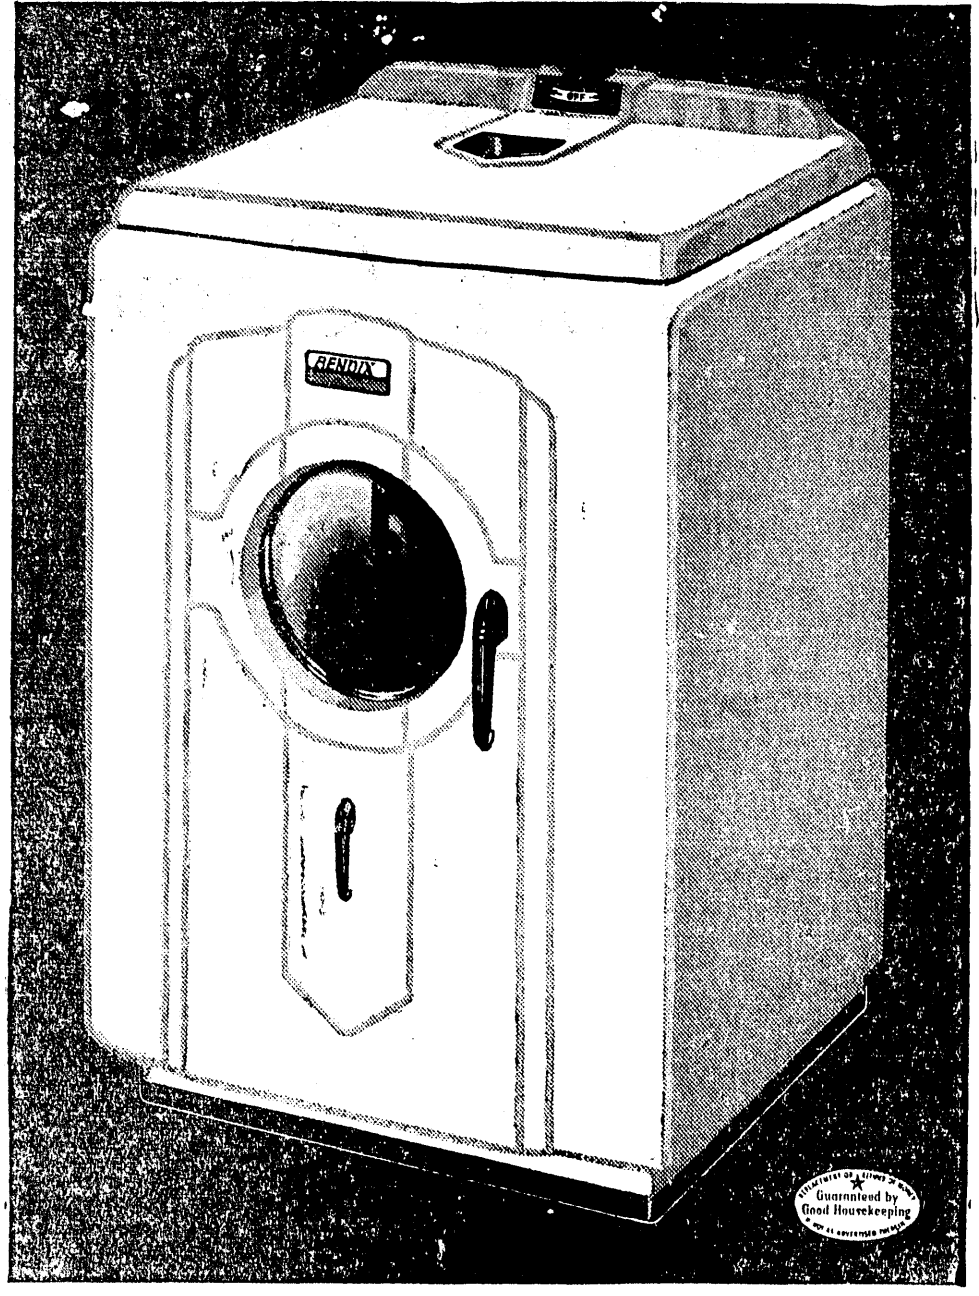
How the BENDIX washer saved a million wives



BENDIX DE LUXE

BIGGEST SAVING OF ALL

is the work and time the Bendix automatic Washer saves you. All you do is put in the clothes, set the dial, add soap . . . and RELAX! All by itself the Bendix washes, triple rinses and damp-drys the clothes . . . then cleans itself and shuts off automatically. You don't even have to be there.

SOAP

SAVED: $1,000,000 A MONTH!

Yes, the lucky owners of the million Bendix washers now in use are saving about $1.00 a month each on laundry soap alone!

THRIFTY WITH HOT WATER, TOO!

The thriftiest way to get clothes cleanest is to tumble them hundreds of times in and out of a small amount of hot suds . . . then rinse them thoroughly. That's exactly what the Bendix does, all by itself.

Does it sound too good to be true?

One of the million lucky Bendix owners is a near neighbor of yours, so you don't have to take our word for it. Ask HER all about it . . . how well it washes, how thrifty it is, how much she likes her workless washdays. We know what she'll say . . . and she ought to know!

KIND TO CLOTHING BUDGETS!

TWO BUS ROUTES WILL BE CHANGED

SICILY ISLAND, La., Sept. 20.—(Special)—Through the efforts of the Sicily Island Rotary Club, the Missouri Pacific Transportation Company has agreed to change the terminus of two of its bus routes from Wisner to Sicily Island to improve service of the patrons of that community.

In a resolution August 21, the club asked the company to extend the Routes 4145 and 4148 which previously operated between Monroe and Wisner. Sicily Island is nine miles south of Wisner on Highway 15.

Under the new routes, which will be operated on a 90-day trial basis by Missouri-Pacific, Route 4148 will leave Sicily Island at 6:40 a.m. and arrive in Monroe at 8:30 a.m. and Route 4145 will leave Monroe at 5:25 p.m. and arrive in Sicily Island at 7:15 p.m. The bus will stay overnight in Sicily Island instead of Wisner.

According to Keith Moore, president of the Rotary, the new route will afford more convenience to residents of the area who desire to visit Monroe on business or for shopping.

At the end of the 90-day period, if the extension does not prove profitable, the company will go back to its former route. The new schedule became effective Thursday of this week.

BILLY REPPOND IS MAJOR IN FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION

Made Second In Command Of Hospital In Tiznit, French Morocco

Two years ago young Billy Reppond, 607 St. John street, left Monroe, headed for the wide open spaces of South America, with every intention of growing bananas on someone's plantation. Today, a month before his 21st, birthday, he is a full-fledged major in the French Foreign Legion, second in command of a hospital in Tiznit, French Morocco, last French outpost in southern Morocco.

Reppond is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Reppond, 607 St. John street. After graduating from Parish High School, he entered the Marines in April, 1942, but received a medical discharge in July of 1943.

He returned to Monroe after serving in the Merchant Marine in 1945 to enter Northeast Junior College where he played guard on that season's football squad. Feeling the traveling urge again in January, 1946, he resigned from college, shipped out aboard a merchant vessel in New Orleans, bound for Antwerp, Belgium.

While his ship lay over in Antwerp Billy contacted recruiters for the French Foreign Legion, whose ranks are open to men of all nationalities. Listening to the martial beat like a true soldier of fortune he enlisted for the minimum five years along with 56 others of almost as many nationalities. He was listed in his enlistment papers as a driver of trucks or teacher of physical education.

In early June of 1946 Billy reached Morocco, Africa, with his regiment and began to learn that the Legion's fighting name was well deserved. Letters reaching home told of a real exciting life, although the pay that he received at first amounted to only about one cent per day. His regiment was shunted from one part of Morocco to another, putting down minor revolts, hauling in outlaws and Nazi spies.

Although the life was hard Billy found the comradeship between the men one of the best things of his life. He likened the 3rd regiment to a guerilla outfit with uniforms. Officers were tops in his estimation because each had worked up out of the ranks and many had seen action in every part of the world.

As Billy become acclimated to the rigors and pleasures of a military life his circle of friends began to widen. In the words of a captain's wife who wrote Mrs. Reppond "Bill is very appreciated and liked here because he is full of good will." The feeling that his newfound friends had can best be illustrated by an excerpt from one of his letters to his mother describing his 20th birthday.

"About 7 o'clock Saturday night, October 12, 1946, while I was lounging about the barracks, reading a novel by K. Windsor, Johnny Drems, a Belzique (Belgium) and a good comrade of mine even if he is my valet, comes running in and puts a blindfold over my eyes, leads me up to the coiffeur (barber shop), that's where the party is thrown, in the barber shop, and as soon as I had stepped in, two clarions (buglers) began blowing the salute of the Legion of Honneur for me. I look around and see a four-man guard of honor in full dress.

Then the Coiffeur who is an ex-French marine steps up and hands me a grand bouquet of gladiola flowers with a big red gardenia in the center. Boy, did I feel like a million dollars. We all get together and drink to my health and to the United States. Next they sang the only English song that they all knew, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." Boy, a toast like that coming from soldiers from every corner of the world is quite something!"

In early 1947 Billy was made infirmary major and transferred to Tiznit where he is still stationed. He is second in command of the hospital and in the absence of the doctor he diagnoses and prescribes for all types of cases. When he runs out of first-hand knowledge of the sickness he consults a large, black French medical book which he refers to as "my colleague."

His pay has been raised in accordance with his rank. Instead of the original pay of 270 francs he receives 2000 now. According to Billy, who is happy to serve for 15 years until retirement, the best thing of all is that as a major he can buy his own socks. As an enlisted man he received only one pair every five years.

LONG STATES SECOND PRIMARY UNNECESSARY

The endorsement of his candidacy by former State Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc of Vermilion parish, and Criminal Sheriff John J. Grosch, Sr., of Orleans parish, makes a second primary unnecessary, Earl K. Long, candidate for governor, asserted at his New Orleans headquarters.

"I am happy, indeed," former Governor Long said, "to have the active support of Sheriff Grosch and Mr. LeBlanc.

"Sheriffs throughout the state have asked me who Sheriff Grosch was going to back, and I feel that the Orleans parish sheriff's endorsement of many candidacy will be a spark to my country as well as my city backing.

"It is my opinion that Mr. LeBlanc was responsible for the election of Jones eight years ago and Davis four years ago. With both Mr. LeBlanc and Sheriff Grosch actively supporting me, I feel that a second primary will be unnecessary."

CATAHOULA PARISH TEACHERS ELECT

HARRISONBURG, La., Sept. 20.—(Special) — Officers for the ensuing year will be elected by the Catahoula Parish Teachers Association at a meeting in Harrisonburg Monday afternoon.

J. Eldon Doughty, principal of Block Elementary School and president of the organization, will preside at the parley which will begin at 3:30 p.m.

Howard W. Wright, executive secretary of the Louisiana Teachers Association and former superintendent of Catahoula schools, will be one of the principal speakers on the program. Also scheduled to appear is Dr. J. N. Nason, extension representative of Louisiana State University, who will attempt to organize an extension class for parish teachers.

PYTHIANS FORM SANTHA GROUP

Instituting officer of this Santha was Mrs. Bertha Teakin, of Houston, Tex., who was assisted by Mrs. Frances Stinson, also of Houston, and Mrs. Della Eberling, of that city; Mrs. Anna Belle Warden, Mrs. Nell Hannan and Mrs. Nelda Aaron, of Beaumont.

The Monroe Santha will be known as Swami Santha of Nomads of Avrudaka and the following officers were elected:

Others will be obligated at the next meeting on October 20. Dr. H. H. Baur performed considerable work in getting up the charter list and members commended him for his efforts.

Curtain tassels will not tangle if they are combed smooth and tied with a string at their ends before washing. It's worth the effort.

IN MOVIELAND

By Armand Archerd
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Everyone working in the motion picture industry has a title. Some are accurate, others are—just titles. After you've patrolled the sets for a couple of weeks, these titles take on new meanings. I assure you the following impressions do not originate in Webster's:

Leading man: Usually a nice guy who will be the first to admit, "Heck, I can't act," yet he always gripes about the script.

Chief electrician: Also has dull dialogue. Before each shot he yells, "Light 'em." When the shot is made he orders, "Save 'em."

PRESBYTERIAN MEN TO HOLD BANQUET

The Men's Club, of the First Presbyterian Church, will meet Saturday at 6:30 p.m. in the Sunday School rooms for the monthly supper. This club was organized last June and has been growing in numbers month by month.

Officers are as follows: F. V. Allison, president; E. F. Jones, vice-president; Paul Verney, secretary-treasurer; Dr. H. H. Baur, publicity chairman.

All members and any visitors who so desire are urged to attend. The meeting will be a sort of compliment to the pastor, Rev. Ernest Duncan Holloway, who has returned from pursuing advanced studies in Richmond, Va., all summer.

The three principal religions of the Philippines are Roman Catholicism, Protestantism and Mohammedanism.

"About 7 o'clock Saturday night, October 12, 1946, while I was lounging about the barracks, reading a novel by K. Windsor, Johnny Drems, a Belzique (Belgium) and a good comrade of mine even if he is my valet, comes running in and puts a blindfold over my eyes, leads me up to the coffeur (barber shop), that's where the party is thrown, in the barber shop, and as soon as I had stepped in, two clarions (buglers) began blowing the salute of the Legion of Honneur for me. I look around and see a four-man guard of honor in full dress.

Then the Coiffeur who is an ex-French marine steps up and hands me a grand bouquet of gladiola flowers with a big red gardenia in the center. Boy, did I feel like a million dollars. We all get together and drink to my health and to the United States. Next they sang the only English song that they all knew, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." Boy, a toast like that coming from soldiers from every corner of the world is quite something!"

In early 1947 Billy was made infirmary major and transferred to Tiznit where he is still stationed. He is second in command of the hospital and in the abscence of the doctor he diagnoses and prescribes for all types of cases. When he runs out of first-hand knowledge of the sickness he consults a large, black French medical book which he refers to as "my colleague."

His pay has been raised in accordance with his rank. Instead of the original pay of 270 francs he receives 2000 now. According to Billy, who is happy to serve for 15 years until retirement, the best thing of all is that as a major he can buy his own socks. As an enlisted man he received only one pair every five years.

Army schools teach radio operation, motor mechanics, drafting, hospital assistance, baking, cooking, typing, welding, mechanical engineering or any one or more of over 300 techniques needed in the army—and with a high cash value in civilian life.

LONG STATES SECOND PRIMARY UNNECESSARY

The endorsement of his candidacy by former State Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc of Vermilion parish, and Criminal Sheriff John J. Grosch, Sr., of Orleans parish, makes a second primary unnecessary, Earl K. Long, candidate for governor, asserted at his New Orleans headquarters.

"I am happy, indeed," former Governor Long said, "to have the active support of Sheriff Grosch and Mr. LeBlanc.

"Sheriffs throughout the state have asked me who Sheriff Grosch was going to back, and I feel that the Orleans parish sheriff's endorsement of many candidacy will be a spark to my country as well as my city backing.

"It is my opinion that Mr. LeBlanc was responsible for the election of Jones eight years ago and Davis four years ago. With both Mr. LeBlanc and Sheriff Grosch actively supporting me, I feel that a second primary will be unnecessary."

CATAHOULA PARISH TEACHERS ELECT

HARRISONBURG, La., Sept. 20.—(Special) — Officers for the ensuing year will be elected by the Catahoula Parish Teachers Association at a meeting in Harrisonburg Monday afternoon.

J. Eldon Doughty, principal of Block Elementary School and president of the organization, will preside at the parley which will begin at 3:30 p.m.

Howard W. Wright, executive secretary of the Louisiana Teachers Association and former superintendent of Catahoula schools, will be one of the principal speakers on the program. Also scheduled to appear is Dr. J. N. Nason, extension representative of Louisiana State University, who will attempt to organize an extension class for parish teachers.

PYTHIANS FORM SANTHA GROUP

Officers Elected By Charter Members The Past Week

Nomads of Avrudaka, branch of the dramatic order of Knights of Khorassan, on Monday at 127 1/2 St. John Street, instituted a lodge here with 60 charter members, two of whom were from El Dorado, Ark., and were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bell.

Instituting officer of this Santha was Mrs. Bertha Teakin, of Houston, Tex., who was assisted by Mrs. Frances Stinson, also of Houston, and Mrs. Della Eberling, of that city; Mrs. Anna Belle Warden, Mrs. Nell Hannan and Mrs. Nelda Aaron, of Beaumont.

The Monroe Santha will be known as Swami Santha of Nomads of Avrudaka and the following officers were elected:

Mrs. Sara Shows, past regent; Mrs. Inez Edwards, past regent; Mrs. Lenora Eshelman, past regent; Mrs. Edith Gosset, past regent; Dr. H. H. Baur, rajah; Mrs. Montez Baur, rani; Mrs. Anita Causey, princess; Mrs. Freida Henderson, pundita; Mr. Eugene Shows, treasurer; Mrs. Virgie Roark, scribe; Mrs. Inez Brown, purohita; Mrs. Louise Fleet, rishi; Mrs. Hazel Boudreaux, second warder; Mrs. Ruby Pettit, first warder; Mrs. Thelma Roark, saman; Mrs. Edith Lancaster, director of work.

Others will be obligated at the next meeting on October 20. Dr. H. H. Baur performed considerable work in getting up the charter list and members commended him for his efforts.

IN MOVIELAND

By Armand Archerd
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Everyone working in the motion picture industry has a title. Some are accurate, others are—just titles. After you've patrolled the sets for a couple of weeks, these titles take on new meanings. I assure you the following impressions do not originate in Webster's:

Leading man: Usually a nice guy who will be the first to admit, "Heck, I can't act," yet he always gripes about the script.

Cameraman: He tells the director when to shoot.

Makeup man: Always rushes about, wiping beads of perspiration from the brow of the leading man, leading lady or anyone else who gets in the way.

Chief electrician: Also has dull dialogue. Before each shot he yells, "Light 'em." When the shot is made he orders, "Save 'em."

Property man: Is jovially called "prop man." He has interesting jobs, such as oiling noisy armor in period pictures.

Writer: Rarely seen, yet he is blamed for everything.

Extras: The only ones on the set who are completely bored by the proceedings.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN TO HOLD BANQUET

The Men's Club, of the First Presbyterian Church, will meet Saturday at 6:30 p.m. in the Sunday School rooms for the monthly supper. This club was organized last June and has been growing in numbers month by month.

Officers are as follows: F. V. Allison, president; E. F. Jones, vice-president; Paul Verney, secretary-treasurer; Dr. H. H. Baur, publicity chairman.

All members and any visitors who so desire are urged to attend. The meeting will be a sort of compliment to the pastor, Rev. Ernest Duncan Holloway, who has returned from pursuing advanced studies in Richmond, Va., all summer.

A vital message to young men on the new Army Technical School Plan

By now you may realize more than ever the value of specialized knowledge and training. But do you realize the opportunities for getting this training which are open to you in the new Technical School Plan of the Regular Army?

The Army maintains some of the finest technical schools in the world. Any qualified man now in the Army or who enters the Army and qualifies, may attend these schools. But today there is an especially fine educational offer made to high school graduates.

If you are 18 to 34 (17 with parents' consent) and have graduated from high school, you can now select your training course before you enlist in the Army!

You simply go to your U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station and apply for the school of your choice. On this application blank you are given, first, the choice of two different fields of interest, such as electrical and radio, scientific-medical-technical, etc. Second, you may select two specialty courses in each field.

After your application blank is received, the Army will check to make sure there is an opening in one of the four courses you have selected and a place will be reserved for you in that course. Then you enlist for 3, 4 or 5 years and, after passing the necessary mental and physical examinations and completing your basic training, you will be guaranteed training in the course you have selected.

by GEORGE WUNDER
GETTING AWAY FROM THE SCENE OF PATRICK'S RECENT SHERLOCK ACTIVITIES WAS SO SMOOTH! WHY DOES OL' LADY NATURE WANT TO LOUSE US UP?
IT'S THE SANDSTORM WE WERE WARNED ABOUT WHEN WE TOOK OFF — LET US NOT ARGUE WITH IT. INSTEAD, TIE DOWN THOSE THROTTLES AND LET'S HAUL OUT OF HERE.
NO, WAIT A MINUTE! I THINK IT'S MOVING AWAY FROM OUR COURSE. MAYBE WE CAN SKIRT AROUND THE TAIL END OF IT...
IT'S WORTH A CHANCE... IF WE TURN BACK, WE'LL HAVE TO LAND TO REFUEL AT THE FIELD WE JUST LEFT — AND IT'S JUST POSSIBLE THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT, BY NOW, MIGHT KNOW THAT TERRY HAD A HAND IN ERMINE'S ESCAPE AND THAT I ABETTED HIM. IT COULD BE A TRIFLE EMBARRASSING.
SOME TIME LATER...
HEY, WE MADE IT! SEE THOSE HOLES? IT'S THINNING OUT.
SO FAR, SO GOOD! NOW IT'S ABOUT TIME TO TALK TO THE MAN AT OUR NEXT REFUELING STOP AND SEE WHAT KIND OF WEATHER HE'S HAVING.

AIR CATHAY, ONE, ZERO, TWO, TO ADABAN TRAFFIC TOWER... ACKNOWLEDGE...
COME ON IN, AIR CATHAY, ONE, ZERO, TWO. WEATHER HERE'S CAVU... HEY! YOU CHAPS HAVEN'T SEEN ANYTHING OF AN INTER-GLOBAL AIRWAYS SHIP, HAVE YOU? WE'RE MISSING ONE... NO, HUH? YEAH, WE'RE KINDA WORRIED.
WE'RE GOING IN... DOWN LANDING GEAR.
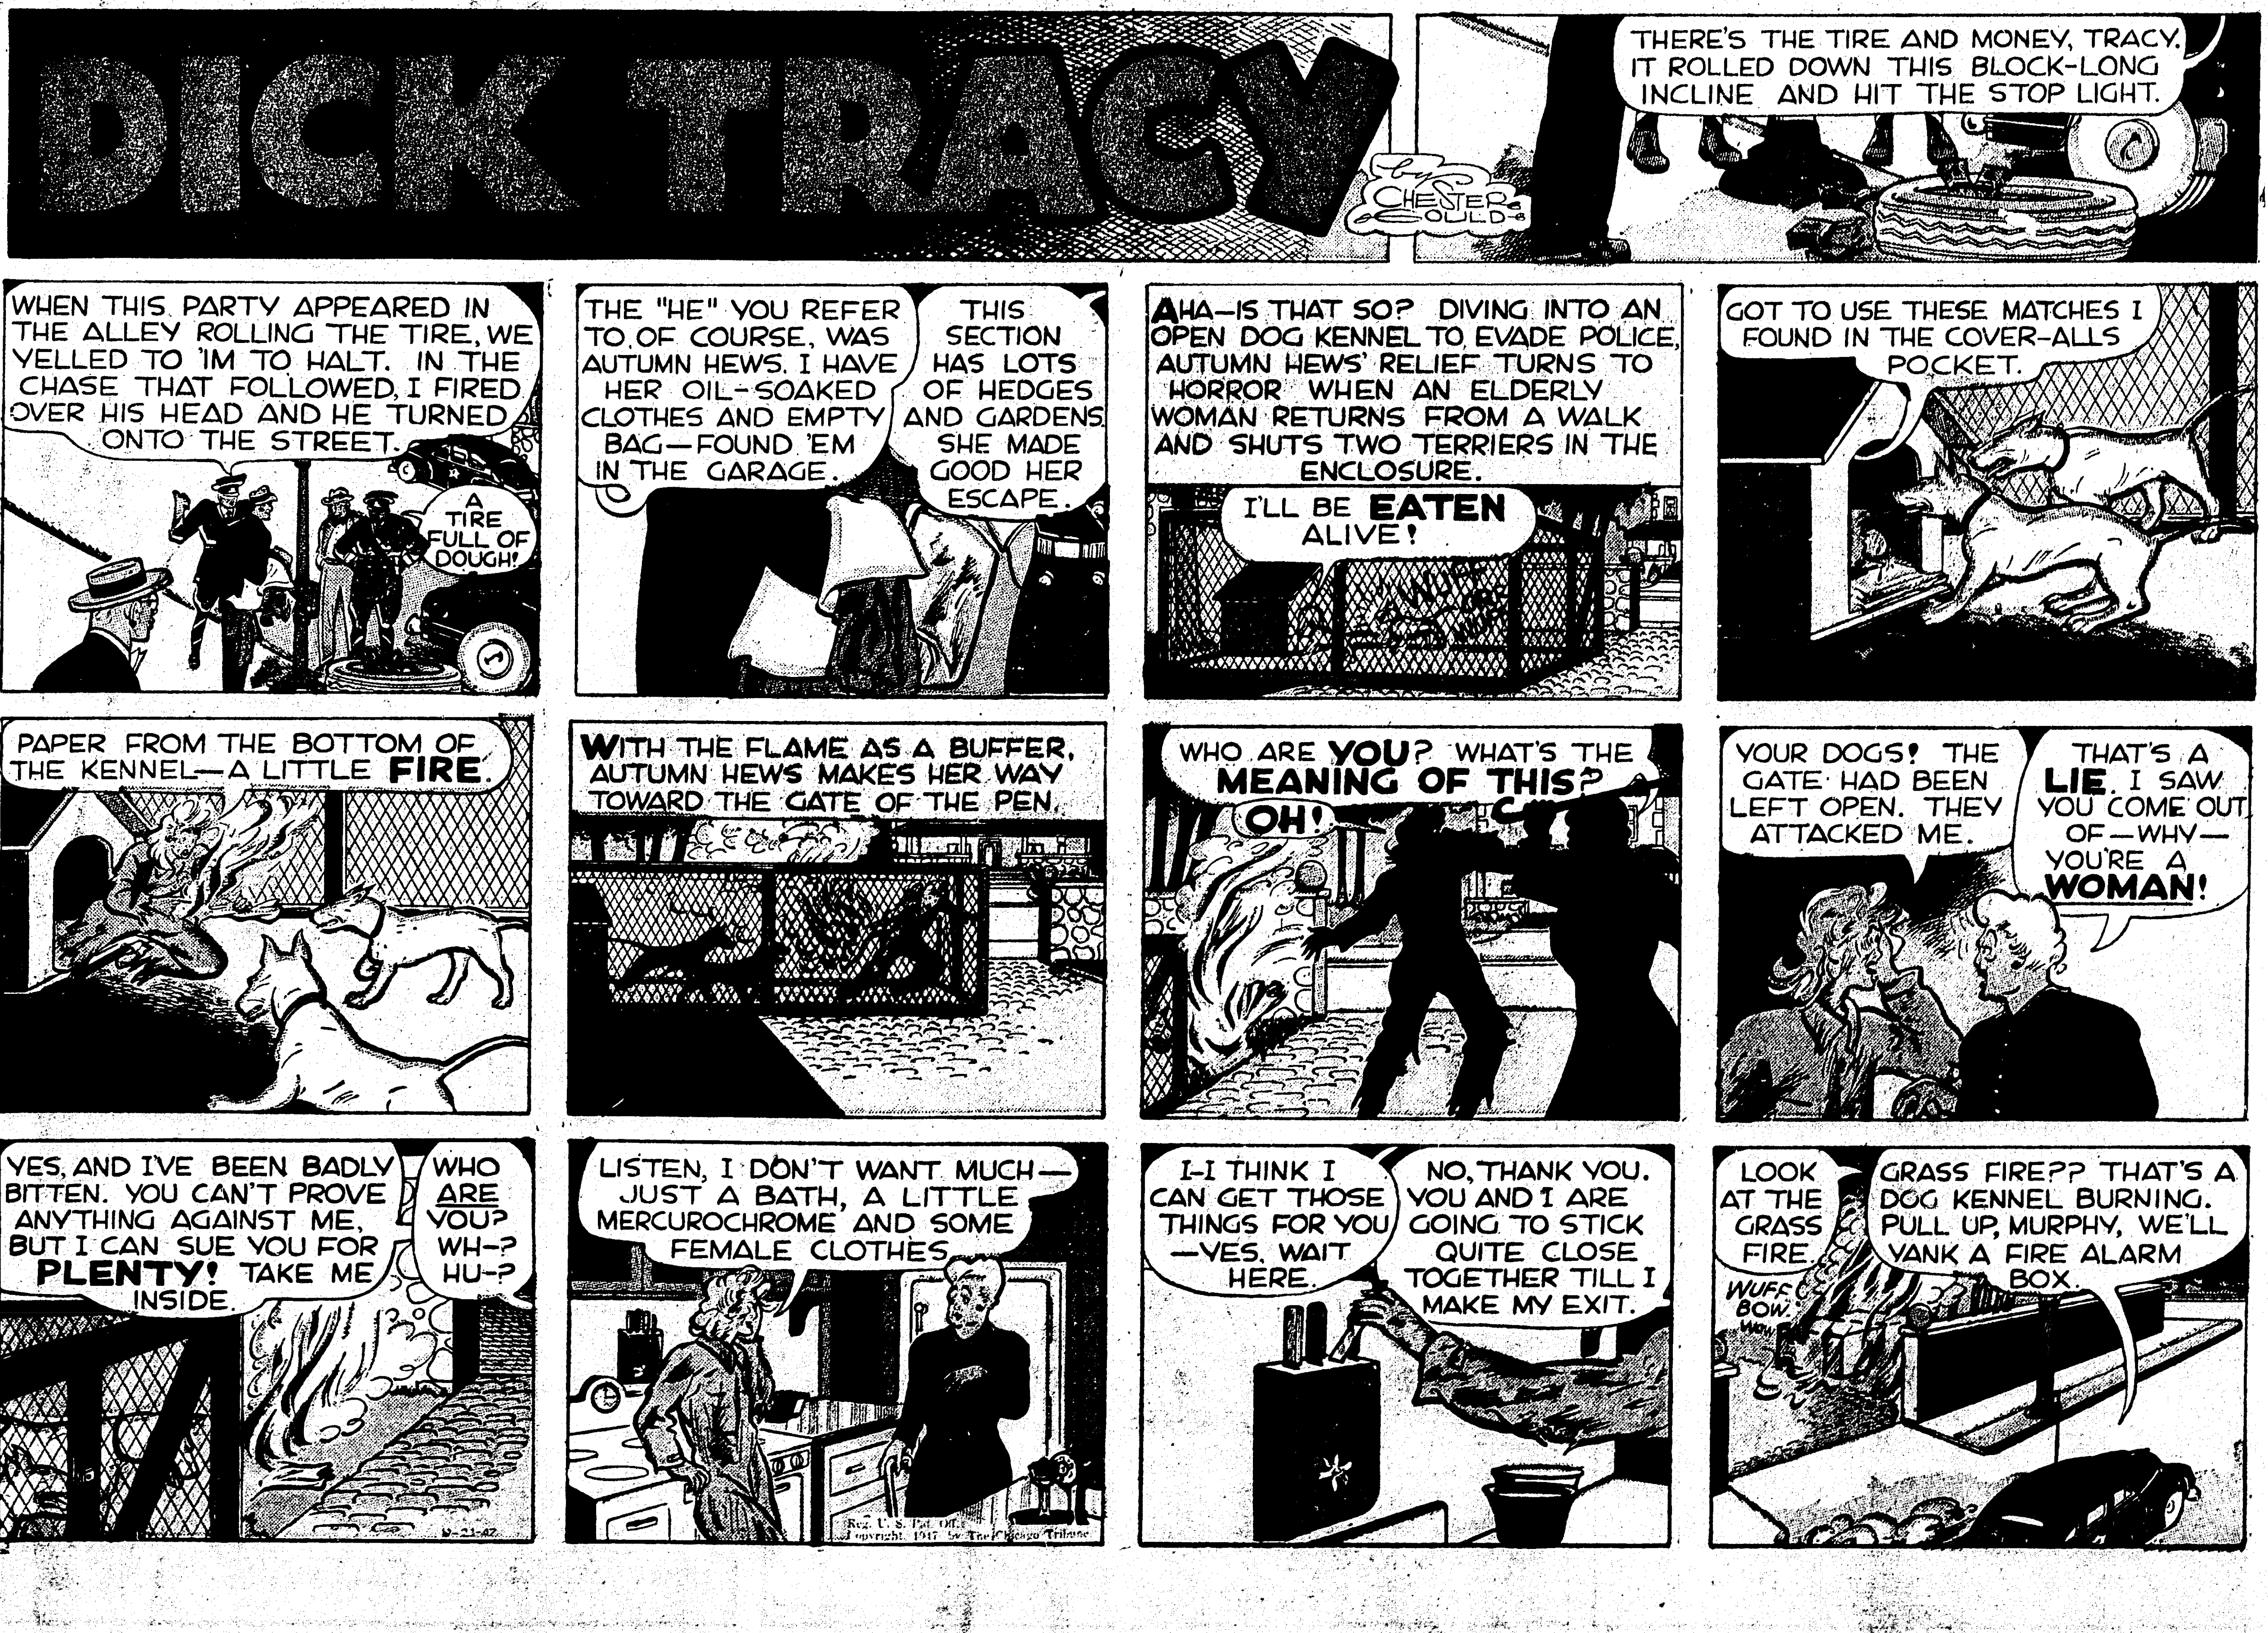
AIR CATHAY
CLEAR THE LANDING STRIP, AT ONCE! THE PASSENGER JOB WE'VE BEEN MISSING JUST REPORTED IN. THEY WERE CAUGHT BY THAT SANDSTORM AND BOUNCED AROUND. THEY MIGHT BE IN TROUBLE.
MEANWHILE, ABOARD INTER-GLOBAL FLIGHT 15.
IT WAS REAL NICE OF YOU BOYS TO PULL US THROUGH THAT ONE. THERE WAS ENOUGH DIRT OUTSIDE THESE WINDOWS TO RAISE A STAND OF CORN IN.
AW—T'WEREN'T NOTHIN', SPRAY.
WAIT'LL YOU SEE US BRING BABY IN ON ONE LEG, ON ACCOUNT OF ONE OF THOSE AIR BUMPS WE TOOK SEEMS TO HAVE JAMMED THE RIGHT LANDING GEAR.



DICK TRACY

WHEN THIS PARTY APPEARED IN THE ALLEY ROLLING THE TIRE, WE YELLED TO 'IM TO HALT. IN THE CHASE THAT FOLLOWED, I FIRED OVER HIS HEAD AND HE TURNED ONTO THE STREET.
A TIRE FULL OF DOUGH!
THE "HE" YOU REFER TO, OF COURSE, WAS AUTUMN HEWS. I HAVE HER OIL-SOAKED CLOTHES AND EMPTY BAG—FOUND 'EM IN THE GARAGE.
THIS SECTION HAS LOTS OF HEDGES AND GARDENS. SHE MADE GOOD HER ESCAPE.
AHA—IS THAT SO? DIVING INTO AN OPEN DOG KENNEL TO EVADE POLICE, AUTUMN HEWS' RELIEF TURNS TO HORROR WHEN AN ELDERLY WOMAN RETURNS FROM A WALK AND SHUTS TWO TERRIERS IN THE ENCLOSURE.
I'LL BE EATEN ALIVE!
GOT TO USE THESE MATCHES I FOUND IN THE COVER-ALLS POCKET.
PAPER FROM THE BOTTOM OF THE KENNEL—A LITTLE FIRE.
WITH THE FLAME AS A BUFFER, AUTUMN HEWS MAKES HER WAY TOWARD THE GATE OF THE PEN.
WHO ARE YOU? WHAT'S THE MEANING OF THIS?
OH!
YOUR DOGS! THE GATE HAD BEEN LEFT OPEN. THEY ATTACKED ME.
THAT'S A LIE. I SAW YOU COME OUT OF—WHY—YOU'RE A WOMAN!
YES, AND I'VE BEEN BADLY BITTEN. YOU CAN'T PROVE ANYTHING AGAINST ME, BUT I CAN SUE YOU FOR PLENTY! TAKE ME INSIDE.

IF WISHES WERE HORSES, AS THE MAN SAID—BUT, PHOOEY!—WHO WANTS A HORSE? NOWADAYS IT'S "IF WISHES WERE BRAND-NEW SEDANS"
WHAT? YOU MEAN TO SAY THE TIDDELYS HAVE INVITED THAT MAN TO DINNER?
SCANDALOUS, I SAY!
IMAGINE! A MAN LIKE THAT IN YOUR HOUSE!
HE CURED CHIEF UPGO'S KID'S LEGS!
WHAT DOES HE THINK HE IS? A HEALER?

SO IT'S HYPNOSIS! IF IT WORKS, IS THAT BAD?
PFAUGH! THAT COMMON TRAMP!
OH, I DON'T KNOW··· FROM ALL REPORTS HE SEEMS AT LEAST AN UNCOMMON TRAMP!
IT WAS VERY KIND OF YOU TO INVITE ME TO DINNER IN YOUR HOME, MRS. TIDDELY···
NONSENSE··· IT WAS NICE OF YOU TO COME··· WE DON'T SET SUCH A FANCY TABLE···
THAT WAS A DELICIOUS MEAL··· YOU ARE A WONDERFUL COOK, MRS. TIDDELY···
HA! I OUGHT TO BE, SPENDING JUST ABOUT EVERY WAKIN' HOUR IN THE KITCHEN, THE WAY I DO···
BUT I MIGHT AS WELL··· NOT MUCH INCENTIVE TO GAD, WITH NO CAR··· AND WITH MY CORNS··· COURSE, IF WE HAD A CAR···
BUT WHY DON'T YOU HAVE A CAR?
HA! WHY DON'T WE? OH, WE REALLY CAN'T AFFORD TO BUY ONE··· BUT I DON'T MIND SO MUCH··· I JUST LIKE TO SORT OF DREAM, SOMETIMES···
DREAMS! THEY CAN BE VERY REAL··· THEY CAN COME TRUE···
HEY! AUNTIE PIETY! IT'S LONG DISTANCE FROM THE CITY··· A MAN'S VOICE···
MERCY! FOR ME? LONG DISTANCE? WHO ON EARTH CAN IT BE?
HELLO? YES! THIS IS MRS. PIETY TIDDELY··· YES··· YES, I DID SEND A LETTER IN ON THAT CONTEST··· WHAT? SAY THAT AGAIN! WHAT?
I WON IT? A BRAND-NEW SEDAN? OH-H-H! OHMIGOSH!
OH, WHAT YOU SAID!
QUICK! WATER! AUNT PIETY'S FAINTED!
A CAR! JUST WHAT I'VE DREAMED ABOUT··· IT'S OURS!··· WHAT WAS IT JOE CHRISTMAS JUST SAID? DREAMS CAN COME TRUE!

IT WAS VERY KIND OF YOU TO INVITE ME TO DINNER IN YOUR HOME, MRS. TIDDELY---
NONSENSE--- IT WAS NICE OF YOU TO COME --- WE DON'T SET SUCH A FANCY TABLE---
HA! I OUGHT TO BE, SPENDING JUST ABOUT EVERY WAKIN' HOUR IN THE KITCHEN, THE WAY I DO---
BUT I MIGHT AS WELL--- NOT MUCH INCENTIVE TO GAD, WITH NO CAR--- AND WITH MY CORNS--- COURSE, IF WE HAD A CAR---
BUT WHY DON'T YOU HAVE A CAR?
HA! WHY DON'T WE? OH, WE REALLY CAN'T AFFORD TO BUY ONE --- BUT I DON'T MIND SO MUCH--- I JUST LIKE TO SORT OF DREAM, SOMETIMES---
DREAMS! THEY CAN BE VERY REAL--- THEY CAN COME TRUE---

AT THE RESORT HOTEL WHERE JACK SPENDS HIS WEEKENDS THE "HEAD'S" AGENT, MISS GUIDED MISSILE, IS TRYING TO MEET JACK SO SHE CAN LURE HIM TO THE "HEAD'S" HIDEAWAY!
JUST WHEN MISS MISSILE THOUGHT JACK WAS GOING TO INTRODUCE HIMSELF--- HE WALKED BY HER AND FELL INTO THE ARMS OF A GORGEOUS BRUNETTE!
